Group Plans 'Depressed' Area Check

Douglas Committee To Determine Need For Aid Program

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Paul H. Douglas will gather more testimony on a grass roots level to determine the need for his 389-million dollar aid plan for chronically depressed areas.

The Illinois Democrat, head of the Senate Production and Stabilization Subcommittee, has scheduled hearings for his subcommittee in Detroit March 2; at Charleston W. Va. March 4; at Beckley, W. Va. March 5; and at Morgantown, W. Va. March 6, it was announced Wednesday.

Douglas said an appeal to voters over President Eisenhower's head would be made by backers of the 389 million dollar program if he vetoes their proposal again this year.

Will Fight Veto

He warned his group of 33 Democrats and six Republicans would not accept another veto without a fight in opening hearings on the bill by his subcommittee.

"We shall seek to take the issue to the people in all proper ways," if the measure is again vetoed, he stated.

Rep. James E. Van Zandt, Altoona, Blair County, in a compromise move, is seeking approval of his 158-million dollar plan. Van Zandt said Eisenhower would veto bills he found unacceptable and that Congress would back him.

Urges Approval

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen (Ill.), urged approval of the President's 55 million dollar redevelopment program. He said it would aid depressed areas and not upset the President's economy plans.

Sen. John Sherman Cooper (R-Ky.) is the principal Republican co-sponsor of the bill advocated by Douglas.

The Douglas-Cooper bill has also been endorsed by Democratic Rep. Daniel J. Flood of Wilkes Barre, who has sponsored a similar proposal in the House. According to Flood, some 25,000 of the 300,000 persons in his district were out of work.

Not Beggars

"We are not beggars, we just want you to help us help ourselves," Flood said.

Another compromise measure costing 200 - million dollars has been presented by Sen. Hugh Scott (R-Pa.). The Philadelphia senator's bill would allow the federal government to lend up to 50 per cent of the cost of area redevelopment projects. The Douglas - Cooper bill would permit 65 per cent federal participation.

Scott said his proposal was "a reasonable approach to certain differences which resulted last year in the pocket veto of an urgently needed program."

Sen. Robert C. Byrd (D-W.Va.) is a member of the subcommittee.

Byrd said Sen. Jennings Randolph (D-W. Va.), who with him were among co-sponsors of the Douglass bill, probably would sit in on two of the hearings as a "guest." Byrd may be the only committee member at the hearings.

Probe Of Labor Political Tactics, Spending Looms

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Labor-Management Committee plans an extensive investigation of labor unions' tactics and spending in political campaigns, Sen. Karl E. Mundt (R-SD) said today.

Mundt, the committee's vice chairman, predicted the inquiry will deal at some length with:

1. Whether some union flower funds—set up to buy flowers for members who are sick or have died—are used only for those purposes.

2. Whether federal laws forbidding unions to participate in federal election campaigns have been violated or circumvented.

Controversy Seen

The inquiry is believed certain to plunge the committee's four Democratic and four Republican members into bitter controversy. An investigation of Walter Reuther's United Auto Workers union last year touched off such a squabble.

The UAW and many other labor unions traditionally support Democrats against Republican candidates.

Republican members raised some critical questions about UAW flower funds during last year's inquiry, but the committee refrained from ordering an audit of those funds at the time.

Right-To-Work Actions

One committee member, Sen. Barry Goldwater (R-Ariz), was described as proposing that the new inquiry embrace the explosive subject of unions' tactics in last November's election campaign against "right to work" laws. Such measures were defeated in five of the six states in which they were voted on last fall.

The committee's chairman, Sen. John L. McClellan (D-Ark) confirmed that the right to work issue had been mentioned Wednesday in a closed meeting, but he said no motions were made or votes taken. He declined to elaborate.

The committee wound up its public hearings Wednesday on alleged extortion rackets in Chicago area jukebox and game machine operations.

Both men died before midnight of natural causes.

Payton Gets Cheers From Plant Pickets

HENDERSON, N.C. (AP)—Extra highway patrolmen and a steady rain served to minimize activities in the strike at the Henderson-Harriest Cotton Mills here today.

The crowds of about 150 persons each stood in a pouring rain and watched as about 100 or so workers reported to their jobs at the mills' North Henderson and South Henderson plants.

Only three instances of rock throwing were observed. Boyd Payton of Charlotte, regional vice president of the Textile Workers Union of America, was cheered when he arrived at the picket line this morning. (Payton is a former official of Local 1874, Cumberland.)

Payton was lured to the door of his motel room early Tuesday and struck on the head with a pop bottle. He was released from a hospital Wednesday.

Gov. Luther Hodges sent in 14 extra highway patrolmen, bringing to 29 the patrol force on the scene.

Federal conciliator Yates Heafner was to arrive today to participate in the negotiations.

East Zone Reds Want Marriage Pledge Revised

BIELFIELD, Germany (AP) — Communist East Germany wants to replace the "love, honor and obey" in the marriage ceremony.

Evangelische Welt, official organ of the German Protestant Church, said the Red regime is suggesting newlyweds exchange this vow: "We pledge to maintain Socialist achievements and increase the state power of workers and peasants. We promise we will respect each other, will help care for and help each other, will help each other's professional and cultural development, will make our decisions jointly and will be indissolubly true to each other."

Move Starts To Head Off Africa Riots

Security Forces Arrest Agitators, Political Leaders

By ERIC ROBINS

SALISBURY, Southern Rhodesia (UPI) — Security forces striking before dawn rounded up nationalist agitators throughout this troubled colony today, launching the first major crackdown on the anti-white violence that has swept Africa this week.

The colony-wide roundup, aimed at leaders of political organizations which have been a focus of unrest, was ordered under the terms of a state of emergency proclaimed by Prime Minister Sir Edgar Whitehead.

"Instructions have been given under the emergency powers to detain all officeholders and executive members of the four African congresses and all branch officials simultaneously . . ." Whitehead said.

Operation Success

"Operations were synchronized to start at 2 a.m., and so far have been completely successful. Most of the men affected have been rounded up."

The total number of persons arrested could not be determined.

Anti-white agitation is raging in territories spanning Africa from sea to sea and from the Congo jungles to the Cape of Good Hope.

Sullen strikes and savage rioting are the hallmarks of a menacing although apparently uncoordinated upsurge of native resentment of the authority of the Dark Continent's vastly - outnumbered white men.

The most serious outbreak reported in the past 24 hours occurred at Ft. Hill in northern Nyasaland, where Negro rioters blocked the airfield with tree trunks and huge boulders and seized a customs post dominating the protectorate's main north-south highway.

Troops On Way

Troops and police were reported on the way from neighboring Tanganyika to deal with the Ft. Hill mobs.

Elsewhere in Nyasaland, the situation was reported "at the boiling point" in Lilongwe, where two Africans were killed and one injured in a clash between troops and rioters earlier this week.

GOP Backs Long-Range Report Plan

Committee Named To Draft Statement On Party Principles

WASHINGTON (AP) — A move by National Chairman Meade Alcorn to draft a statement of long-range Republican party objectives won support today from GOP members of Congress.

Alcorn announced after a conference with President Eisenhower Wednesday the appointment of a 44-member committee to draft a statement of party principles. The group will be headed by Charles H. Percy, president of the Bell & Howell Co., Chicago.

Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, chairman of the Republican Senatorial Campaign Committee, said "it certainly is worth a try" for party members to attempt to define where they are going.

"We can't get hurt trying this approach and if the members of the committee can come to an agreement on Republican principles it will indicate that the party can do the same," Goldwater said.

Alcorn said he expects the committee, which meets here March 13-14, to have ready by Sept. 1 a statement covering such topics as civil rights, agriculture, labor, monetary policy and other areas.

Saying that the committee represents "all segments of Republican party thinking," Alcorn said he invited only one Republican governor, Cecil Underwood of West Virginia, to join the group.

Alcorn named Sen. Everett Dirksen of Illinois and Rep. Charles Halleck of Indiana, party leaders in the two houses, as the only congressional members.

Faces Crucial Hurdle

Hawaii Statehood Bill Goes To Rules Group

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Congress labored today to extend America's boundaries far into the blue Pacific by making Hawaii the 50th state.

The statehood bill faced a crucial hurdle in the powerful and traditionally-hostile House Rules Committee. But prospects were good that the group would grant its approval.

At the same time, the Senate territories subcommittee worked behind closed doors to polish up its statehood measure after virtually no opposition was voiced at one-day public hearing.

Supporters are pushing for Senate and House passage before Congress goes home for its Easter vacation March 26.

Despite past opposition, there were strong indications that the House Rules Committee, which funnels legislation to the floor, would approve Hawaiian statehood rather than risk a scrap with the bill's backers.

These supporters have threatened to invoke a special parliamentary action to get the bill to the House if the committee holds it back. This maneuver was used to get a House vote when the rules committee tried to bottle-up the Alaskan statehood measure last year.

It's Not Boss Who's Victim

LONDON (UPI)—It is not the boss who has a heart attack, Dr. Robert Piper, medical officer of one of Britain's biggest corporations, said Wednesday.

"The man at the top often seems to have little or nothing to do," he told a conference of industrial health officers. "When you ask him a question he presses a button and a harassed-looking little man appears to find the answer.

"He is the one who gets the thrombosis."

Coal Industry Asks Equality Of Treatment

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Soft coal management and labor, along with related industrial and utility interests, presented today a united lobby in an effort to press for equality of treatment with other industries.

Formation of the National Coal Policy Conference was announced here Wednesday. Its membership includes soft coal operators, United Mine Workers officials and representatives of railroads, electric utilities and mining equipment manufacturers.

The association, which was to register with Congress as a lobby, would represent the interests of coal and related industries against oil, government or nuclear energy proposals which would prove detrimental to the coal industry.

The group will not "seek or expect favoritism," said George H. Love, board chairman of Consolidation Coal Co. of Pittsburgh and chairman of the conference.

The group announced at a press conference that its objectives would include an increase in income tax depletion allowances, a mandatory government limit on imports of crude and residual oil and opposition to nuclear energy installations where they would cut into coal markets.

Police Officer, Companion Face Slaying Charge

NEW YORK (AP) — A police officer and his companion were charged today in the rape-slaying of a 60-year-old widow.

Police said Mrs. Viola Mirman of Brooklyn was dragged into a car Monday, beaten with fists and a blackjack, raped and abandoned in a parking lot.

A tip to authorities led to the arrest Wednesday night of Patrolman Francis J. Rogers, 26, and Thomas Murtha, 22, a truck driver.

Deputy Police Commissioner Walter Arm said Rogers, who was off duty, admitted beating the woman, but denied raping her. Rogers accused Murtha of the rape. Murtha also denied raping Mrs. Mirman, but told of beating her.

Violent Blast Rocks British Nuclear Plant

Two Die, One Hurt; No Radioactivity Is Involved In Accident

ALDERMASTON, England (AP) — A violent explosion rocked Britain's big H-bomb research base here today after somebody dropped an explosive charge. Two men were killed and one injured.

Officials announced there was no radioactivity hazard to the staff or the general public.

The explosion set doors and windows rattling in the village of Aldermaston, two miles away, where 300 people live. Fire engines screamed through the village streets. But there was no panic.

"We get used to living close to this thing," said Woodley Thomas, 19, a clerk at the ivy-covered post office.

The British Atomic Energy Commission said the accident occurred as the explosive was being unloaded from a vehicle. The vehicle was destroyed and a fire broke out, damaging a nearby building extensively. The fire was soon put out.

"The explosive was of a conventional type and no radioactive materials were involved," the commission said. "There is no radioactivity hazard to staff or to the general public."

The Aldermaston base lies up a leafy lane near the village and is screened by trees. It houses Britain's biggest hydrogen bomb plant.

Aldermaston is 45 miles west of London.

(Two employes of the Los Alamos, N. M., atomic laboratory were killed Tuesday in an explosion of nonradioactive material.)

Platform Mishap Kills 11 Children

SAN LUIS, Mexico (AP) — Eleven school children who stepped up to pledge allegiance to the Mexican flag are dead, killed when the platform gave way.

Twenty-three other adults and children suffered serious injuries in the accident during a festival celebration Tuesday night in the farming community of Estacion Coahuila, 18 miles south of here.

Official Says Neither Side Budges Inch

Parleys Reported Ended; Khrushchev Shuns Kiev Flight

KIEV, Ukraine (AP — The Macmillan-Khrushchev talks have ended with neither side "budging an inch," a British spokesman said here today.

KIEV, Ukraine (AP) — British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan flew into this capital of Ukraine today without the promised company of Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

The absence of Khrushchev indicated a further cooling off in relations.

British sources said that prior to his departure for Kiev, Macmillan sternly warned Khrushchev that any attempt to interfere with Western rights in Berlin would be fraught with danger.

Has 'Bad Tooth'

A British spokesman said Khrushchev told Macmillan at a meeting in the Kremlin this morning he had a bad tooth and must have it filled.

Diplomats wondered whether this was a diplomatic illness.

The British have made no secret that relations between the two delegations have worsened since Khrushchev's speech on Tuesday in which he virtually rejected Western proposals for a Big Four foreign ministers meeting on Germany.

It became known that Macmillan and Khrushchev have virtually ended their talks on world problems.

Plan Communique

The expectation was they would meet formally Monday to draw up a communique.

Diplomatic sources said the communique likely would touch only slightly on international affairs, and would express agreement in principle to have more trade and more cultural exchanges.

The talks thus appeared to have made little headway in reconciling British and Western policies with those of the Soviet Union.

In a chilly political atmosphere, Macmillan made it clear to Khrushchev at a meeting in the Kremlin that any attempt to interfere with the Western powers'

Couple Tried To Kill Child

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Charges of attempting to kill a retarded six-year-old boy with poisoned candy have been filed against a California couple.

Phoenix officers were to go to Los Angeles today to pick up Mrs. Edna F. Howard, 36, and James L. Will, 38, her former husband, both of Pasadena, Calif.

They are charged with trying to poison Michael Howard, son of the woman by an earlier marriage. The charge carries a maximum penalty of 10 years to life.

An official of the Valley of the Sun School for Handicapped Children uncovered the poisoned candy Wednesday when she disregarded instructions to see that it went only to Michael.

As Mrs. Bernice Kussell, school superintendent, broke up the candy for distribution among all the children, she discovered two capsules later found to contain lethal dog worm medicine.

The discovery led to the arrest of the couple in Los Angeles.

Atlantic Plane Fare Boosted

PARIS (AP)—The International Air Transport Assn. today boosted all transatlantic fares two per cent and added a special charge on jet flights.

The action added $30 to the cost of a round-trip economy or tourist transatlantic jet flight. For the first-class jet passenger the increase amounts to $40.

The increases were demanded by many lines which do not yet have jets in transatlantic service and were losing business steadily on their propeller-driven craft.

The new rates go into effect April 1 subject to the approval of the governments involved.

The new first-class fares will be $440 one way between New York and London. The additional charge for "de luxe" will be $10 more and jet travel will be $20 more.

Graham Continues Crusade Despite Recurring Ailment

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP—A recurrence of eye infection kept evangelist Billy Graham in bed today. But he will go on with his Melbourne crusade, said the Rev. Grady Wilson, a member of Graham's evangelical team.

"The eye trouble has been with him ever since the Melbourne crusade began almost a fortnight ago," Wilson said.

The infection delayed Graham's departure from the United States for Australia early this month. He spent two weeks in Hawaii recuperating from it.

The doctors have advised Graham to rest as much as possible and told him to cut his sermons from 60 to 35 minutes to reduce the strain.

About 200,000 persons so far have attended Graham's Melbourne meetings, which began 11 days ago.

The evangelist told a capacity crowd of 25,000 Wednesday night to pray for "Macmillan in Moscow, and Dulles and all other world leaders who are working for peace."

Hungry Workers Discover Good Samaritan In Priest

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Hungry farm workers who traveled hundreds of miles desperate for $6 a day jobs, only to find neither work nor shelter, had brighter prospects today.

They could thank a slight, compassionate man in black clothing —the Rev. Richard A. Crowley.

For days they had barely enough food to keep alive. Men, women and children camped in the open, along ditch banks, without protection from winter rains and freezing night temperatures.

Cotton crop failures in Arizona threw the people out of work. They heard rumors crops were ready to be picked in Nevada's Moapa Valley near Overton, 65 miles northeast of Las Vegas. Hopefully they headed north, 300 strong.

They found the harvest late and farmers' housing already bulging with hundreds of other workers who follow the crops. Until the onion, radish and tomato crops ripened, there would be far more workers than jobs.

"The only thing these people have to bargain with is their hunger," says Father Crowley, a Roman Catholic priest.

He visited the workers' camps daily, in a borrowed truck, with meager offerings of food and clothing he has collected from donors.

For a week State Labor Commissioner George Jolly was on the scene, sent by Gov. Grant

Committee Named To Draft Statement On Party Principles

WASHINGTON (AP) — A move by National Chairman Meade Alcorn to draft a statement of long-range Republican party objectives won support today from GOP members of Congress.

Alcorn announced after a conference with President Eisenhower Wednesday the appointment of a 44-member committee to draft a statement of party principles. The group will be headed by Charles H. Percy, president of the Bell & Howell Co., Chicago.

Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, chairman of the Republican Senatorial Campaign Committee, said "it certainly is worth a try" for party members to attempt to define where they are going.

"We can't get hurt trying this approach and if the members of the committee can come to an agreement on Republican principles it will indicate that the party can do the same," Goldwater said.

Alcorn said he expects the committee, which meets here March 13-14, to have ready by Sept. 1 a statement covering such topics as civil rights, agriculture, labor, monetary policy and other areas.

Saying that the committee represents "all segments of Republican party thinking," Alcorn said he invited only one Republican governor, Cecil Underwood of West Virginia, to join the group.

Alcorn named Sen. Everett Dirksen of Illinois and Rep. Charles Halleck of Indiana, party leaders in the two houses, as the only congressional members.

Negroes Protest Edict By Stores

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — A group of Negroes have scheduled a parade downtown Saturday morning to protest refusal of five department stores to open their restaurants to Negroes.

Faces Crucial Hurdle

Hawaii Statehood Bill Goes To Rules Group

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Congress labored today to extend America's boundaries far into the blue Pacific by making Hawaii the 50th state.

The statehood bill faced a crucial hurdle in the powerful and traditionally-hostile House Rules Committee. But prospects were good that the group would grant its approval.

At the same time, the Senate territories subcommittee worked behind closed doors to polish up its statehood measure after virtually no opposition was voiced at one-day public hearing.

Supporters are pushing for Senate and House passage before Congress goes home for its Easter vacation March 26.

Despite past opposition, there were strong indications that the House Rules Committee, which funnels legislation to the floor, would approve Hawaiian statehood rather than risk a scrap with the bill's backers.

These supporters have threatened to invoke a special parliamentary action to get the bill to the House if the committee holds back. This maneuver was used to get a House vote when the rules committee tried to bottle-up the Alaskan statehood measure last year.

It's Not Boss Who's Victim

LONDON (UPI)—It is not the boss who has a heart attack, Dr. Robert Piper, medical officer of one of Britain's biggest corporations, said Wednesday.

"The man at the top often seems to have little or nothing to do," he told a conference of industrial health officers. "When you ask him a question he presses a button and a harassed-looking little man appears to find the answer.

"He is the one who gets the thrombosis."

Coal Industry Asks Equality Of Treatment

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Soft coal management and labor, along with related industrial and utility interests, presented today a united lobby in an effort to press for equality of treatment with other industries.

Formation of the National Coal Policy Conference was announced here Wednesday. Its membership includes soft coal operators, United Mine Workers officials and representatives of railroads, electric utilities and mining equipment manufacturers.

The association, which was to register with Congress as a lobby, would represent the interests of coal and related industries against oil, government or nuclear energy proposals which would prove detrimental to the coal industry.

The group will not "seek or expect favoritism," said George H. Love, board chairman of Consolidation Coal Co. of Pittsburgh and chairman of the conference.

The group announced at a press conference that its objectives would include an increase in income tax depletion allowances, a mandatory government limit on imports of crude and residual oil and opposition to nuclear energy installations where they would cut into coal markets.

Police Officer, Companion Face Slaying Charge

NEW YORK (AP) — A police officer and his companion were charged today in the rape-slaying of a 60-year-old widow.

Police said Mrs. Viola Mirman of Brooklyn was dragged into a car Monday, beaten with fists and a blackjack, raped and abandoned in a parking lot.

A tip to authorities led to the arrest Wednesday night of Patrolman Francis J. Rogers, 26, and Thomas Murtha, 22, a truck driver.

Deputy Police Commissioner Walter Arm said Rogers, who was off duty, admitted beating the woman, but denied raping her. Rogers accused Murtha of the rape. Murtha also denied raping Mrs. Mirman, but told of beating her.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Clare Boothe Luce, former envoy to Italy, was nominated by President Eisenhower today to be ambassador to Brazil.

Violent Blast Rocks British Nuclear Plant

Two Die, One Hurt; No Radioactivity Is Involved In Accident

ALDERMASTON, England (AP) — A violent explosion rocked Britain's big H-bomb research base here today after somebody dropped an explosive charge. Two men were killed and one injured.

Officials announced there was no radioactivity hazard to the staff or the general public.

The explosion set doors and windows rattling in the village of Aldermaston, two miles away, where 300 people live. Fire engines screamed through the village streets. But there was no panic.

"We get used to living close to this thing," said Woodley Thomas, 19, a clerk at the ivy-covered post office.

The British Atomic Energy Commission said the accident occurred as the explosive was being unloaded from a vehicle. The vehicle was destroyed and a fire broke out, damaging a nearby building extensively. The fire was soon put out.

"The explosive was of a conventional type and no radioactive materials were involved," the commission said. "There is no radioactivity hazard to staff or to the general public."

The Aldermaston base lies up a leafy lane near the village and is screened by trees. It houses Britain's biggest hydrogen bomb plant.

Aldermaston is 45 miles west of London.

(Two employes of the Los Alamos, N. M., atomic laboratory were killed Tuesday in an explosion of nonradioactive material.)

Platform Mishap Kills 11 Children

SAN LUIS, Mexico (AP) — Eleven school children who stepped up to pledge allegiance to the Mexican flag are dead, killed when the platform gave way.

Twenty-three other adults and children suffered serious injuries in the accident during a festival celebration Tuesday night in the farming community of Estacion Coahuila, 18 miles south of here.

Official Says Neither Side Budges Inch

Parleys Reported Ended; Khrushchev Shuns Kiev Flight

KIEV, Ukraine (AP — The Macmillan-Khrushchev talks have ended with neither side "budging an inch," a British spokesman said here today.

KIEV, Ukraine (AP) — British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan flew into this capital of Ukraine today without the promised company of Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

The absence of Khrushchev indicated a further cooling off in relations.

British sources said that prior to his departure for Kiev, Macmillan sternly warned Khrushchev that any attempt to interfere with Western rights in Berlin would be fraught with danger.

Has 'Bad Tooth'

A British spokesman said Khrushchev told Macmillan at a meeting in the Kremlin this morning he had a bad tooth and must have it filled.

Diplomats wondered whether this was a diplomatic illness.

The British have made no secret that relations between the two delegations have worsened since Khrushchev's speech on Tuesday in which he virtually rejected Western proposals for a Big Four foreign ministers meeting on Germany.

It became known that Macmillan and Khrushchev have virtually ended their talks on world problems.

Plan Communique

The expectation was they would meet formally Monday to draw up a communique.

Diplomatic sources said the communique likely would touch only slightly on international affairs, and would express agreement in principle to have more trade and more cultural exchanges.

The talks thus appeared to have made little headway in reconciling British and Western policies with those of the Soviet Union.

In a chilly political atmosphere, Macmillan made it clear to Khrushchev at a meeting in the Kremlin that any attempt to interfere with the Western powers'

Couple Tried To Kill Child

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Charges of attempting to kill a retarded six-year-old boy with poisoned candy have been filed against a California couple.

Phoenix officers were to go to Los Angeles today to pick up Mrs. Edna F. Howard, 36, and James L. Will, 38, her former husband, both of Pasadena, Calif.

They are charged with trying to poison Michael Howard, son of the woman by an earlier marriage. The charge carries a maximum penalty of 10 years to life.

An official of the Valley of the Sun School for Handicapped Children uncovered the poisoned candy Wednesday when she disregarded instructions to see that it went only to Michael.

As Mrs. Bernice Kussell, school superintendent, broke up the candy for distribution among all the children, she discovered two capsules later found to contain lethal dog worm medicine.

The discovery led to the arrest of the couple in Los Angeles.

Hungry Workers Discover Good Samaritan In Priest

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Hungry farm workers who traveled hundreds of miles desperate for $6 a day jobs, only to find neither work nor shelter, had brighter prospects today.

They could thank a slight, compassionate man in black clothing—the Rev. Richard A. Crowley.

For days they had barely enough food to keep alive. Men, women and children camped in the open, along ditch banks, without protection from winter rains and freezing night temperatures.

Cotton crop failures in Arizona threw the people out of work. They heard rumors crops were ready to be picked in Nevada's Moapa Valley near Overton, 65 miles northeast of Las Vegas. Hopefully they headed north, 300 strong.

They found the harvest late and farmers' housing already bulging with hundreds of other workers who follow the crops. Until the onion, radish and tomato crops ripened, there would be far more workers than jobs.

"The only thing these people have to bargain with is their hunger," says Father Crowley, a Roman Catholic priest.

He visited the workers' camps daily, in a borrowed truck, with meager offerings of food and clothing he has collected from donors.

West Fears Of Germany Crisis Build

Khrushchev Oratory Sets Off Speculation Over Berlin's Future

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Western fears of a dangerous Berlin crisis late this spring are beginning to build up again under the impact of Nikita Khrushchev's oratory.

Unless the Soviet government can be drawn into high level negotiations on German issues in the next two or three months, authorities here are not sure what may happen. But they see an increasing possibility that in his present cocky, confident mood the Soviet premier may try some extremely risky moves.

United States officials still cling to the hope that Khrushchev will agree to a foreign ministers meeting for late April or early May. His speech in Moscow Tuesday rejecting negotiations about German reunification does not constitute a real answer to the Western proposal of Feb. 16 for a Big Four session, informants said.

Ike Appraisal Gloomy

But President Eisenhower's rather gloomy appraisal of the outlook at his news conference Wednesday seemed to reflect a growing uncertainty over the possibility of actually getting serious negotiations started.

Eisenhower said Khrushchev had displayed an "obviously, palpably intransigent attitude" in his speech and though there was nothing very new in it the tone and the timing were matters of concern.

Noting that the speech came in the midst of Khrushchev's talks with British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan, Eisenhower said the development "is not one that, certainly, you could call hopeful."

Two-Point Policy

He then defined a two-point policy for the United States in the present situation. First, he said "we are not going to give one single inch in the preservation of our rights" to maintain the Western position in West Berlin and to move supplies into that city.

Second, Eisenhower said that this country and its allies are "always ready to negotiate when the other person will give us the slightest area or region in which to negotiate."

But he added that he could not see "very much use for conferences" or much promise for negotiation if the present Soviet attitude continues.

Church Council Studies Housing Discrimination

HARTFORD, Conn. (UPI)—The National Council of Churches governing body today considered a proposed resolution asking its 38 million U.S. Protestant members to wipe out discrimination in housing because of race or religion.

The housing resolution deferred from Wednesday was expected to highlight this closing session of the two-day winter meeting of the general board of the council.

Also scheduled was a panel discussion on peaceful uses of atomic energy. Panel members were Victor Reuther, assistant to the president of the United Auto Workers Union; Dr. Shields Warren, pathologist and former consultant to the Atomic Energy Commission; the Rev. Robert F. MacGregor, dean of Trinity Cathedral in Newark, N.J. and former rector of the Oak Ridge, Tenn. parish; and Edwin A. Wiggin, a New York businessman who heads an industrial group studying atomic energy.

The body was asked to take a stand on "right to work" issues but this was dropped from the agenda because of a crowded schedule.

The board Wednesday appealed to the 33 Protestant denominations in the council to "uphold the right and duty of the church to study and comment upon issues of human concern, however controversial."

It is the right of church groups as well as citizens to "discuss freely and to express judgments without exposure to attacks upon motive or integrity for daring to exercise the right to do so," the pronouncement said.

The pronouncement grew out of criticism of a report by the World Order Study Conference last November which included recommendations for U.S. recognition of Red China and that country's admission to the United Nations.

Titan Missile 'Short Range' Test Success

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI)—The Titan, fledgling member of this country's arsenal of intercontinental ballistic missiles, apparently had another success to its credit today.

The Air Force sent one of the sleek rockets aloft Wednesday under limited power and over a short range. "Everything looks real good," a project official commented after early data was in.

The Titan, lighter and more powerful than the Atlas ICBM, is designed to carry a hydrogen warhead more than 8,000 miles. In Wednesday's test the 110-ton test vehicle traveled about 300 statute miles under the propulsion of a single booster engine, believed to be the most powerful single thrust unit in the free world.

A dummy second stage, filled with about 5,000 gallons of water for ballast, was not separated.

This was the second successful Titan firing in as many attempts, although malfunctions have caused "scrubbing" of other test shots before the missile left its pad.

The Martin Co., builder of the Titan, believes the weapon can be made combat-ready within a year.

'Taxpayer Revolt' Gains Momentum; Letters, Petitions Deluge Legislators

RITZVILLE, Wash. (AP) — A "nonpartisan taxpayers' revolt" that started here over a cup of coffee went into its third week today with the letter-writing campaign spreading to the far corners of the state.

An estimated 10,000 or more revolt-inspired form letters have poured in on state legislators in Olympia, and Gov. Albert D. Rosellini's office said he has received 1,358 of them.

In addition, thousands of companion petitions were being circulated, the signers pledging not to ask for additional services from state government and demanding in return that no new tax laws be passed.

"The campaign has exceeded our wildest dreams," said Edward Cross, an attorney who helped start it. "With all the phone calls, my practice has gone by the boards. We've really got a tiger by the tail."

It started at a Lions Club meeting in this town of 2,200 on Feb. 11 when Bryson Reinhardt, a Wenatchee, Wash., salesman, made a speech about government and taxes.

"When it was over, some of us got to talking and decided that's what we always do—just talk," Cross said. "We agreed to meet for coffee next morning and consider some kind of petition and form letter."

Twenty men showed up, then 40 more joined in, $300 was collected for printing and a nameless organization was born with an eight-man steering committee headed by Ralph Danekas, a mortician who says he is politically independent.

The original goal was to get 1,500 signatures on a "no-new-services, no-new-taxes" petition in the Adams County. Cross said they got 1,150 in three days and the idea "snowballed."

After 500 form letters piled up on his desk, Rosellini, a Democrat, replied with a form letter of his own, asking "evolters to be "realistic" and claiming increased taxes are needed to maintain even a minimum of services.

"We weren't convinced," Cross said.

Rosellini has proposed increasing the state sales tax from 3 1-3 to 4 per cent and letters or not, some kind of tax increase is expected.

'K' Ignores Macmillan

MOSCOW (UPI) — The ballet was "Romeo and Juliet" but the atmosphere was so chilly that Nikita Khrushchev and Harold Macmillan might have been watching a frozen "Swan Lake."

The British prime minister and the Soviet premier stared straight ahead through Wednesday night's performance, looking only at the famed Bolshoi dancers and exchanging no remarks.

They so completely ignored each other that Khrushchev was absent from their red velvet-draped box for an entire scene.

Leaders of the Communist-oriented world peace council strove to put a good face on the conferences. They said Khrushchev believes Macmillan's visit will be a good one even if no hard agreements are reached.

Motor Boat Licensing Upsets Owners

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Motor boat owners are expected to storm the Statehouse today to protest licensing of their craft.

They are upset mostly over a proposal to charge $5 a year for renewal of their boat licenses.

The House Ways and Means Committee will take up the bill to establish for the first time registration of small motor boats. If the State doesn't do it, then the federal government will.

However, the federal government is proposing only a $3 fee for the license, and initially it would be good for three years.

The proposed State bill also differs from the federal regulation in that it would apply to every motor. The federal would start registration of 10 horsepower motors.

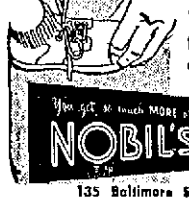

There also is a difference of opinion between two state agencies over which should administer the act. The Department of Tidewater Fisheries is named in the bill, but the Department of Game and Inland Fish feels it should have the authority.

One complaint voiced against the bill, which has the blessing of Gov. Tawes, is that it has been expanded from being in the interest of safety to a revenue raiser.

Some estimate that 200,000 boats boats will be subject to the license fee which would mean an income of one million dollars a year.

The money will go into the general fund of the State so Tawes may spend it as he sees fit.

Tawes Target Of Group On Mental Aid

Finances Sought By Citizens For Hospital Work

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Maryland citizens seeking more money for State mental hospitals are expected to shift their campaign now from the Legislature's finances committees to the governor's office.

Yesterday they urged the finance groups not to make any cuts in the Department of Mental Hygiene budget submitted by Gov. Tawes. And they indicated they will ask the governor for more money in his supplemental budget due next month.

The legislature may not increase Tawes' proposals for operating funds, but it has a free hand with the building program he suggested.

The mental hygiene budget submitted by Tawes totals some $20,500,000, an 8.5 per cent increase over last year but $2,500,000 below the amount sought by the department. The agency's request for more than six million dollars in construction money was cut back to two million dollars.

There have been indications that Tawes may have more money to spend than he thought when the budget was drafted. The mental health groups would like to see some of it go to mental hospitals.

Sen. Dean (D-Queen Annes) told Mental Hygiene Department officials at yesterday's budget hearing that he, for one, would support any move to get more money for the department and those who staff the State's five mental hospitals.

He said he was a member of a legislative committee which toured some of the hospitals and commented that "I wouldn't work in some of them for $50,000 a year."

About 100 persons attended the hearings. Some women carried signs which proclaimed "We Want Accredited Hospitals" and "A Mental Hospital Doesn't Have To Be A Snake Pit."

Dr. Clifton T. Perkins, Maryland's commissioner of mental hygiene, listed these problems in his testimony:

1. One of the department's major problems is recruitment of professional personnel. If salaries are not raised to meet competition from other states and private practice, the State may have to shop for "bargain basement doctors" to staff mental hospitals. A request for raises is before the Standard Salary Board.

2. The proposed budget will allow the department of "hold the line" but "will hardly permit acceleration" of needed programs.

3. The five hospitals are now overcrowded by some 1,000 patients. Even if all buildings in the new capital improvements programs were completed tomorrow, the overcrowding figure would be 410.

4. He is "disturbed" about a steady increase in the rate of readmissions. He said this could mean inadequate treatment in the hospitals or an inadequate follow-up on persons discharged. "We ought to take a good look" into this problem, he said.

Chamber Wants To Air Parking

Parking in downtown Cumberland will be discussed at a meeting being sought by the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce.

Robert C. Petersen, manager, said Police Commissioner Philmore Fleming, the executive committee of the Chamber and its Retail Merchants Association will be asked to attend.

He said the meeting will deal with various parking problems and especially with the $5 fine imposed on those who park cars on North Centre and North Mechanic streets from 4 to 6 p.m.

Plans for the meeting were discussed by the Chamber's board Tuesday night.

The board also accepted with regret the resignation of T. J. Klauenberg as a director and made plans to name a successor to the post soon.

Sears Employes Get Stock Report

C. W. Seasholtz, manager of the local Sears, Roebuck Company, yesterday announced that the company's savings and profit-sharing pension fund shows local workers have a total investment of $344,921.

Seasholtz said that as of December 31, the 52 local fund members had 6,161 shares of Sears stock and additional securities and cash amounting to $84,772 to their credit.

Halleck Says Budget Battle Is Top Issue

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The battle of the budget is the most important issue facing the 86th Congress, House Minority Leader Charles A. Halleck (R-Indiana) said Wednesday night.

In a Lincoln Day dinner address, Halleck told West Virginia Republicans that Democrats had thrown a dozen measures in the hopper. He said if they were enacted it "would increase federal spending by billions of dollars beyond what is necessary for the good of the country."

He described as "the basic difference between the major philosophies of our two major parties.. Republican emphasis on thrift in government as against Democral extravagance."

"No one escapes the fire of inflation completely. The big fellow is least hurt. He can take care of himself. But it is the breadwinner of a fixed income and the senior citizen trying to get by on a pension who gets severely burned when the cost of everything goes up."

Halleck praised West Virginia's lone Republican in Congress, Rep. Arch Moore, as "one of the outstanding members among the ranks of our newer Republicans."

Development Plan Backed In WV Bills

Measures Would Set Up Economic Recovery Agency

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Bills to establish an Economic Recovery Agency in West Virginia as proposed by Gov. Cecil H. Underwood were introduced in each chamber of the Legislature today.

The measures were submitted under bi-partisan sponsorship of Senate President Ralph Bean (D-Hardy) and Minority Leader John Carrigan (R-Marshall) in the Senate and Speaker Harry R. Pauley (D-McDowell and Minority Leader George H. Seibert (R-Ohio) in the House.

Under the plan, a nine-member commission would be set up to prepare a master plan for the physical, social and economic development of the state. Underwood said in an address to the Legislature Wednesday one of the first duties of the commission would be to make a survey of manpower skills and land use.

The group would be empowered to disburse federal funds available for economic development and contract with federal and state agencies for various surveys to promote its work. Underwood asked that the commission be allocated $250,000 in the next year.

Also among the six new Senate and 11 House bills introduced was a measure by Senate Finance Committee Glenn Jackson (D-Logan) and Carrigan to change the state license fees for hotels, motels, tourist homes, riding devices at parks, and the sale of weapons.

It also would set up a new section for theaters and public shows with the fee to be based on the size of town in which they operated. There was no immediate estimate on the tax yield from the measure.

Del. J. E. Watson (D-Marion) and Charles Buch (R-Ohio) sponsored a bill to create a junior driver's license for 16-to-18 year-olds. It would authorize the licenses only to drive to and from school. After age 18, a regular driver's licenses would be required.

Other bills would:

Eliminate consideration by the attorney general's office of any claims against the state which previously had been rejected by the Legislature (Chilton & Graziani).

—Provide that county school board candidates could wait until 30 days prior to general elections to file certificates of candidacy, rather than before primary elections. (Brotherton).

Decimal Point Proves Costly

FAIRFAX, Va. (UPI) — When baker Lucas Gallegos misplaced a decimal point, he made a monumental error.

The nine boys of Den One, Cub Scout Pack 187, ordered an $0.50 cake for their annual banquet Tuesday night. Gallegos read it $85.

The result: A three-foot high frosted cake in the form of the Washington Monument.

"Oh, well," philosophized Gallegos, "the scouts wanted a nice cake. They acquired a feat of art which has never been achieved before. We are happy for them to have it."

He charged them only $8.50 for the "feat of art."

Legislature Gets Budget On Education

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The State Board of Education was scheduled today to appear before Senate and House finance committees to discuss its $6,500,000 budget for 1959-60.

The board Wednesday received an apparent low bid of $27,571 from Bowling Construction Co., Bluefield for construction of an addition to the bleachers on the Concord College athletic field. It also listened to a cost estimate of a new science and classroom building at West Liberty State College but took no action on the bid.

West Liberty President Paul N. Elbin said the cost of the building would be some $1,299,800.

In other action, the board approved an amendment to Wheeling College's certificate of incorporation which officially makes the institution a degree-granting college.

Board executive secretary H.K. Baer was instructed to advertise for bids on some $1,350,000 worth of revenue bonds to finance construction of a new health and physical education building at Marshall College. The college has another $500,000 on hand for the project.

Use Of Heart Envelope Urged

George R. Hughes Jr., general chairman of the Allegany-Garrett County Heart Association fund drive, yesterday urged persons who weren't home Sunday during the Heart Sunday canvass to use the envelopes left by the volunteers to mail in their donations.

Hughes said more than $7,300 was collected Sunday during the door-to-door canvass.

A group of tellers from local banks who tabulated returns from the Heart Sunday collection also were thanked for their work by Mrs. William J. Gunter, Heart Sunday chairman.

They were William Dudley, Mrs. Margaret Wonn, Mrs. Cora Hardin, Miss Yvonne Allen, Walter Fraley, Miss Donna Umstott, James Connelly, Mrs. Helen Whetzel, Fred Hill, Kenneth Mahaney, Estel Oster, Charles Hyde, Mr. and Mrs. G. Morgan Smith and James Bishop.

Phone Firm Plans Large Expenditure

BALTIMORE (AP) — Directors of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telphone Co. of Maryland yesterday approved the spending of $1,224,800 for additional service improvements.

Vice President W. Griffin Morrel said the authorization increased the company's expenditures for the post 12 months to $43,043,400.

W.V.U. Coed Returns After Being Missing

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (UPI)—Barbara Jean Henderson, 19, Richwood, a West Virginia University coed who turned up here late Wednesday two days after she disappeared, was recovering today in a hospital.

Dr. Clark Sleeth, physician at the university health service, said it appeared that the WVU sophomore had suffered from temporary amnesia.

Sleeth said the girl told of "coming to her senses" near here Wednesday and calling a taxicab. She was admitted to the health service for treatment shortly after returning to her room, he said.

The physician said Miss Henderson, a daughter of Richwood grade school principal Dale Henderson, was suffering from exposure. She was not immediately able to fill in details of where she had been during her disappearance.

Supreme Court Reverses Award In Woman's Estate

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—A $720 Wood County Circuit Court jury award to C. P. Nicholas from the estate of his deceased wife for expenses following her death was reversed Wednesday by the State Supreme Court.

Judge Harlan M. Calhoun, in the first opinion he has written since his election to the high court, said:

"The common law duty of a husband to support his wife and to supply her with reasonable necessities embraces a duty of his part to pay reasonable funeral expenses incident to her death..."

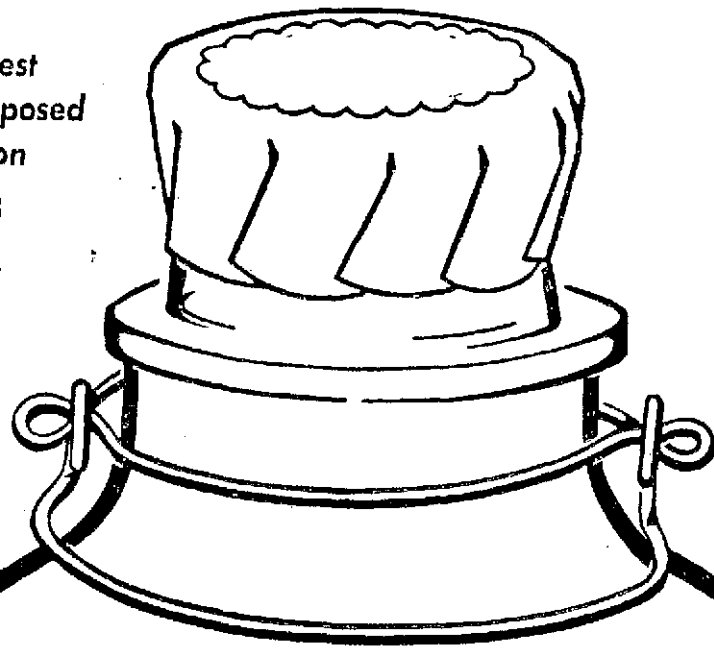

It said the fact the wife had separate properties made no difference.

"The common law duty has not been changed by statute in this state," Calhoun wrote.

Hold On To Your Pocketbooks!

If this bill passes the jug stores close!

Special interests have worked out a new campaign to make you pay more for your milk. They are backing a bill in the Maryland General Assembly, which proposes the establishment of a state milk control commission. No matter how they try to justify it, this bill means just one thing to you: Higher milk prices! The people in favor of milk controls want to fatten their profits at your expense. All they have to do is convince you of the "evils" of free competition.

The backers of this bill have already begun their campaign against milk freedom by spreading a lot of malarky about needing a milk commission to insure a stable milk market. They're saying that a milk commission is vital to insure a constant milk supply, and they claim that the farmer needs it to get better prices for his milk.

But here's what they're not saying:

1. This bill would mean the end of THE JUG STORES AND THE SAVINGS THEY MAKE POSSIBLE.
2. You, the consumer, don't have anything to say about milk prices in a controlled market.
3. The law of supply and demand goes out the window when prices are fixed.

You're supposed to think it's O.K. to pay the retail price that's fixed by a commission, but they don't want you to know that this price is usually fixed at the highest home delivered price. They're not saying that their profits will swell if a commission sets the same price for all milk—home delivered or store-bought. They're not letting on that the only way to save money on milk in a controlled market, is to buy less. You're supposed to find these things out for yourself, after the bill is written into law. Here are some more things about milk controls you won't hear from these special interest groups: When consumers pay more for fluid milk, they use less on their tables. The consumers of states like Virginia, Pennsylvania, and Massachusetts, where they have Milk Commissions, will testify to that fact. When fluid milk consumption goes down, the milk not used for drinking is made into dairy products and sold. When items like butter, cheese, and non-fat milk solids are not sold, they go into surplus and are bought by the government.

In other words, you wind up paying taxes to buy surplus dairy products which you couldn't afford to buy in fluid form in the first place!

But it doesn't end there. As high prices force consumers to buy less and less fluid milk, the farmer's income drops. Since the farmer's income depends mainly on how much fluid milk he sells, he has to ask a higher price for his milk. When this happens, the milk commission raises retail milk prices and the whole cycle begins again. Less milk is used, more surplus is created, farm income goes down, and the commission socks you with another price increase. In fact, this very thing is happening in Virginia right now.

Compare this with the freedom you have in Maryland. Now, you buy all the milk you need from the dairy that sells at the price you want to pay. Prices are not controlled. They seek their own level. They are set by the operation of the law of supply and demand.

Here's how this free competition benefits you. In Baltimore, for instance, families consumed about 100 pounds more fluid milk per person in 1956, than did the families of Richmond, Virginia. Virginia has a State Milk Commission. The Baltimore housewife pays about 18 cents less per gallon of milk than her Richmond counterpart. Maryland farmers sell more fluid milk, and are enjoying a good income.

Taxes in Maryland do not include the cost of administering a state milk commission. Maryland dairies are constantly striving to improve their products, their methods of distribution, and their services. Dairies in Virginia have no such incentive. In fact, one major city in Virginia has only two milk distributors.

Milk is the most complete food known to man. It is essential for the growth and health of babies and children. Milk prices must be kept low enough to allow every family to buy all the milk it needs for proper health. No state milk commission will ever be able to keep retail milk prices as low as companies engaged in free enterprise in a free milk market. Don't let them take away your right to save on the milk your family needs.

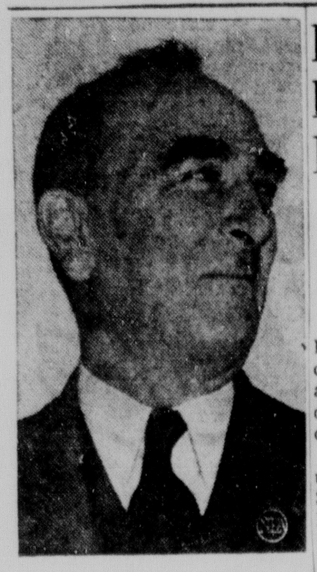

Protect your right to a free milk market. Write Governor J. Millard Tawes, your newspaper editors, and your delegates. Tell them that you are against the proposed state milk commission. This is an appeal to all public-spirited citizens to join in the fight against power-hungry special interest groups. Add your voice to the growing throng of consumers who want to keep their milk free from controls.

MARYLANDERS FOR MILK FREEDOM, a group of public spirited citizens, have already organized in a crusade to protect Maryland families against the evils of milk controls. All alert Marylanders are urged to join this group. No dues required. Write MARYLANDERS FOR MILK FREEDOM, 1654 Mathieson Building, 10 Light Street, Baltimore 2, Md. for your membership applications.

Also among the six new Senate and 11 House bills introduced was a measure by Senate Finance Committee Glenn Jackson (D-Logan) and Carrigan to change the state license fees for hotels, motels, tourist homes, riding devices at parks, and the sale of weapons.

It also would set up a new section for theaters and public shows with the fee to be based on the size of town in which they operated. There was no immediate estimate on the tax yield from the measure.

Del. J. E. Watson (D-Marion) and Charles Buch (R-Ohio) sponsored a bill to create a junior driver's license for 16-to-18 year-olds. It would authorize the licensees only to drive to and from school. After age 18, a regular driver's licenses would be required.

Other bills would:

Eliminate consideration by the attorney general's office of any claims against the state which previously had been rejected by the Legislature (Chilton & Graziani).

—Provide that county school board candidates could wait until 30 days prior to general elections to file certificates of candidacy, rather than before primary elections. (Brotherton).

Decimal Point Proves Costly

FAIRFAX, Va. (UPI) — When baker Lucas Gallegos misplaced a decimal point, he made a monumental error.

The nine boys of Den One, Cub Scout Pack 187, ordered an $8.50 cake for their annual banquet Tuesday night. Gallegos read it $85.

The result: A three-foot high frosted cake in the form of the Washington Monument.

"Oh, well," philosophized Gallegos, "the scouts wanted a nice cake. They acquired a feat of art which has never been achieved before. We are happy for them to have it."

He charged them only $8.50 for the "feat of art."

Legislature Gets Budget On Education

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The State Board of Education was scheduled today to appear before Senate and House finance committees to discuss its $6,500,000 budget for 1959-60.

The board Wednesday received an apparent low bid of $27,571 from Bowling Construction Co., Bluefield for construction of an addition to the bleachers on the Concord College athletic field. It also listened to a cost estimate of a new science and classroom building at West Liberty State College but took no action on the bid.

West Liberty President Paul N. Elbin said the cost of the building would be some $1,299,800.

In other action, the board approved an amendment to Wheeling College's certificate of incorporation which officially makes the institution a degree-granting college.

Board executive secretary H.K. Baer was instructed to advertise for bids on some $1,350,000 worth of revenue bonds to finance construction of a new health and physical education building at Marshall College. The college has another $500,000 on hand for the project.

W.V.U. Coed Returns After Being Missing

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (UPI)—Barbara Jean Henderson, 19, Richwood, a West Virginia University coed who turned up here late Wednesday two days after she disappeared, was recovering today in a hospital.

Dr. Clark Sleeth, physician at the university health service, said it appeared that the WVU sophomore had suffered from temporary amnesia.

Sleeth said the girl told of "coming to her senses" near here Wednesday and calling a taxicab. She was admitted to the health service for treatment shortly after returning to her room, he said.

The physician said Miss Henderson, a daughter of Richwood grade school principal Dale Henderson, was suffering from exposure. She was not immediately able to fill in details of where she had been during her disappearance.

Claims Mission Departs

MANILA (UPI) — Government officials disclosed Wednesday that a special mission would leave for Washington soon to discuss the Philippines' 900 - million - dollar omnibus claims against the United States.

Supreme Court Reverses Award In Woman's Estate

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—A $720 Wood County Circuit Court jury award to C. P. Nicholas from the estate of his deceased wife for expenses following her death was reversed Wednesday by the State Supreme Court.

Judge Harlan M. Calhoun, in the first opinion he has written since his election to the high court, said:

"The common law duty of a husband to support his wife and to supply her with reasonable necessities embraces a duty of his part to pay reasonable funeral expenses incident to her death..."

It said the fact the wife had separate properties made no difference.

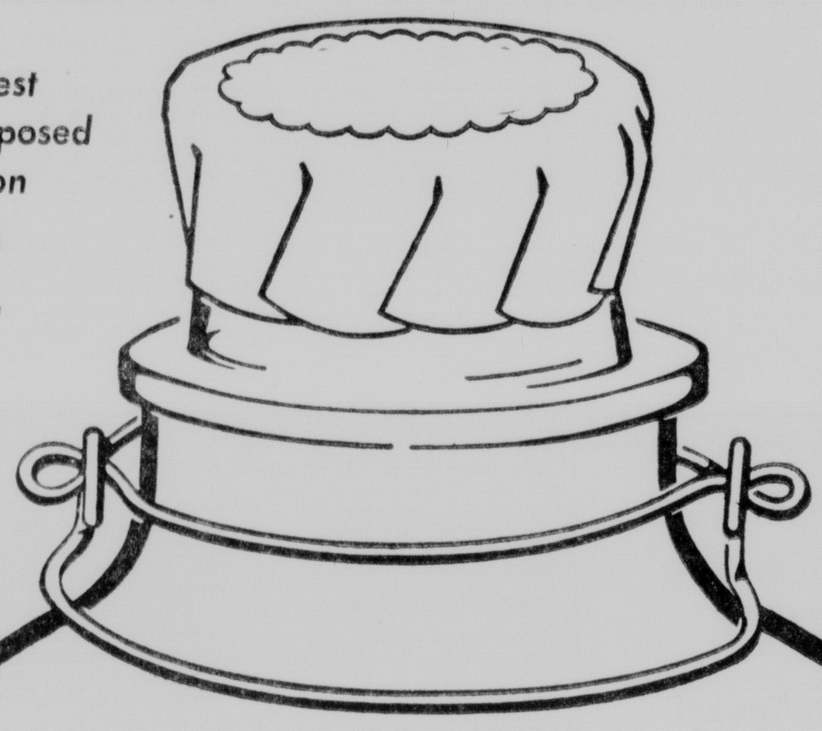

"The common law duty has not been changed by statute in this state," Calhoun wrote.

In 1939 King George VI and Queen Elizabeth were the first reigning English sovereigns to visit the Dominion of Canada.

George Washington was appointed commander-in-chief of American Continental Army Forces on June 15, 1775.

Hold On To Your Pocketbooks!
If this bill passes the jug stores close!

Special interests have worked out a new campaign to make you pay more for your milk. They are backing a bill in the Maryland General Assembly, which proposes the establishment of a state milk control commission. No matter how they try to justify it, this bill means just one thing to you: Higher milk prices! The people in favor of milk controls want to fatten their profits at your expense. All they have to do is convince you of the "evils" of free competition.

The backers of this bill have already begun their campaign against milk freedom by spreading a lot of malarky about needing a milk commission to insure a stable milk market. They're saying that a milk commission is vital to insure a constant milk supply, and they claim that the farmer needs it to get better prices for his milk.

But here's what they're not saying:

1. This bill would mean the end of THE JUG STORES AND THE SAVINGS THEY MAKE POSSIBLE.
2. You, the consumer, don't have anything to say about milk prices in a controlled market.
3. The law of supply and demand goes out the window when prices are fixed.

You're supposed to think it's O.K. to pay the retail price that's fixed by a commission, but they don't want you to know that this price is usually fixed at the highest home delivered price. They're not saying that their profits will swell if a commission sets the same price for all milk—home delivered or store-bought. They're not letting on that the only way to save money on milk in a controlled market, is to buy less. You're supposed to find these things out for yourself, after the bill is written into law. Here are some more things about milk controls you won't hear from these special interest groups: When consumers pay more for fluid milk, they use less on their tables. The consumers of states like Virginia, Pennsylvania, and Massachusetts, where they have Milk Commissions, will testify to that fact. When fluid milk consumption goes down, the milk not used for drinking is made into dairy products and sold. When items like butter, cheese, and non-fat milk solids are not sold, they go into surplus and are bought by the government.

In other words, you wind up paying taxes to buy surplus dairy products which you couldn't afford to buy in fluid form in the first place!

But it doesn't end there. As high prices force consumers to buy less and less fluid milk, the farmer's income drops. Since the farmer's income depends mainly on how much fluid milk he sells, he has to ask a higher price for his milk. When this happens, the milk commission raises retail milk prices and the whole cycle begins again. Less milk is used, more surplus is created, farm income goes down, and the commission socks you with another price increase. In fact, this very thing is happening in Virginia right now.

Compare this with the freedom you have in Maryland. Now, you buy all the milk you need from the dairy that sells at the price you want to pay. Prices are not controlled. They seek their own level. They are set by the operation of the law of supply and demand.

Here's how this free competition benefits you. In Baltimore, for instance, families consumed about 100 pounds more fluid milk per person in 1956, than did the families of Richmond, Virginia. Virginia has a State Milk Commission. The Baltimore housewife pays about 18 cents less per gallon of milk than her Richmond counterpart. Maryland farmers sell more fluid milk, and are enjoying a good income.

Taxes in Maryland do not include the cost of administering a state milk commission. Maryland dairies are constantly striving to improve their products, their methods of distribution, and their services. Dairies in Virginia have no such incentive. In fact, one major city in Virginia has only two milk distributors.

Milk is the most complete food known to man. It is essential for the growth and health of babies and children. Milk prices must be kept low enough to allow every family to buy all the milk it needs for proper health. No state milk commission will ever be able to keep retail milk prices as low as companies engaged in free enterprise in a free milk market. Don't let them take away your right to save on the milk your family needs.

Protect your right to a free milk market. Write Governor J. Millard Tawes, your newspaper editors, and your delegates. Tell them that you are against the proposed state milk commission. This is an appeal to all public-spirited citizens to join in the fight against power-hungry special interest groups. Add your voice to the growing throng of consumers who want to keep their milk free from controls.

MARYLANDERS FOR MILK FREEDOM, a group of public spirited citizens, have already organized in a crusade to protect Maryland families against the evils of milk controls. All alert Marylanders are urged to join this group. No dues required. Write MARYLANDERS FOR MILK FREEDOM, 1654 Mathieson Building, 10 Light Street, Baltimore 2, Md. for your membership applications.

Congress Is Urged To Preserve Famous Antietam Battlefield

By FRANK E. TAYLOR

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress was urged today to speed action toward buying more land to preserve the Antietam Battlefield site in Maryland.

Unless early action is taken, sponsors of the project say, there is danger of losing the land to residential and commercial development.

Rep. John R. Foley (D-Md) is backing a bill to permit the National Park Service to use some of its funds to buy additional land. Present law permits acquisition of land at the site by donation only.

Foley said in a statement for a hearing on his bill today that an estimated $300,000 would be required to buy about 1,300 acres needed to round out the site.

The basic purpose of his bill, Foley said, is to free the hands of the Park Service to use already appropriated funds to buy the land.

"Unless the National Park Service can take action in the very near future," Foley said, "there is imminent danger that the 1,300 acres will be lost for all time.

"Commercial development withing the Sharpsburg area along the Hagerstown Road and the Boonsboro Road as well as the Harpers Ferry Road leading into Sharpsburg, clearly reveals the future of the use to which the 1,300 acres may be put," he said.

"Residential building along with the establishment of stores and gasoline stations already have appeared adjacent to the battlefield site area."

National Guard Undergoes Change

BALTIMORE (AP)—Arms and tactics have changed and so must the Maryland Army National Guard.

Maj. Gen. Milton A. Reckord, State adjutant general, said today the Maryland National Guard will be revamped to meet "the requirements of modern warfare" on March 1. It is part of a nation-wide program.

The reorganization will mark the end of the infantry regiment as the principal Army fighting organization.

And the State guardsmen will get an additional missile battalion, the third.

The revamping is similar to the adjustments made by the regular Army. It is expected to be completed in time for field training this summer.

This will be the first major overhaul of the 29th Infantry Division, divided between Maryland and Virginia, since early World War II days.

The principal changes:

1. Two infantry regiments, the 115th and 175th, will be replaced by three smaller fighting groups of seven company-size units each. The infantry regiments will become non-tactical combat arms regiments.

The 1st Battle Group of the 175th Combat Arms Regiment will replace the 175th Infantry Regiment with headquarters at the 5th Regiment Armory, Baltimore.

The 1st and 2nd Battle Groups of the 115th Combat Arms Regiment will be substituted for the 115th Infantry Regiment with headquarters at Towson and Salisbury, respectively, plus units in Catonsville, Frederick, Kensington, Silver Spring, Hyattsville and Eastern Shore towns where units are presently located.

2. A third battalion will be added to Maryland's part of the artillery of the 29th Division. The division presently consists of a headquarters battery and two battalions, the 110th and 224th, of 105 mm howitzers. Under the revamped program, each of the three battalions will have two firing batteries, with the 155 mm howitzer added to the 105 mm howitzer.

The three new batallions will be designated the 110th, 224th and 610th. Pikesville will continue to be the artillery headquarters with outlying batteries at Bel Air, Greenbelt and Westminster.

3. The Maryland guardsmen will have a medium tank battalion for the first time. Its headquarters and a tank company will be at Cumberland. Two companies are planned for Hagerstown and one each at Frostburg and Oakland. It will be known as the 1st Medium Tank Battalion of the 115th Combat Arms Regiment.

4. The 121st Engineers will lose its company at Oakland but will gain two by conversion at Laurel and Glen Burnie. Headquarters will remain in Ellicott City.

5. The 231st Transportation Battalion in Baltimore will convert two of its three truck companies into armored personnel carrier companies. It will be redesignated the 229th Transportation Battalion of the 29th Infantry Dvision.

6. A new combat aviation unit will be organized in part at Baltimore's Harbor Field. It will be known as the 29th Aviation Company and will have some 35 liaison pilots for light planes. Part of the company is planned for Virginia.

7. Another new unit for the 29th Division will be the Headquarters and Headquarters Detachment of the Division Trains. This will see supporting elements of the division drawn together for administrative purposes. It will be located at the 5th Regiment Armory.

No substantial changes are planned for the medical and ordnance battalions nor the quartermaster company at Annapolis.

The 29th Division Headquarters in Baltimore will see some minor changes and three new non-division units will be reorganized.

In addition, Maryland has been allotted an additional missile battalion (NIKE), the 686th, for the Washington area. It will have two firing batteries.

Boy Sentenced For Bomb Hoax

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Kanawha County Juvenile Judge Herbert Richardson Wednesday sentenced Chester Canterbury, 14, Nitro, to the state boys reformatory at Prunty Town in connection with a phony bomb scare at Nitro High School last week.

Two other 14-year-olds arrested with Canterbury got off easier. Lennis Angel was placed on probation and charges were dismissed against the other boy.

Two Charleston boys and one from Beckley previously were given reform school sentences for hoaxes. One of the Charleston boys, Kenneth W. Spears, 16, has petitioned for a trial. Richardson will hear arguments on that motion March 4.

Expressway Work Let

BALTIMORE (AP)—The State Roads Commission has awarded a contract for the first leg of the much-debated Northeastern Expressway.

C. J. Langenfelder & Son, Inc. of Baltimore County submitted a low bid of $1,847,299 for construction of 2.17 miles of road running from the city line into Baltimore County. The contract also calls for construction of three steel span bridges and two reinforced concrete abutments.

The expressway, in the talking stage for more than four years, will run from Baltimore to the Delaware line—roughly paralleling U. S. 40.

Italian "Sensation" Cesare Danova Makes His First U. S. Film Since Coming Here Three Years Ago

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Cesare Danova is finally making his first Hollywood movie, almost three years after he came here as the new Italian sensation.

Is he bitter? Not in the least. "I'm not mad at anyone," he declares. "I can see how these things happen."

His understanding didn't make the experience any less painful, however. He was imported originally to play the title role in "Ben Hur."

"I came here without being able to speak a word of English," said the actor. "It was agreed that the first six months would be devoted to learning the language. That came easy to me. I have always enjoyed studying languages. (He speaks five.) I like to study words."

Armed with the knowledge of English, he seemed well qualified for the lead in MGM's super-epic. But Charlton Heston got the role.

"The studio still wanted me," Danova said. "But the director, William Wyler, wanted no accents in the cast. So he wouldn't take me.

"I am not blaming him. He was the director. He had to do the picture according to his own conception. If he had taken me unwillingly, it would have been a bad situation."

So Danova sat. And sat. He couldn't work, and the studio wouldn't let him go. For almost two years he did absolutely nothing.

He managed to survive by reading, hobbies such as furniture making and playing with his two young sons by English actress Pamela Matthews. His first action came with the musicalized "Grand Hotel," which he played on the West Coast with Paul Muni. It was a flop. But at least he was working.

Naturally Johnson saw Danova on TV's "The Rifleman" and picked him for Leslie Caron's lover in "The Man Who Understood Women." Now he's on his way.

Total U.S. supplies of meat for 1959 are estimated by industry sources at 27 billion pounds, about one and a half billion pounds more than in 1958.

THESE THREE SCHMIDT'S BREADS ARE NOW WRAPPED IN GENUINE POLYETHYLENE

You know the food keeping qualities of genuine Polyethylene . . . it is of the same material as the refrigerator bags are made . . . these bags keep food fresh much longer . . . so . . . this new wrapper of Schmidt's Blue Ribbon bread gives your family fresher bread longer.

The genuine polyethylene "POLY-FRESH" wrapper means that every slice is fresh . . . no dry last ends.

Armed with the knowledge of English, he seemed well qualified for the lead in MGM's super-epic. He is well constructed along his 6 feet, 4 inches, is remarkably handsome with wavy brown hair and had a background of classical acting.

But Charlton Heston got the role.

"The studio still wanted me," Danova said. "But the director, William Wyler, wanted no accents in the cast. So he wouldn't take me.

New Theory Advanced In Phobia Study

Suffering Could Be Stopped By Remaining Still

NEW YORK (UPI) — A new theory on phobias sees them as like some watches, that is, self-winding, and goes on from there to suggest they can be stopped like the watches can be, by not letting them wind themselves.

Since phobias are common and people who have them suffer agonies and since science hasn't been very successful in stopping phobias, this new theory is going to get a lot of try-outs. It was presented by Dr. Nicholas Melleson, a London psychiatrist, who tried it out on several phobic persons.

There are as many phobias as there are objects and situations. Among the best known is claustrophobia (fear of confined spaces) and acrophobia (fear of heights). Fro an example in describing his theory, Melleson used ailurophobia, which though it can also be called galeophobia and even gatophobia, is simply a fear of cats.

Urge To Escape

"The sufferer from a cat phobia, on getting near a cat or to a place where he suspects a cat will, feels mounting fear," Melleson said. "With it comes the urge to escape. As he turns and hurries away, his immediate fear feeling is dispersed."

This makes the fear both real and reasonable to the sufferer and thus the phobia is re-wound by its own built-in mechanism. "Potentially strengthened and enhanced, this fear remains inside ready to be reexperienced at his next encounter," Melleson continued. "By such a cycle—fear-escape - urge - more fear—phobic patterns could become established."

Should Not Flee

To stop the re-winding, the victim shouldn't flee but just stand in the spot where the fear first hit him and "fully experience the unpleasant emotions and all the concomitant bodily sensations that are aroused in him." While doing this, he should pay close attention to everything he is feeling.

Melleson argued that after a phobic person has done this a number of times, he becomes so bored with phobic fears he stops feeling them and then can even fondle cats with indifference if not with affection. Melleson suggested this could be done in easy (or rather, not impossible difficult) steps.

WAF Recruiter Will Visit Here Tomorrow

A/1c Esther White, recruiter for the Air Force WAF, will be at the Post Office tomorrow from 9 a. m. until 5 p. m. to interview women interested in careers in the service.

She will also talk to college women interested in direct commissions in the Air Force and attendance at Officers' Candidate School.

LAST TRY — By an ironic twist, this pretty girl stands between a convicted killer and the electric chair. She's Columbus, Ohio, attorney Lois Lanker, appointed by the National Legal Aid Society to take the final plea of Clevelander Walter J. Byomin, 42, to the U.S. Supreme Court. Byomin has been sentenced to death for the murder of a Wellington, Ohio policeman in 1957.

TV, Radio To Lose Top Journalist

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP) — When Edward R. Murrow leaves CBS July 1 on a year's leave of absence, television and radio will lose its foremost journalist.

Under the terms of his contract, which has several years to run, Murrow says he is obligated legally and morally to return.

"You're talking to a tired 50-year-old who wants a rest," he told me. "It's an age to enjoy some travel and contemplation if you have the time. That's all there is to my requesting a leave."

Since Murrow did not tell me more, it would be presumptuous to try to read his mind. Yet from a variety of sources other than Murrow, one can gather facts that should bear substantially on his contemplations while traveling. . .

Murrow, Edward R., fiftyish, reporter. Health: excellent. Personal life: happy; a wife, a son, a farm in Pawling, N.Y., that's a pleasant home. Temperament: reserved, some say "shy," extremely slow to anger, cool and lucid when the going's rough. Acquaintances: innumerable. Intimate friends: extremely few.

Financial worries: none for the rest of his life. Principal interests: the communication of ideas to people, his craft as a reporter. Principal concern: "I believe this country is in grave perhaps mortal danger."

Achievements: employed by CBS for 25 years, principally as a reporter. Did a hitch as a network executive, didn't like it. His "See It Now" series an outstanding contribution to TV journalism, a classic in its field, the recipient of innumerable awards.

ESB To Mail Forms Early

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Maryland Department of Employment Security will attempt to head off an "anticipated deluge of questions" from employers on tax-rate changes.

Executive Director Robert B. Kimble says the department plans to make an early mailing of tax forms and letters explaining the changes for the first quarter of this year.

The letters, Kimble said, will be mailed early next month to employers covered by the Maryland Unemployment Insurance law.

Conversation Pieces Being Sought By Antique Collectors

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — There's something new in the business of collecting the old.

Today's antiquers are concentrating on the "different" finds—from suits of armor to totem poles—which make better conversation pieces in the home than collections of old porcelain or glass, even if they are not as valuable.

Take time to browse New York's Second and Third avenues, where every other shop seems to deal in some phase of antiquity. It is amazing what has been emptied from attics to fill store windows.

There are those suits of armor, handed down from heaven-knows-whose militant ancestor; old diving helmets; gaming devices; cigar store Indians; weathervanes; coffee mills; churns; wooden well-buckets; bird houses whittled by some patient early settler; "antling decoys; whirligigs which once decorated fence posts; figurehead from old sailing vessels; shopkeepers' signs or plaques saying "stage coach stops here"; landscapes and portraits done by itinerant artists, the results now called "primitives," and even "wanted" posters from pre-FBI days offering $50 reward for horse thieves dead or alive.

And all are selling.

"People buy for fun, no longer for investment," said Henry Coger, a native of Jonesboro, Ark., who with his partner, John Bihler, formerly of Chicago, run a well-stocked cluttered hangout for collectors of the unusual.

Coger figures there are three basic reasons for the changing taste of antiques collectors. They no longer can afford the servants to help clean elegant collections of old glass, china and figures, have no room to display such collections, and no longer are interested in gathering together the traditional.

Coger and Bihler do most of their antiques hunting at antiques fairs. "The nation's attics long since have been emptied," said Coger.

"There is a real shortage of antiques," said Coger, "and in all fields from fine old European furniture to early American cookie boards.

"It will only get worse. In our present world of mass production, there is so little made which can stand the test of time."

New Theory Advanced In Phobia Study

Suffering Could Be Stopped By Remaining Still

NEW YORK (UPI) — A new theory on phobias sees them as like some watches, that is, self-winding, and goes on from there to suggest they can be stopped like the watches can be, by not letting them wind themselves.

Since phobias are common and people who have them suffer agonies and since science hasn't been very successful in stopping phobias, this new theory is going to get a lot of try-outs. It was presented by Dr. Nicholas Melleson, a London psychiatrist, who tried it out on several phobic persons.

There are as many phobias as there are objects and situations. Among the best known is claustrophobia (fear of confined spaces) and acrophobia (fear of heights). Fro an example in describing his theory, Melleson used ailurophobia, which though it can also be called galeophobia and even gatophobia, is simply a fear of cats.

Urge To Escape

"The sufferer from a cat phobia, on getting near a cat or to a place where he suspects a cat will, feels mounting fear," Melleson said. "With it comes the urge to escape. As he turns and hurries away, his immediate fear feeling is dispersed."

This makes the fear both real and reasonable to the sufferer and thus the phobia is re-wound by its own built-in mechanism. "Potentially strengthened and enhanced, this fear remains inside ready to be reexperienced at his next encounter," Melleson continued. "By such a cycle—fear-escape - urge - more fear—phobic patterns could become established."

Should Not Flee

To stop the re-winding, the victim shouldn't flee but just stand in the spot where the fear first hit him and "fully experience the unpleasant emotions and all the concomitant bodily sensations that are aroused in him." While doing this, he should pay close attention to everything he is feeling.

Melleson argued that after a phobic person has done this a number of times, he becomes so bored with phobic fears he stops feeling them and then can even fondle cats with indifference if not with affection. Melleson suggested this could be done in easy (or rather, not impossible difficult) steps.

LAST TRY — By an ironic twist, this pretty girl stands between a convicted killer and the electric chair. She's Columbus, Ohio, attorney Lois Lanker, appointed by the National Legal Aid Society to take the final plea of Clevelander Walter J. Byomin, 42, to the U.S. Supreme Court. Byomin has been sentenced to death for the murder of a Wellington, Ohio policeman in 1957.

WAF Recruiter Will Visit Here Tomorrow

TV, Radio To Lose Top Journalist

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP) — When Edward R. Murrow leaves CBS July 1 on a year's leave of absence, television and radio will lose its foremost journalist.

Under the terms of his contract, which has several years to run, Murrow says he is obligated legally and morally to return.

"You're talking to a tired 50-year-old who wants a rest," he told me. "It's an age to enjoy some travel and contemplation if you have the time. That's all there is to my requesting a leave."

Since Murrow did not tell me more, it would be presumptuous to try to read his mind. Yet from a variety of sources other than Murrow, one can gather facts that should bear substantially on his contemplations while traveling. . .

Murrow, Edward R., fiftyish, reporter. Health: excellent. Personal life: happy; a wife, a son, a farm in Pawling, N.Y., that's a pleasant home. Temperament: reserved, some say "shy," extremely slow to anger, cool and lucid when the going's rough. Acquaintances: innumerable. Intimate friends: extremely few.

Financial worries: none for the rest of his life. Principal interests: the communication of ideas to people, his craft as a reporter. Principal concern: "I believe this country is in grave perhaps mortal danger."

Achievements: employed by CBS for 25 years, principally as a reporter. Did a hitch as a network executive, didn't like it. His "See It Now" series an outstanding contribution to TV journalism, a classic in its field, the recipient of innumerable awards.

ESB To Mail Forms Early

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Maryland Department of Employment Security will attempt to head off an "anticipated deluge of questions" from employers on tax-rate changes.

Executive Director Robert B. Kimble says the department plans to make an early mailing of tax forms and letters explaining the changes for the first quarter of this year.

The letters, Kimble said, will be mailed early next month to employers covered by the Maryland Unemployment Insurance law.

Conversation Pieces Being Sought By Antique Collectors

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — There's something new in the business of collecting the old.

Today's antiquers are concentrating on the "different" finds—from suits of armor to totem poles—which make better conversation pieces in the home than collections of old porcelain or glass, even if they are not as valuable.

Take time to browse New York's Second and Third avenues, where every other shop seems to deal in some phase of antiquity. It is amazing what has been emptied from attics to fill store windows.

There are those suits of armor, handed down from heaven-knows-whose militant ancestor; old diving helmets; gaming devices; cigar store Indians; weathervanes; coffee mills; churns; wooden well-buckets; bird houses whittled by some patient early settler; "unting decoys; whirligigs which once decorated fence posts; figure-heads from old sailing vessels; shopkeepers' signs or plaques saying "stage coach stops here"; andscapes and portraits done by tinerant artists, the results now called "primitives," and even "wanted" posters from pre-FBI days offering $50 reward for horse thieves dead or alive.

And all are selling.

"People buy for fun, no longer for investment," said Henry Coger, a native of Jonesboro, Ark., who with his partner, John Bihler, formerly of Chicago, run a well-cluttered hangout for collectors of the unusual.

Coger figures there are three basic reasons for the changing taste of antiques collectors. They no longer can afford the servants to help clean elegant collections of old glass, china and figures, have no room to display such collections, and no longer are interested in gathering together the traditional.

Coger and Bihler do most of their antiques hunting at antiques fairs—"the nation's attics long since have been emptied," said Coger.

"There is a real shortage of antiques," said Coger, "and in all fields from fine old European furniture to early American cookie boards.

"It will only get worse. In our present world of mass production there is so little made which can stand the test of time."

House, Senate Votes Planned On Tax Bills

By BILL BARRETT
United Press International

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—A $7,700,000 road tax package came up for amendments in the West Virginia House of Delegates today while the Senate was to vote on a property transfer tax to raise $3,000,000 for schools.

The highway revenue bills include a one-cent increase in the six-cents-a-gallon gasoline tax and higher fees for motor vehicle and drivers' licenses. They passed the Senate Tuesday and will be up for House passage Friday unless they meet unexpected delays.

A Senate vote had been scheduled Wednesday on the 1 per cent property transfer tax, but was delayed so that technical amendments can be made.

Action Speeded Up

The sudden speed-up in action on revenue bills and other major legislation was marked Tuesday by:

—Senate passage of a bill to raise an estimated $3,120,000 for state colleges and the University through a $50 - per - semester entrance fee.

—House approval of a bill to liberalize workmen's compensation benefits, including an increase from $20 to $23 in weekly benefits for disabled workmen and from $65 to $70 in monthly widows' benefits.

Senate approval of the college entrance fee bill came by a 29-3 margin with only Sens. O.G. Hedrick (D-Marion), Roy Parker (D-Monroe) and Arch W. Riley (D-Ohio) opposed.

The Senate Finance Committee, which substituted it for a bill originally designed to raise tuition charges, estimated it would yield $1,720,000 a year for the nine state colleges and $1,400,000 for WVU and Potomac State. Two - thirds would be earmarked for building construction and most of the remainder for faculty salaries. House approval is still required.

Approved by the Senate and returned to the House for concurrence in amendments were bills to allow state college students and their spouses cast absentee ballots if otherwise qualified to vote, and to revise laws governing the state board of accountancy.

Officers Named At Session Of Church Board

FROSTBURG — The board of trustees of First United Presbyterian Church met recently to elect officers. William B. Prichard was named president, succeeding Francis J. Richardson.

Re-elected were Ralph M. Race, vice president, Harry E. Miller, secretary, and William T. Park, treasurer and church financial manager. Other members elected to the board were Fred M. Wilson, Mrs. Margaret E. Faulk, James M. Langley, and Blaine Willetts.

Legislature Disapproves Of SRC Plan

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The West Virginia Legislature is on record disapproving Road Commission plans to include a "Ravenswood loop" on Interstate 77 between Charleston and Parkersburg.

A resolution called on the SRC to abandon such plans as opposed to "the interests of the people" was adopted by the House Wednesday following earlier approval by the Senate, whose Roads Committee originated the measure.

The issue is whether the multiple - lane superhighway should follow a more direct route near Ripley or swing west in a loop toward Ravenswood, designated as "Ripley west."

The resolution said the loop would add $9,000,000 to constriction costs.

Keyser Key Club Attends Meeting

KEYSER — Members of the Key Club of Keyser High School, under sponsorship of the Keyser Kiwanis Club, were in Petersburg yesterday for an inter-school meeting.

APPA Officers Get New Terms

NEW YORK (AP)—The American Paper & Pulp Assn. (APPA) today elected J. R. Kimberly to his second term as president.

Kimberly, 55, is president and board chairman of Kimberly-Clark Corp., Neenah, Wis.

H. E. Whitaker, board chairman of Mead Corp., Dayton, Ohio, was again chosen as the APPA's first vice president.

The elections were announced as the association wound up its 82nd annual convention. For five days, some 5,000 paper men have been discussing the industry's prospects and problems, mostly in meetings of the APPA's 13 divisional associations.

Fire Calls Reported

FROSTBURG—Frostburg firemen answered two fire calls within an hour Tuesday. The first call was to the west end of town for an overheated oil stove. The second call was a flue fire in Eckhart. Approximately 20 firemen answered each call.

MEASURED FOR DANCE—Three members of the Varsity Club of Beall High School, Frostburg, are shown being 'measured' for a 'sock hop' which will be held tomorrow evening at the school. A king is chosen at each of the annual affairs and the size of a boy's foot plays a big part in the selection. Carol Morgan, left, and Sandra Klosterman, members of the 'Chime' staff, are shown totaling the 'footage' of James Lewis, William Hyde and Chester Carter. The dance is co-sponsored by the Chime staff and Varsity Club. Invitations to the dance are made by the girls, who also pay all expenses.

House, Senate Votes Planned On Tax Bills

By BILL BARRETT
United Press International

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—A $7,700,000 road tax package came up for amendments in the West Virginia House of Delegates today while the Senate was to vote on a property transfer tax to raise $3,000,000 for schools.

The highway revenue bills include a one-cent increase in the six-cents-a-gallon gasoline tax and higher fees for motor vehicle and drivers' licenses. They passed the Senate Tuesday and will be up for House passage Friday unless they meet unexpected delays.

A Senate vote had been scheduled Wednesday on the 1 per cent property transfer tax, but was delayed so that technical amendments can be made.

Action Speeded Up

The sudden speed-up in action on revenue bills and other major legislation was marked Tuesday by:

—Senate passage of a bill to raise an estimated $3,120,000 for state colleges and the University through a $50-per-semester entrance fee.

—House approval of a bill to liberalize workmen's compensation benefits, including an increase from $20 to $23 in weekly benefits for disabled workmen and from $65 to $70 in monthly widows' benefits.

Senate approval of the college entrance fee bill came by a 29-3 margin with only Sens. O.G. Hedrick (D-Marion), Roy Parker (D-Monroe) and Arch W. Riley (D-Ohio) opposed.

The Senate Finance Committee, which substituted it for a bill originally designed to raise tuition charges, estimated it would yield $1,720,000 a year for the nine state colleges and $1,400,000 for WVU and Potomac State. Two-thirds would be earmarked for building construction and most of the remainder for faculty salaries. House approval is still required.

Approved by the Senate and returned to the House for concurrence in amendments were bills to allow state college students and their spouses cast absentee ballots if otherwise qualified to vote, and to revise laws governing the state board of accountancy.

Officers Named At Session Of Church Board

FROSTBURG — The board of trustees of First United Presbyterian Church met recently to elect officers. William B. Prichard was named president, succeeding Francis J. Richardson.

Re-elected were Ralph M. Race, vice president, Harry E. Miller, secretary, and William T. Park, treasurer and church financial manager. Other members elected to the board were Fred M. Wilson, Mrs. Margaret E. Faulk, James M. Langley, and Blaine Willetts.

Legislature Disapproves Of SRC Plan

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The West Virginia Legislature is on record disapproving Road Commission plans to include a "Ravenswood loop" on Interstate 77 between Charleston and Parkersburg.

A resolution called on the SRC to abandon such plans as opposed to "the interests of the people" was adopted by the House Wednesday following earlier approval by the Senate, whose Roads Committee originated the measure.

The issue is whether the multiple-lane superhighway should follow a more direct route near Ripley or swing west in a loop toward Ravenswood, designated as "Ripley west."

The resolution said the loop would add $9,000,000 to construction costs.

Keyser Key Club Attends Meeting

KEYSER — Members of the Key Club of Keyser High School, under sponsorship of the Keyser Kiwanis Club, were in Petersburg yesterday for an inter-school meeting.

Donald Heare, a local Kiwanian, sponsor of the local club, accompanied the school group.

Water Situation Aired By Barton Council

BARTON—Town officials are continuing efforts to secure a better water supply for residents of this community.

Last night some 60 interested persons met with Mayor Arthur Hoffa and councilmen at the American Legion home and discussed the possibilities of getting a more adequate water supply.

Maurice Lamberson, one of the councilmen, spoke on the possibility of bettering the supply by building a secondary dam near the present dam located on Bucher Run about a mile from the corporate limits of the community.

Mayor Hoffa said he and the councilmen have agreed to make an appointment with Rep. John R. Foley to learn about possible federal aid necessary for a survey.

The mayor said he and town officials have been attempting to relieve the situation but the cost of improving the supply will be high.

Some 30 residents of the Dog Wood Flat section of Barton last night indicated they would like to become incorporated as part of the community.

Also discussed at the meeting was the possibility of getting the services of a resident physician. The community has been without the services of a doctor for about 10 or 15 years when Dr. Samuel Boucher maintained an office there.

It was pointed out at the meeting that two rooms next to the Post Office are available as office space for a physician. The secretary of the Allegany County Medical Association will be contacted to learn if there is a possibility of getting a doctor at Barton.

Moorefield Legion Post Readies For Visit Of State Commander

MOOREFIELD — The John M. Golliday Post of the American Legion will hold a shrimp supper for members on Monday, March 11, at 7:30 p. m., according to an announcement by Edward Bill, post commander.

Bill said that Lincoln Cox, state department commander, will address the members. Also on the program will be William Jackson, Charles Town, 10th District commander.

Mayor P. W. Clarke and Councilmen Ervin Bowman, Chester Hott, J. W. Rohrbaugh, E. L. Puffenberger and Devaul Schell have been invited to attend the meeting.

The annual membership drive is under way, according to Commander Bill, and teams for the 1959 campaign are soliciting memberships among former members and veterans eligible to join the Legion.

OUR COUNTRY

The union of hearts, the union of hands and the Flag of our Union forever.—Morris.

Not Yet Perfect

THREE RECENT near-collisions between commercial and military aircraft should get the very closest study, particularly in light of the fact that air safety rules have been vastly improved since the flurry of mid-air crashes that began with the Grand Canyon tragedy in 1956. These are among the principal precautions taken today which did not exist in 1956: All pure jet flights at altitudes of 24,000 feet and over are on instrument flight plans, are under air traffic control guidance from the ground, and are monitored the whole way by radar. On three great "skyways" coast to coast and 10 miles wide, all planes flying at altitudes from 15,000 to 22,000 feet are under "positive control." That means every aircraft in those zones flies an instrument plan, is directed from the ground, and is protected by a "cocoon" of air space.

UNDER A PLAN initiated last July by the airlines themselves, all commercial aircraft flying at altitudes 10,000 feet and over rely on instrument flight rules and place themselves under air traffic control. This gives them solid protection against each other, but not against business, private or military craft which do not choose to follow the same rules. At and near at least 40 busy U. S. military and naval air bases, the heavy burden of military flying has been separated either geographically or procedurally (by allotting specific air channels) from commercial and other air traffic. More such plans are being worked on steadily.

IN ADDITION to all this, there is in service today substantially more radar, more traffic control equipment, more of other electronic devices and the personnel to operate these safeguards than existed in 1956. And more is coming into use almost every day. Governors See Danger In Johnson Policies

WASHINGTON—In his attack on the monopolistic character of Senator Lyndon B. Johnson's management of the Senate majority, Senator William Proxmire of Wisconsin is far more closely attuned to the wave length of the 35 Democratic Governors than to that of the 64 Democratic Senators.

The Governors are the ones who scent danger in the Johnson compromises which anchor the party in the center of a well-trodden highway. Governors are much closer to the political range of the voters and much more isolated than Senators. The customers couldn't care less how the Governors get their political effects, but turn a close and beady eye on the results.

WASHINGTON has always tended to become absorbed in the technical maneuvering of the House and Senate, in how it's done fully as much as in what is done. It has been dazzled by Johnson's technical proficiency, which is almost entirely responsible for the praise and press he has had.

There are many reasons why so much attention has been paid to it. First of all, this city literally 'loves politics." It has been starved for leadership and for the interplay of conflicting ideas and ambitions.

Johnson has rarely allowed Democratic conflict to emerge on the Senate floor; his skill in averting it by cloakroom maneuver is the show, the fascinating performance so often glowingly described.

Even so, he could not get so much attention if the performance at the White House were not so lackluster. To put it bluntly, it is a bore to press and public.

IT IS EQUALLY true that if a Democratic President occupied the White House, he and not Johnson would be the focus of attention. What such a President said and did would be the party line. If he followed the Democratic tradition, he would be a strong and commanding leader and the likes of Johnson would have to fall in line.

It is fair to add also that Johnson for four years prior to 1959 made a record of achievement with a hairline majority of many diverse elements and strong-willed men. For that, no one can ever take credit away from him.

Proxmire's point is that Johnson is in a rut. He argues that Johnson is compromising major issues out of a habit no longer dictated by necessity, now that a strong Democratic majority exists. The point was daringly taken, for Johnson has power and can be vindictive on occasion.

IN BELLING the cat, Proxmire has had the courage to do what a substantial number of Democratic Senators, at least, have been too timorous to attempt. Because they have not been challenged by a strong President, they have taken the easy Johnson way. They have gotten by with it because the Johnson technique of obliterating the sharp and controversial points of the issues has left the public apathetic and poorly informed.

With no strong winds then blowing from any direction, it has been more comfortable for Senators to quell their doubts and fears about the real wisdom of Johnson's course while awaiting whatever direction time and circumstances may provide.

Capital Eyes Arab Parley Feelers

WASHINGTON (NEA)—A new idea for a Little Summit conference between leaders of the Arab world and western powers is kicking around Washington and at the United Nations in New York.

The approach is through a suggestion that President Gamal Abdel Nasser and heads of other Arab governments be invited to the United States. The justification is that this would be a return of the visits which Deputy Undersecretary of State Robert Murphy and Assistant Secretary William M. Rountree made to the Middle East last year.

The subject matter for such talks, according to the preliminary feeler, would be to see if some way could be found to disengage the Middle East from the cold war conflict between Soviet Russia and the western powers.

In effect this would be carrying the idea of Arab neutrality one step further.

BUT THE contention is made that in the long run this would bring the Middle East into closer relations with the West. And if that happened, it is maintained that the Arab countries would be less receptive to influence from Soviet Russia.

This whole plan is obviously of Arab origin. There has been no ofifcial State Department acknowledgment of reaction to the suggestion. It has been cooly received in first informal discussions with U. S. officials. There has been no encouragement to the Arabs to make a formal presentation to the State Department for a full conference.

As a subject for speculation, however, the idea is not without interest. The Senate Foreign Relations Committee under its new chairman, J. William Fulbright, of Arkansas, and the repeated tongue lashings of Democratic whip, Sen. Mike Mansfield, of Montana, have urged the State Department to seek new solutions to old, stalemated crises. Imaginative statesmanship could conceivably improve U. S.-Arab relations.

WHAT THE Arabs are understood to mean by "disengaging the Middle East from the cold war" is abandonment by the U. S. of the belief that there is only one crisis in the world—the struggle against communism.

They maintain that the U. S. should stop insisting on pacts and bases for defense against the Soviet Union before giving aid to Middle East countries.

The weakness of this argument is that if the U. S. and western European countries should act to disengage the Middle East from the cold war, it would by no means cause the Communists to disengage and discontinue their efforts to take over that part of the world.

On the contrary, any relaxation of western defenses in the Middle East might only serve to step up Communist subversion.

ARAB leaders point out, however, that relations between Russia and the Middle Eastern countries have been going from bad to worse in recent months.

Nasser has cracked down on Communists in his United Arab Republic of Syria and Egypt. Russia's Khrushchev in reply castigated the U.A.R. leaders in his report to the 21st Party Congress for their charges that Communists were working against Arab nationalism.

Communist agitation in Iraq, tending to take that country into the Soviet orbit, is also regarded as hostile to the interests of Arab unity.

Communist countries' releases of Jews from Rumania and now Russia, for migration into Israel, is also regarded as anti-Arab in purpose.

It is this situation which may have encouraged Arab spokesmen in this country to explore possibilities for improving relations with the West. It is intimated that any moves in this direction by the United States would be welcomed by Arab leaders.

Assignment America

NEW YORK — This is the era of the "taste treat" and of the "new oral sensations." You puts down your money and you takes your cheese. Frozen bistec delicioso, powdered wiener gugelhupf, ready-mix rib roast.

For before dinner there soon will be capsuled martinis, and for after dinner, sponge cake made from real sponges to cut costs and calories. The American public will try anything, long as it's new and well-advertised.

THE GREATEST headway currently is in the field of tars and nicotine. Having been advised by some people to cut down on our smoking we are, naturally, smoking more than ever before. And, in the search for more "taste thrills" for the smoker a number of tobacco merchants are coming out daily with titillating new products to puff on.

There are delightful little cigarillos frequently known as "whiffs," and intended to be savored like cigars rather than inhaled — but who tends toward intentions these days?

AT THE FLOSSY night clubs in New York, we now see women puffing on cheroots that are slimmer and shorter than queen-sized cigarettes. They taste like hubby's Havanas and smell like the blackest tobacco in the back rooms of Paris bistros, and the ladies are delighted with them.

Not only are they discovering a new sensation for the taste buds — they are attracting attention again, for the first time since they shocked the maitres de with a chemise. That was in 1957. It's been a long time between sensations.

WE RETURNED from one of these supper clubs the other night, reeking of Turkish and musing wistfully on the old days when ladies chewed gum to be daring, and discovered a special delivery letter.

It came from a friend of long standing who said he has just been appointed an executive of the "Snuff Information Center," which is kicking off the first active campaign since George III's reign to push snuff.

He said that in these days of hot interest in cool smoking, snuff is not to be sniffed at.

And he meant it literally.

"MORE THAN six million American men and women use snuff today at the rate of 36-million pounds a year," he wrote. "But the reason you probably weren't aware of it, is that they no longer sniff snuff.

"About 95 per cent of today's snuff users take it orally — that is, pinched between the thumb and forefinger, or spooned up with the lid of the container, and placed between the gum and the lower lip."

Another taste treat, obviously.

FOR PEOPLE who wouldn't know snuff from powdered bananas, it is a preparation of pulverized, flavored tobacco. It acquired a bad reputation in the days of the American Revolution, when the rugged colonials began associating it with the lace-frilled dandies who hung around Elizabethan courts, sniffing at snuff—and our forefathers.

It continued to have its adherents, however, and today is growing in popularity (according to the "snuff information" people).

Chief users of no-sniff snuff are farmers, who haven't time to smoke cigarettes, and industrial workers, who operate in plants where smoking's taboo.

BUT THEY HOPE to appeal, of course, to a broader section of society, including women in search of the new taste thrill and attention-getter. And from what I've seen of ladies lately, they can't miss.

Wait'll Marcia gets a load of that new pink snuff. . she'll flip.

"Maybe," I can hear her giggling to Myrtle, "they'll even think it's marijuana. . ."

Right On The Line

CAIRO—One reform we would like to see brother Nasser make as he goes about the difficult task of building up Egypt is to place a limit on the amount of time a belly dancer can hog a night club floor show.

One of those fullblown babes shook, rattled and rolled for a solid—make that flabby—hour the other night at a party the Egyptian representative of 20th Century-Fox threw for Hugh O'Brien at a local deadfall or vice versa named the Montana.

SHE EXHAUSTED two important items after only 30 seconds of her grind—her repertoire and her audience. The rest of the hour was more of the same, done sometimes on the dance floor but much of the time on the ringside tables.

AFTER AN HOUR of the bumps, done to the strains of an orchestra that took its pitch from a piece of chalk being scraped the wrong way across a blackboard, a guy next to me said, "imagine that bum Farouk used to sit through nine of these every night."

THERE IS NO more stunning exhibition of ancient art anywhere in the world than in the Cairo Museum's huge gallery devoted to the treasures found in 1922 in the tomb of King Tutankhamen. From his exquisite ostrich feather fan down through the thousands of precious objects buried with the 19-year-old king nearly 2,000 years before the birth of Christ, there is nothing that fails to provoke breathless wonder.

Archaeologist Howard Carter was the first to step into the tomb on that historic day of discovery. The head of the expedition, Lord Carnarvon, was still outside. Carter sprayed his search light here and there in the murky place and was struck dumb.

"WHAT HAVE YOU found, Carter," Carnarvon called impatiently.

And from the depths of the unparallelled find Carter cried out, "marvels, marvels!"

Gives a fellow goose bumps.

We are able to present today another memorable exclamation evoked by the incredibly varied treasure that was collected and buried with Tutankhamen. Frank Conniff, a Danbury, Conn., Irishman who has tucked away many a departed relative in his time, looked down the long line of showcases in King Tut's gallery and muttered, "what a wake that must've been."

EGYPTIAN employees around the new Nile-Hilton have a touching concern to be of service. They will quickly and nervously shout "certainly" when you ask them to do something, even though they may have only the slightest idea about what you want. They feel it would be impolite to ask a person to repeat.

We asked an electrician to repair a burned-out fuse in our room, "Certainly," he said, "I'll have the housekeeper send you the pillow immediately."

Last night we ordered a roast beef sandwich. "Certainly," the waiter said and returned in half an hour with a huge plate of fois gras.

THEN THERE was the trouble experienced by Welles Hangen, NBC's crack correspondent. During the recent riots in the Belgian Congo, Hangen asked a Cairo travel agent to check on how best he could fly to Leopoldville. The man was delighted to be of service. Half an hour later he called back and reported everything was arranged.

"You fly first from Cairo to London and then take the local," he said briskly. "Are you nuts?" Hangen asked. "Why should I fly to London and take a local from there to Leopoldville?" After a pause the man asked him if he would mind repeating the last city. Hangen did.

"I thought you meant Liverpool,' the fellow said wistfully.

NEW YORK—"All the good ideas come from the heart," said Maurice Chevalier.

There are few men his age today who can match France's gay boulevardier in either grace or gratitude.

"I am 71, and have been in show business now for 60 years—yes, I started at 11," he said. "I take my job seriously, because it is my whole life, my whole happiness.

"You have to love a profession that has been so good to you."

Chevalier, who quit a dubious future in a thumblack factory to become the most durable song-and-dance man of his time, retains a charm that is financial as well as physical. Nearly 50 years ago he was making $20,000 a week, and today is more solvent than the French government. Or the American government, for that matter.

SEATED IN THE living room of his hotel suite, Chevalier was the picture of a timeless, old-fashioned sport. He wore a smart plaid suit whose pattern looks as if it had been woven in Braille. His spring-blue eyes crinkled in a ruddy complexion.

But at 180 pounds, his agile frame gave a slight hint of portliness.

"If I were intelligent, I would weigh a little less," he sighed. "But I am getting at a moment in my life when it is hard to refuse to eat a little more, or drink a little more, if I feel like it.

"To give way to all the bad instincts that we all have—that is what defeats most people. When I see young artists who are broken by liquor and things like that, it makes me sad.

"I AM NOT a moralist—ah, no!—I only know what is good. I know you never run a risk in doing less of anything tempting, and you always run a risk in doing too much of anything.

"Too much of anything is too much—whether it is virtue or vice."

Chevalier is immensely pleased over the international success of his latest movie.

Despite his light-hearted air, work has been a religion with him. His art is endlessly rehearsed.

But the old boy, now minus his famed straw hat, still wears life like it was a flower in his buttonhole.

"Take exercise? Ah, no!" he shook his head. "But I stopped smoking 25 years ago, and I drink very little.

"Whisky is the best drink—when you can indulge it. It gives you a lift. So" — he laughed—"So you must not drink it until you fall down."

Washington Scene

WASHINGTON—It isn't often that I try to write a eulogy about a friend who has passed on, because I don't seem to have the gift for it. But I was so impressed by Rep. Daniel A. Reed while he was alive that I keep remembering all sorts of things about him now that he is dead.

Dan Reed was old, but his spirit wasn't. At 83 his robust humor was still 100 per cent intact. Only a few years ago a young man named Robert Sullivan had the temerity to contest the veteran in the Republican primaries. Sullivan made the tactical and strategic error of saying Mr. Reed had one foot in the grave. Dan routed the upstart by saying his foot would be planted all right, and Sullivan would feel where.

The New Yorker was the Republican dean of Congress, but even the hard days on which his political confreres had fallen failed to depress or daunt the wonderful old man. He said he'd seen Republicans fall and rise before—and Democrats do the reverse. He had—many times.

UNLIKE MANY personages who have to get re-elected, Rep. Reed wasn't afraid of jokes on himself. He didn't feel that a story in which he was the butt impaired his dignity. Just recently he told me a typical Dan Reed anecdote.

The villain of the piece was his son, William, now a grandfather. When William was a baby, Dan Reed was football coach at Cornell University. The father decided his offspring would grow to be as tough as himself.

Whenever young Bill would hurt himself, the father would say: "Don't cry! Just grit your teeth!"

One day the child came into the dressing room after a tough Cornell game. Dan recounted the episode as follows:

"I was busy dressing. Bill began rummaging through a pile of athletic equipment in a corner. Unfortunately for myself I didn't pay much attention to him.

"When I was almost dressed I bent down to tie a shoelace. Bill took advantage of this to try out his athletic prowess. He took a powerhouse swing with a baseball bat and brought it down on my head.

"When I came to, I looked up at him bleary-eyed. Whereupon he said: 'Don't cry, father. Grit your teeth.'

"I gave him no further coaching in being tough."

Washington is a turnover town. Its newspapermen try to keep detached so they won't miss a member of Congress too much when he goes. But Dan Reed was in Congress for 40 consecutive years, and its going to be a long time before many of us can forget him.

SENATOR Hubert H. Humphrey broke down his taciturnity the other day and vouchsafed a few words in the Senate. The monosyllabic Minnesotan introduced a bill to amend the Davis-Bacon Act governing the payment of prevailing wages on Federal construction work. He began:

"May I say at the outset, that major defects in the Davis-Bacon Act have become apparent over the years."

Reticently, he proceeded to amplify this in several thousand words.

That self-same day, Rep. James Roosevelt, of California, inserted an extension of remarks in the Corgressional Record. He said he was offering a House bill that would be a companion to one in the Senate. Rep. Roosevelt said:

"May I say at the outset, that major defects in the Davis-Bacon Act have become apparent over the years."

He went on to repeat, word for word, everything Humphrey had said in the Senate.

In this measure at least, the son of FDR and the man who craves to become one of FDR's successors are not only companionable, but brotherly; in fact, identical twins.

OUR COUNTRY

The union of hearts, the union of hands and the Flag of our Union forever.—Morris.

Not Yet Perfect

THREE RECENT near-collisions between commercial and military aircraft should get the very closest study, particularly in light of the fact that air safety rules have been vastly improved since the flurry of mid-air crashes that began with the Grand Canyon tragedy in 1956. These are among the principal precautions taken today which did not exist in 1956: All pure jet flights at altitudes of 24,000 feet and over are on instrument flight plans, are under air traffic control guidance from the ground, and are monitored the whole way by radar. On three great "skyways" coast to coast and 10 miles wide, all planes flying at altitudes from 15,000 to 22,000 feet are under "positive control." That means every aircraft in those zones flies an instrument plan, is directed from the ground, and is protected by a "cocoon" of air space.

UNDER A PLAN initiated last July by the airlines themselves, all commercial aircraft flying at altitudes 10,000 feet and over rely on instrument flight rules and place themselves under air traffic control. This gives them solid protection against each other, but not against business, private or military craft which do not choose to follow the same rules. At and near at least 40 busy U. S. military and naval air bases, the heavy burden of military flying has been separated either geographically or procedurally (by allotting specific air channels) from commercial and other air traffic. More such plans are being worked on steadily.

IN ADDITION to all this, there is in service today substantially more radar, more traffic control equipment, more of other electronic devices and the personnel to operate these safeguards than existed in 1956. And more is coming into use almost every day. In at least two of the recent near-miss cases, those involving an Eastern Electra and a Capital Viscount, the presumed circumstances of flight—including altitude—should have afforded a high degree of protection. What we need to know is whether there was any deliberate or accidental departure from flight plans, whether the military craft were or were not from "controlled" bases, whether or not they themselves had filed flight plans with the CAA. Whatever the ultimate findings, these incidents stress the fact that for all our recent gains air traffic control is still imperfect and much urgent work remains to be done.

William Fulbright, of Arkansas, and the repeated tongue lashings of Democratic whip, Sen. Mike Mansfield, of Montana, have urged the State Department to seek new solutions to old, stalemated crises. Imaginative statesmanship could conceivably improve U. S.-Arab relations.

WHAT THE Arabs are understood to mean by "disengaging the Middle East from the cold war" is abandonment by the U. S. of the belief that there is only one crisis in the world—the struggle against communism.

They maintain that the U. S. should stop insisting on pacts and bases for defense against the Soviet Union before giving aid to Middle East countries.

The weakness of this argument is that if the U. S. and western European countries should act to disengage the Middle East from the cold war, it would by no means cause the Communists to disengage and discontinue their efforts to take over that part of the world.

On the contrary, any relaxation of western defenses in the Middle East might only serve to step up Communist subversion.

ARAB leaders point out, however, that relations between Russia and the Middle Eastern countries have been going from bad to worse in recent months.

Nasser has cracked down on Communists in his United Arab Republic of Syria and Egypt. Russia's Khrushchev in reply castigated the U.A.R. leaders in his report to the 21st Party Congress for their charges that Communists were working against Arab nationalism.

Communist agitation in Iraq, tending to take that country into the Soviet orbit, is also regarded as hostile to the interests of Arab unity.

Communist countries' releases of Jews from Rumania and now Russia, for migration into Israel, is also regarded as anti-Arab in purpose.

It is this situation which may have encouraged Arab spokesmen in this country to explore possibilities for improving relations with the West. It is intimated that any moves in this direction by the United States would be welcomed by Arab leaders.

NEW YORK — This is the era of the "taste treat" and of the "new oral sensations." You puts down your money and you takes your cherce. Frozen bistec delicioso, powdered wiener gugelhupf, ready-mix rib roast.

For before dinner there soon will be capsuled martinis, and for after dinner, sponge cake made from real sponges to cut costs and calories. The American public will try anything, long as it's new and well-advertised.

THE GREATEST headway currently is in the field of tars and nicotine. Having been advised by some people to cut down on our smoking we are, naturally, smoking more than ever before. And, in the search for more "taste thrills" for the smoker a number of tobacco merchants are coming out daily with titillating new products to puff on.

There are delightful little cigarillos frequently known as "whiffs," and intended to be savored like cigars rather than inhaled — but who tends toward intentions these days?

AT THE FLOSSY night clubs in New York, we now see women puffing on cheroots that are slimmer and shorter than queen-sized cigarettes. They taste like hubby's Havanas and smell like the blackest tobacco in the back rooms of Paris bistros, and the ladies are delighted with them.

Not only are they discovering a new sensation for the taste buds — they are attracting attention again, for the first time since they shocked the maitres de with a chemise. That was in 1957. It's been a long time between sensations.

WE RETURNED from one of these supper clubs the other night, reeking of Turkish and musing wistfully on the old days when ladies chewed gum to be daring, and discovered a special delivery letter.

It came from a friend of long standing who said he has just been appointed an executive of the "Snuff Information Center," which is kicking off the first active campaign since George III's reign to push snuff.

He said that in these days of hot interest in cool smoking, snuff is not to be sniffed at.

And he meant it literally.

"MORE THAN six million American men and women use snuff today at the rate of 36-million pounds a year," he wrote. "But the reason you probably weren't aware of it, is that they no longer sniff snuff.

"About 95 per cent of today's snuff users take it orally — that is, pinched between the thumb and forefinger, or spooned up with the lid of the container, and placed between the gum and the lower lip."

Another taste treat, obviously.

FOR PEOPLE who wouldn't know snuff from powdered bananas, it is a preparation of pulverized, flavored tobacco. It acquired a bad reputation in the days of the American Revolution, when the rugged colonials began associating it with the lace-frilled dandies who hung around Elizabethan courts, sniffing at snuff—and our forefathers.

It continued to have its adherents, however, and today is growing in popularity (according to the "snuff information" people).

Chief users of no-sniff snuff are farmers, who haven't time to smoke cigarettes, and industrial workers, who operate in plants where smoking is taboo.

BUT THEY HOPE to appeal, of course, to a broader section of society, including women in search of the new taste thrill and attention-getter. And from what I've seen of ladies lately, they can't miss.

Wait'll Marcia gets a load of that new pink snuff. . .she'll flip.

"Maybe," I can hear her giggling to Myrtle, "they'll even think it's marijuana. . ."

Right On The Line

CAIRO—One reform we would like to see brother Nasser make as he goes about the difficult task of building up Egypt is to place a limit on the amount of time a belly dancer can hog a night club floor show.

One of those fullblown babes shook, rattled and rolled for a solid—make that flabby—hour the other night at a party the Egyptian representative of 20th Century-Fox threw for Hugh O'Brien at a local deadfall or vice versa named the Montana.

SHE EXHAUSTED two important items after only 30 seconds of her grind—her repertoire and her audience. The rest of the hour was more of the same, done sometimes on the dance floor but much of the time on the ringside tables.

AFTER AN HOUR of the bumps, done to the strains of an orchestra that took its pitch from a piece of chalk being scraped the wrong way across a blackboard, a guy next to me said, "imagine that bum Farouk used to sit through nine of these every night."

THERE IS NO more stunning exhibition of ancient art anywhere in the world than in the Cairo Museum's huge gallery devoted to the treasures found in 1922 in the tomb of King Tutankhamen. From his exquisite ostrich feather fan down through the thousands of precious objects buried with the 19-year-old king nearly 2,000 years before the birth of Christ, there is nothing that fails to provoke breathless wonder.

Archaeologist Howard Carter was the first to step into the tomb on that historic day of discovery. The head of the expedition, Lord Carnarvon, was still outside. Carter sprayed his search light here and there in the murky place and was struck dumb.

"WHAT HAVE YOU found, Carter," Carnarvon called impatiently.

And from the depths of the unparallelled find Carter cried out, "marvels, marvels!"

Gives a fellow goose bumps.

We are able to present today another memorable exclamation evoked by the incredibly varied treasure that was collected and buried with Tutankhamen. Frank Conniff, a Danbury, Conn., Irishman who has tucked away many a departed relative in his time, looked down the long line of showcases in King Tut's gallery and muttered, "what a wake that must've been."

EGYPTIAN employees around the new Nile-Hilton have a touching concern to be of service. They will quickly and nervously shout "certainly" when you ask them to do something, even though they may have only the slightest idea about what you want. They feel it would be impolite to ask a person to repeat.

We asked an electrician to repair a burned-out fuse in our room, "Certainly," he said. "I'll have the housekeeper send you the pillow immediately."

Last night we ordered a roast beef sandwich. "Certainly," the waiter said and returned in half an hour with a huge plate of fois gras.

THEN THERE was the trouble experienced by Welles Hangen, NBC's crack correspondent. During the recent riots in the Belgian Congo, Hangen asked a Cairo travel agent to check on how best he could fly to Leopoldville. The man was delighted to be of service. Half an hour later he called back and reported everything was arranged.

"You fly first from Cairo to London and then take the local," he said briskly. "Are you nuts?" Hangen asked. "Why should I fly to London and take a local from there to Leopoldville?" After a pause the man asked him if he would mind repeating the last city. Hangen did.

"I thought you meant Liverpool,' 'the fellow said wistfully.

Reporter's Notebook

NEW YORK—"All the good ideas come from the heart," said Maurice Chevalier.

There are few men his age today who can match France's gay boulevardier in either grace or gratitude.

"I am 71, and have been in show business now for 60 years—yes, I started at 11," he said. "I take my job seriously, because it is my whole life, my whole happiness.

"You have to love a profession that has been so good to you."

Chevalier, who quit a dubious future in a thumbtack factory to become the most durable song-and-dance man of his time, retains a charm that is financial as well as physical. Nearly 30 years ago he was making $20,000 a week, and today is more solvent than the French government. Or the American government, for that matter.

SEATED IN THE living room of his hotel suite, Chevalier was the picture of a timeless, old-fashioned sport. He wore a smart plaid suit whose pattern looks as if it had been woven in Braille. His spring-blue eyes crinkled in a ruddy complexion.

But at 180 pounds, his agile frame gave a slight hint of portliness.

"If I were intelligent, I would weigh a little less," he sighed. "But I am getting at a moment in my life when it is hard to refuse to eat a little more, or drink a little more, if I feel like it.

"To give way to all the bad instincts that we all have—that is what defeats most people. When I see young artists who are broken by liquor and things like that, it makes me sad.

"I AM NOT a moralist—ah, no!—I only know what is good. I know you never run a risk in doing less of anything tempting, and you always run a risk in doing too much of anything.

"Too much of anything is too much—whether it is virtue or vice."

Chevalier is immensely pleased over the international success of his latest movie.

Despite his light-hearted air, work has been a religion with him. His art is endlessly rehearsed.

But the old boy, now minus his famed straw hat, still wears life like it was a flower in his buttonhole.

"Take exercise? Ah, no!" he shook his head. "But I stopped smoking 25 years ago, and I drink very little.

"Whisky is the best drink—when you can indulge it. It gives you a lift. So" — he laughed—"So you must not drink it until you fall down."

Washington Scene

WASHINGTON—It isn't often that I try to write a eulogy about a friend who has passed on, because I don't seem to have the gift for it. But I was so impressed by Rep. Daniel A. Reed while he was alive that I keep remembering all sorts of things about him now that he is dead.

Dan Reed was old, but his spirit wasn't. At 83 his robust humor was still 100 per cent intact. Only a few years ago a young man named Robert Sullivan had the temerity to contest the veteran in the Republican primaries. Sullivan made the tactical and strategic error of saying Mr. Reed had one foot in the grave. Dan routed the upstart by saying his foot would be planted all right, and Sullivan would feel where.

The New Yorker was the Republican dean of Congress, but even the hard days on which his political confreres had fallen failed to depress or daunt the wonderful old man. He said he'd seen Republicans fall and rise before—and Democrats do the reverse. He had—many times.

UNLIKE MANY personages who have to get re-elected, Rep. Reed wasn't afraid of jokes on himself. He didn't feel that a story in which he was the butt impaired his dignity. Just recently he told me a typical Dan Reed anecdote.

The villain of the piece was his son, William, now a grandfather. When William was a baby, Dan Reed was football coach at Cornell University. The father decided his offspring would grow to be as tough as himself.

Whenever young Bill would hurt himself, the father would say: "Don't cry! Just grit your teeth!"

One day the child came into the dressing room after a tough Cornell game. Dan recounted the episode as follows:

"I was busy dressing. Bill began rummaging through a pile of athletic equipment in a corner. Unfortunately for myself I didn't pay much attention to him.

"When I was almost dressed I bent down to tie a shoelace. Bill took advantage of this to try out his athletic prowess. He took a powerhouse swing with a baseball bat and brought it down on my head.

"When I came to, I looked up at him bleary-eyed. Whereupon he said: 'Don't cry, father. Grit your teeth.'

"I gave him no further coaching in being tough."

Washington is a turnover town. Its newspapermen try to keep detached so they won't miss a member of Congress too much when he goes. But Dan Reed was in Congress for 40 consecutive years, and its going to be a long time before many of us can forget him.

SENATOR Hubert H. Humphrey broke down his taciturnity the other day and vouchsafed a few words in the Senate. The monosyllabic Minnesotan introduced a bill to amend the Davis-Bacon Act governing the payment of prevailing wages on Federal construction work. He began:

"May I say at the outset, that major defects in the Davis-Bacon Act have become apparent over the years."

Reticently, he proceeded to amplify this in several thousand words.

That self-same day, Rep. James Roosevelt, of California, inserted an extension of remarks in the Congressional Record. He said he was offering a House bill that would be a companion to one in the Senate. Rep. Roosevelt said:

"May I say at the outset, that major defects in the Davis-Bacon Act have become apparent over the years."

He went on to repeat, word for word, everything Humphrey had said in the Senate.

In this measure at least, the son of FDR and the man who craves to become one of FDR's successors are not only companionable, but brotherly; in fact, identical twins.

Pullen Backs Non-Citizen Teachers

BALTIMORE (AP)—Dr. Thomas G. Pullen Jr. Maryland superintendent of schools, now may turn more easily to another source of teachers for the State's public school system.

The State Board of Education yesterday agreed to allow Dr. Pullen to hire non-citizens of the United States for teaching jobs.

The board had a regulation saying "only citizens of the United States shall be employed in the public school system in the counties or admitted to the State teachers colleges."

However, the board's by-laws were amended to allow the appointment of foreigners.

Dr. Pullen said exceptions had been made in the past and that the attorney general had ruled the regulation could be waived for good reason.

Dr. Pullen suggested that the regulation be maintained but that he be allowed to make exceptions without first having to consult the board.

The Montgomery County Council of Parent-Teachers Assn., in a letter to Dr. Pullen, asked that foreigners be permitted to teach in public schools. The letter said non-citizens are "potential source of excellent teachers."

Stock Market Has Five Billion Shares

By ELMER C. WALZER
UPI Financial Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — Every time the average of all stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange rises 20 cents, the valuation of all listed shares rises by more than $1 billion.

That's because there are more than five billion shares listed on the big board—the last total available as of Jan. 31 was 5,074,653,534 shares.

Incidentally as of the end of January, the value of all the listed shares amounted to $200,825,782,527. That's only about 55 billion less than the national debt.

Of course, if anyone tried to liquidate that stock to pay the debt through confiscation of the stock—as might be done in Russia—the value would shrink like a sponge in reverse.

For the big stocks, this market is pretty much the same as it was in 1929 when the listings first reached the billion-share mark. The outstanding difference today is that the shares are in smaller pieces and there are more of them. It's nearly all done by splitups.

Stock Splits

Take General Motors Corp., for example. Back in 1907, there were 825,568 shares of GM outstanding. In 1920 there was a 10 for 1 split which lifted the total to 20,599,344 shares.

In 1924 GM had a reverse split — 1-for-4 —which brought the shares down to 5,161,599.

A 50 per cent stock dividend in 1926 raised the total to 8,700,000 shares. In 1927, a 2-for-1 split raised it to 17,400,000 shares. Then a 2½ for 1 split brought the total to 43,500,000 shares in 1929.

There was a long interval until 1950 when a 2-for-1 split boosted the outstanding stock to 86,208,680 shares. A 3-for-1 split in 1955 lifted the total to 280,989,096.

The company issues stock from time to time for its incentive plan and today it has 282 million shares outstanding. This tops the list.

The other big listings include in order of size: Standard oil (N.J.) 215 million shares; American Telephone (after April 15), 212 million; General Electric, 88 million; Sears Roebuck, 75 million; Standard Oil of California, 63 million; Texas Co., 60 million; U.S. Steel, 53 million; Socony Mobil, 49 million, and du Pont 46 million.

"Little Market"

These members of the Big Ten have together a total of 843 million shares of about 17 per cent of all the stock listed. Thus they make up a little stock market of their own. If each one would rise $1.25 a share, their total listings would rise in value by more than $1 billion.

When American Telephone's 3-for-1 split becomes fact on April 15, the date of the stockholders' meeting, the total of listed shares will rise by 141 million shares.

The value of a company's stock doesn't mean that's the asset value of the company as carried on its books. General Motors as of the end of 1957 carried its stock at the par of $1.67 a share with a value of $468,315,160. Right now it's worth nearly $13 billion in the market.

Standard Oil (N.J.) carries its assets around $8 billion and its stock is worth more than $11 billion.

All of the foregoing is carried to indicate that the dollar changes in stock valuation do not mean that anyone is richer by the big figures. All the holders of all the stock listed are richer on paper by one billion dollars if the market goes up 20 cents a share on average.

Where does one get such an average? It's the Standard & Poor's index of 500 stocks which has been uncannily running neck and neck with the actual market average as calculated each month by the exchange of all stocks. For example, on Jan. 30, the average of all stocks by actual figures was $55.34 and the Standard & Poor's index was 55.42.

When American Telephone's 3-for-1 split becomes fact on April 15, the date of the stockholders' meeting, the total of listed shares will rise by 141 million shares.

The value of a company's stock doesn't mean that's the asset value of the company as carried on its books. General Motors as of the end of 1957 carried its stock at the par of $1.67 a share with a value of $468,315,160. Right now it's worth nearly $13 billion in the market.

Standard Oil (N.J.) carries its assets around $8 billion and its stock is worth more than $11 billion.

All of the foregoing is carried to indicate that the dollar changes in stock valuation do not mean that anyone is richer by the big figures. All the holders of all the stock listed are richer on paper by one billion dollars if the market goes up 20 cents a share on average.

Where does one get such an average? It's the Standard & Poor's index of 500 stocks which has been uncannily running neck and neck with the actual market average as calculated each month by the exchange of all stocks. For example, on Jan. 30, the average of all stocks by actual figures was $55.34 and the Standard & Poor's index was 55.42.

Airline Pilot Had No Illusion; Boys Admit Shooting Tracer Bullets Into Sky

BALTIMORE (AP)—A Capital Airlines pilot was correct. He did see tracer bullets pass the nose and wing of his Viscount plane as he was about to land at Friendship Airport.

Two boys admitted yesterday they were shooting tracer bullets into the sky the night of Feb. 17.

Federal officials, however, released them. The teen-agers, FBI agents said, had no intention of shooting at the plane. It just happened to have come into their range.

"We have no proof of intent," Leon H. A. Pierson, U. S. attorney, said. He explained that intent to damage an interstate carrier is necessary before the government has a case.

FBI agents said an 18-year-old service station attendant at Elkridge and a 17-year-old companion admitted firing bullets into the sky the night of the plane incident. The shooting was being done from a quarry near Dorsey.

The older boy had a dozen tracer bullets which he said was given him by a soldier-friend stationed at Fort Meade. He was using a .30-caliber rifle.

Although the tracers were intended for machine gun use, agents said they may be fired from rifles.

Capt. R. M. Stair was pilot of the plane carrying eight passengers and three crewmen on a flight from Chicago to Washington with stops at Pittsburgh and Baltimore.

The bodies we now recognize as bacteria first were found by Anton van Leeuwenhoeg in 1683, but the first successful study was made by Louis Pasteur.

Electronic Ghosts Set In Industry

Automatic "Bosses" Would Speed Up And Expand Production

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Electronic "ghosts" are ready to step into American factories, boss complicated machines, speed up —and expand—production.

The Massachusetts Institute of Technology said so Wednesday.

The research engineers call it the Automatically Programmed Tool system—APT. They hail it as a technological breakthrough in turning out complex, critically accurate parts for aircraft and for industry generally.

Two years of research in the MIT Servomechanisms Laboratory was sponsored by the Air Force, Air Materiel Command. Nineteen aircraft plants around the country cooperated.

Some day, says Douglas T. Ross of MIT, every part of the vast industrial machinery of the United States will benefit from APT. He is head of the computer applications group of the Servomechanisms Laboratory.

A giant machine tool stands in the MIT laboratory — incredibly working by itself. You won't see the "ghost" behind that operation, nor hear it muttering a strange language—likethis:

"On kul, on spn, go rgt, tl left, circle-ctr, plus 2, plus 3, radius, plus 5."

Nevertheless an electronic ghost, working with that strange APT language, calculated and prepared the complicated mathematical instructions which tell the machine just what to do. What is the "ghost" saying?

In relatively simple English it goes like this:

"Turn on the coolant, turn on the spindle, go right with the tool on the left side along the circle whose center is located at x equals 2, y equals e, with a radius of five."

The general idea is this:

A quiet revolution has been going on for 10 years in factories making airplane-type parts. Production has been growing more and more automatic.

Now comes this APT breakthrough. Digital computers have been married to automatically controlled machine tools.

The MIT engineers have found a way to write general directions in the strange, but easily learned APT language of up to six-letter words—directions which the big digital computer can understand.

From these instructions the big computer takes over the job—actually working out the complicated mathematics. Recorded on tape, these instructions tell the small special-purpose computer controlling the machine tool just what to do. Intricate metal parts are then turned out with great accuracy.

Here's one example of the programming time saved. It takes 200 man-hours to program, manually, a typical wing rib shape. The same programming job takes five hours by the APT-computer method.

Viaduct Pumping Station Checked

The last of three pumping stations needed for the Cumberland-Ridgeley flood protection project underwent its final inspection yesterday.

The inspection was made by the Corps of Engineers officials, E. J. Albrecht Company officials, Mayor J. Edwin Keech, City Engineer C. R. Nuzum and Ray Maphis, assistant maintenance superintendent.

Nuzum said he was told several minor deficiencies found in the inspection by Rex E. Dexter, resident engineer for the Corps of Engineers, will be completed today or tomorrow and be followed by a recommendation that the unit be turned over to the city for maintenance.

The Viaduct pumping station was completed by the Albrecht firm for about $100,000 as part of the $2,115,879 contract for sections 2 and 3 of the Wills Creek phase of the flood project.

The two other units, the Mill Race and Ridgeley pumping stations, were built by the same firm for about $768,000.

Board Gives Approval To Liquor Site

Transferring License From Centre Street To LaVale Backed 2 to 1

The Allegany County Board of License Commissioners today voted to grant a transfer of the package liquor goods store license of the Potomac Fruit Market, Inc., from North Centre and Frederick streets to a site in LaVale.

Voting against the granting the liquor license transfer was Edward J. Ryan, who recently was named to the board. Ryan, a Democrat, said that a large number of persons signed the remonstrance against issuance of the license and he felt that their wishes should be acceded to.

Stanley O. Hamilton, the Republican member, and Howard Vandegrift, a Democrat, both voted for the transfer. They said that testimony in the remonstrance hearing February 17 showed that there are 22 commercial establishments in the section and that there had been an on-sale beer license in an adjacent property at one time.

"All three board members agreed that the remonstrants' testimony that property values would be effected and that there would be an adverse affect on children who take busses to school from a nearby intersection were not valid.

Earl Allen, who is one of the licensees, testified concerning the commercial aspects of the section along U. S. Route 40 from the site of the proposed premises and the Six Mile House. The other licensees are Edna Griffith and Bertha Walker.

Milton Gerson was attorney for the applicants and Earl E. Manges was counsel for the remonstrants.

Liquor Board MakesChange In Procedure

The practice of holding hearings on two days for applicants for renewal of alcoholic beverage licenses was abolished today by the Allegany County Board of Alcoholic Beverage Licenses Commissioners.

Edward J. Ryan, recently named to the board by Gov. Tawes, recommended at today's board meeting that the practice be discontinued. He said it was unnecessary and only caused a jam in the office of Joseph E. Boden, clerk of court, on the two days set aside.

Stanley O. Hamilton, board chairman, and Howard Vandegrift, the other members of the board, agreed that the system be scrapped.

Instead, the board said that persons who apply for renewal of their licenses will be able to obtain their permits by going directly to the clerk's office on or after April 21.

The board said that applications for new licenses will be called in for discussion and licenses against whom complaints have been lodged will also be called in before the board for settlement of problems.

The new procedure will be more efficient and will also eliminate long waiting by licensees at the Court House which resulted in past years, it was stated.

It was stressed by the board that licensees make applicant for renewals on or before March 25 so they can be processed and advertised as required by law. Any delinquent applicants will face the prospect of being without their permits to operate, it was pointed out. Licenses become effective May 1.

CHURCH SPEAKER — Rev. Paul H. Hetrick, of Brookville, Pa., a Nazarene missionary to Africa, will speak tomorrow at 7:30 p. m. at the First Church of the Nazarene here. Nine other Nazarene churches in the area will participate in the services.

U. S. Weather Unit Honors Oakland Man

R. E. Weber Among 21 Cited For Service For Over 50 Years

Ralph E. Weber, Oakland, was one of the 21 citizen observers honored today by the Weather Bureau for making daily weather observations for over 50 years without pay.

The 21 men and women are the veterans of a nationwide corps of 7,000 volunteers who read rain guages and thermometers daily.

Weber is the No. 2 observer in Maryland from the point of service, exceeded only by D. Paul Oswald of Hagerstown who started one year before him in 1902.

The accommodating Garrett Countian holds the honor of reading the lowest surface temperature ever recorded south of the Mason-Dixon Line—a bitter 40 degrees below zero on January 13, 1912.

Weber, Oswald, and the 19 other observers were recognized by the Weather Bureau, in a special citation edition of the Daily Weather Map issued over the United States. They have their pictures and biographies printed for all to read.

The salute to the 21 men and women couldn't be placed on a more appropriate place than on the back of the weather map.

F. W. Reichelderfer, chief of the Weather Bureau, paid tribute to work of his unsalaried, and often unsung, observers.

"Without the daily records of these cooperative observers," Reichelderfer said, "our knowledge of the climate of the United States would be meager."

The data from the cooperative observers, scattered all over the country, helps weather forecasting. As the records are built up over the years, they also help answer such far-reaching scientific questions as: "Is our climate changing, and if so, how?"

Each of the observers receives from the Weather Bureau a rain guage and a small shelter with a maximum and minimum thermometer. Every day in the year the observers log the readings. They all file monthly reports.

Beyond that, they often become the local weatherman for the area and spend much time answering inquiries about the coldest February and the wettest August in local history.

State Senate Considering Appointees

Walsh Named Regent At University; Some Big Jobs Unfilled

The Senate of the General Assembly has before it 39 statewide appointments and 578 local jobs in Baltimore City and the counties submitted by Gov. Tawes for confirmation.

The governor has more than 130 other state jobs to be filled later, including memberships on the State Roads Commission, Racing Commission and other agencies.

Conspicuously missing from the list of State appointments yesterday was one for superintendent of State Police. A spokesman for the governor said he was delaying this one "for further study" and would make a recommendation to the Legislature before it adjourns April 6.

Decision Difficult

The spokesman said Tawes was advised by the attorney general that although the constitution required the appointment to be submitted, he did not think there would be any serious legal question in delaying it. Col. Elmer F. Munshower, the present superintendent, is serving a term which expires in May.

Tawes reportedly is attempting to decide between a State Police career officer, Maj. William F. Weber, and other candidates.

Among his other appointments he named former Atty. Gen. William C. Walsh of Cumberland as a member of the University of Maryland board of regents for a nine-year term; continued Wallace Reidl of Towson as the $15,000-a-year director of the Department of Parole and Probation; named Dr. Aaron Dietz of Hyattsville to the State Board of Health, and continued Dr. George Anderson of Baltimore on that agency.

Altogether, he reappointed 19 incumbents to their jobs, including many designated by Gov. McKeldin for the minor boards and agencies.

His appointments to Baltimore City jobs reflected a strong trend toward supporters of Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro and faction leader Jack Pollack, as opposed to the Philip Goodman - Irvin Kovens Democratic faction which had held numerous positions under the Republican McKeldin administration.

Pollack Victory

Pollack's son-in-law, Attorney Paul A. Dorf, was named chief judge of the Traffic Court and four of the eight court appointees are identified with Pollack's organization. Mayor D'Alesandro's son, Thomas III, was named president of the Board of Election Supervisors.

Fort Hill Junior Red Cross Completes Disaster Chest

The Junior Red Cross unit at Fort Hill High School has completed a project which will directly benefit a disaster area where school's and children's institutions have been affected.

The Fort Hill unit has completed the construction and fitting-out of a Red Cross chest which will eventually wind up in disaster or devastated area where school, recreational and health supplies are needed.

The chest was constructed in an industrial arts class under the direction of Lee Alexander, shop instructor, and supplies purchased under the supervision of Mrs. Albert Hast, faculty sponsor of the Fort Hill Junior Red Cross.

Mrs. John M. Robb, chairman of the high school section of the Junior Red Cross, accepted the chest on behalf of the Allegany County Red Cross Chapter. She explained that the chest program was inaugurated during the 1947-48 school year, and that since that time 1,074 chests have been shipped to distressed areas.

Shop students who were chiefly responsible for the building of the chest were Lawrence Cosgrove and William Llwellyn, while the purchasing of supplies was done by Bonnie Sansom, Bonnie Saville, Hugh Brinkman and Truman Breighner.

Calvin Harbaugh assisted in the packing of the chest which was done under supervision of Mrs. George W. Legge, executive secretary of the County Red Cross Chapter.

Mrs. Hast said the Fort Hill Hi-Y and Tri-Hi-Y units contributed towards the purchasing of supplies aside from the donations made by the student body.

Recipients of direct aid from Junior Red Cross units from throughout the country were the survivors of the tragic parochial school fire last fall in Chicago, Mrs. Legge pointed out, explaining that a Red Cross chest was provided for each of the 24 rooms in the school.

The Chicago parochial school students who survived the disaster also were furnished a new book bag and gift box each, which drew the comment from the archdiocesan superintendent of schools that "if the adult and junior members of the Red Cross could have seen the looks on the faces of the children they would be amply repaid."

Mrs. Legge said the Junior Red Cross chests were also provided for the schools in the southwest section of the country which were either damaged or destroyed in floods last year.

Kelly Tire Distributors Confer Here

Seventy-two Kelly-Springfield Tire Company Cumberland District distributors attended the company's 1959 spring distributor meeting at the Shrine Country Club this morning.

M. T. Powers, Kelly vice president - sales, told the distributors about Kelly's "better-than-industry" sales performance during 1958 and Kelly's production and product control improvements to handle 1959's increased consumer demand.

From the home office in Cumberland, L. J. Auker, advertising and sales promotion manager, told the distributors, "Everything points to a terrific growth in replacement tire sales volume in 1959. Industry estimates forecast renewal sales this year of better than sixty-one million passenger tires, almost nine million truck and bus tires and almost two million farm tractor and implement tires.

"The retreading business also continues to register greater and greater gains. The industry forecast for this year is approximately 36 million units for passenger retreads and 1¼ million truck retreads," Anker concluded.

Other indications of a record-breaking sales year, as well as the features and benefits of the complete Kelly line of tires for 1959, were discussed by S. W. Harter, Cumberland district manager. The meeting concluded with lunch.

Board Suspends Tavern License

The license of Ruffo's Tavern in Mt. Savage was suspended for six days today by the Allegany County Board of Alcoholic Beverage License Commissioners.

A plea of guilty to possession of a gaming device in the form of a lip board was entered by the licensees at today's hearing. The suspension starts March 1 and continues through March 6.

Matthew J. Mullaney was attorney for the tavern operators at the hearing. He told the board that it was a minor infraction of the law and urged leniency. The tavern licensees had been fined $100 in Trial Magistrates' Court in the gaming charge.

Long Asks Ruling On Seniority

Commissioner Seeks Clarification On Transfer Of Five

The Civil Service Commission of Cumberland was asked today to solve an issue concerning seniority rights of five Street Department employes who were transferred into the newly created Flood Maintenance Department.

John J. Long, commissioner of streets and public property, requested the opinion in a letter to Francis A. Kenny, chairman of the commission.

Long said the problem was broached by Guy Long, secretary of Local 812, Municipal Wokers Union, when the five men were transferred by an order introduced by Mayor J. Edwin Keech on February 16 in the council meeting.

The order was passed with a 4-1 vote with Commissioner Long against the proposal.

Seniority Retained

By that action, Roy Maphis was made foreman of the new department with Emory H. Suger, Gilbert L. Markwood, Joseph J. Suethe and Harry Sharretts as its four-man crew.

These men had been in the Street Department under a flood maintenance unit. Mayor Keech's order further stated that the five employes would retain their seniority rights.

Then this past Monday, the council tabled an order returning one of the five men, Markwood, back to the Street Department.

Markwood, the commissioner noted, who has a very good record in the street department, requested the transfer back to his former job.

Long Asks Ruling

Long stated: "For the protection of the seniority of the men in the Department of Streets and Public Property, will you please have your body rule on these changes. The Civil Service Rule on transfers states 'With the approval of the commission any regularly appointed employe of the classified service may, upon the written request of both appointing authorities involved, be transferred from the position he holds to a like position in another department. The seniority of a transferred employe shall begin anew as of the date of the transfer,' and Rule 9, Section 1, states 'Seniority of employes in the classified city service shall be confined to the department wherein employed except any special case that may be ruled upon by the commission."

Long asked: "How can an employe hold seniority in two departments?

"These five transferred workers have been in the flood maintenance department under the commissioner of streets and public property since the inception of the flood maintenance section approximately two years ago. Some of the men hold additional years of seniority in the Department of Streets and Public Property," he concluded.

Board Gives Approval To Liquor Site

Transferring License From Centre Street To LaVale Backed 2 to 1

The Allegany County Board of License Commissioners today voted to grant a transfer of the package liquor goods store license of the Potomac Fruit Market, Inc., from North Centre and Frederick streets to a site in LaVale.

Voting against the granting the liquor license transfer was Edward J. Ryan, who recently was named to the board. Ryan, a Democrat, said that a large number of persons signed the remonstrance against issuance of the license and he felt that their wishes should be acceded to.

Stanley O. Hamilton, the Republican member, and Howard Vandegrift, a Democrat, both voted for the transfer. They said that testimony in the remonstrance hearing February 17 showed that there are 22 commercial establishments in the section and that there had been an on-sale beer license in an adjacent property at one time.

All three board members agreed that the remonstrants' testimony that property values would be effected and that there would be an adverse affect on children who take busses to school from a nearby intersection were not valid.

Earl Allen, who is one of the licensees, testified concerning the commercial aspects of the section along U. S. Route 40 from the site of the proposed premises and the Six Mile House. The other licensees are Edna Griffith and Bertha Walker.

Milton Gerson was attorney for the applicants and Earl E. Manges was counsel for the remonstrants.

Liquor Board MakesChange In Procedure

The practice of holding hearings on two days for applicants for renewal of alcoholic beverage licenses was abolished today by the Allegany County Board of Alcoholic Beverage Licenses Commissioners.

Edward J. Ryan, recently named to the board by Gov. Tawes, recommended at today's board meeting that the practice be discontinued. He said it was unnecessary and only caused a jam in the office of Joseph E. Boden, clerk of court, on the two days set aside.

Stanley O. Hamilton, board chairman, and Howard Vandegrift, the other members of the board, agreed that the system be scrapped.

Instead, the board said that persons who apply for renewal of their licenses will be able to obtain their permits by going directly to the clerk's office on or after April 21.

The board said that applications for new licenses will be called in for discussion and licenses against whom complaints have been lodged will also be called in before the board for settlement of problems.

The new procedure will be more efficient and will also eliminate long waiting by licensees at the Court House which resulted in past years, it was stated.

It was stressed by the board that licensees make applicant for renewals on or before March 25 so they can be processed and advertised as required by law. Any delinquent applicants will face the prospect of being without their permits to operate, it was pointed out. Licenses become effective May 1.

CHURCH SPEAKER — Rev. Paul H. Hetrick, of Brookville, Pa., a Nazarene missionary to Africa, will speak tomorrow at 7:30 p. m. at the First Church of the Nazarene here. Nine other Nazarene churches in the area will participate in the services.

Kelly Tire Distributors Confer Here

Seventy-two Kelly-Springfield Tire Company Cumberland District distributors attended the company's 1959 spring distributor meeting at the Shrine Country Club this morning.

M. T. Powers, Kelly vice president - sales, told the distributors about Kelly's "better-than-industry" sales performance during 1958 and Kelly's production and product control improvements to handle 1959's increased consumer demand.

From the home office in Cumberland, L. J. Auker, advertising and sales promotion manager, told the distributors, "Everything points to a terrific growth in replacement tire sales volume in 1959. Industry estimates forecast renewal sales this year of better than sixty-one million passenger tires, almost nine million truck and bus tires and almost two million farm tractor and implement tires.

"The retreading business also continues to register greater and greater gains. The industry forecast for this year is approximately 30 million units for passenger retreads and 8½ million truck retreads," Auker concluded.

Other indications of a record-breaking sales year, as well as the features and benefits of the complete Kelly line of tires for 1959, were discussed by S. W. Harter, Cumberland district manager. The meeting concluded with lunch.

Board Suspends Tavern License

The license of Ruffo's Tavern in Mt. Savage was suspended for six days today by the Allegany County Board of Alcoholic Beverage License Commissioners.

A plea of guility to possession of a gaming device in the form of a tip board was entered by the licensees at today's hearing. The suspension starts March 1 and continues through March 6.

Matthew J. Mullaney was attorney for the tavern operators at the hearing. He told the board that it was a minor infraction of the law and urged leniency. The tavern licensees had been fined $100 in Trial Magistrates' Court in the gaming charge.

Long Asks Ruling On Seniority

Commissioner Seeks Clarification On Transfer Of Five

The Civil Service Commission of Cumberland was asked today to solve an issue concerning seniority rights of five Street Department employes who were transferred into the newly created Flood Maintenance Department.

John J. Long, commissioner of streets and public property, requested the opinion in a letter to Francis A. Kenny, chairman of the commission.

Long said the problem was broached by Guy Long, secretary of Local 812, Municipal Wokers Union, when the five men were transferred by an order introduced by Mayor J. Edwin Keech on February 16 in the council meeting.

The order was passed with a 4-1 vote with Commissioner Long against the proposal.

Seniority Retained

By that action, Roy Maphis was made foreman of the new department with Emory H. Sager, Gilbert L. Markwood, Joseph J. Soethe and Harry Sharretts as its four-man crew.

These men had been in the Street Department under a flood maintenance unit. Mayor Keech's order further stated that the five employes would retain their seniority rights.

Then this past Monday, the council tabled an order returning one of the five men, Markwood, back to the Street Department.

Markwood, the commissioner noted, who has a very good record in the street department, requested the transfer back to his former job.

Long Asks Ruling

Long stated: "For the protection of the seniority of the men in the Department of Streets and Public Property, will you please have your body rule on these changes. The Civil Service Rule on transfers states 'With the approval of the commission any regularly appointed employe of the classified service may, upon the written request of both appointing authorities involved, be transferred from the position he holds to a like position in another department. The seniority of a transferred employe shall begin anew as of the date of the transfer,' and Rule 9, Section 1, states 'Seniority of employes in the classified city service shall be confined to the department wherein employed except any special case that may be ruled upon by the commission.'"

Long asked: "How can an employe hold seniority in two departments?

"These five transferred workers have been in the flood maintenance department under the commissioner of streets and public property since the inception of the flood maintenance section approximately two years ago. Some of the men hold additional years of seniority in the Department of Streets and Public Property," he concluded.

Firemen Called

Firemen from East Side station this morning answered an alarm at the home of James Folsom, 308 Pulaski Street.

CUF LEADERS CHAT — Prior to the start of last night's County United Fund dinner at which officers were elected and a talk on health services was given, the three men above chatted on CUF details. Left to right they are William C. Walsh, the new president of CUF; A. Earl Johnson, president of Local 26, United Rubber Workers of America, and Lewis J. Ort, outgoing president. The dinner was held at the Cumberland Country Club.

Food Prices At Retail Are Likely To Be Lower

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Agriculture Department said today retail food prices are likely to average a little lower this year than in 1958 when they were at an all-time high.

The department forecast a small reduction in prices because of prospective larger supplies of pork, eggs and, at least during the first half of 1959, of fresh citrus fruits and vegetables.

There appeared to be little cause for joy among grocery-buying housewives and producers, however, because the department forecast said "marketing charges for food are likely to increase this year." This means a smaller farm share of the consumer's food dollar, a bigger take for the middleman, and less savings for the housewife.

The department said in its publication, "The National Food Situation," that per capita consumption likely would recover from the decline of last year when supplies of some foods were temporarily reduced.

The per capita increases will be mostly in pork, lard, chicken and, possibly, lamb and mutton. The consumption rate for beef likely will be 81 pounds per person compared with 79.7 pounds last year. The rate for veal is forecast at 6.7 pounds, compared with 6.8 pounds in 1958.

The consumption rate of pork will jump to a whopping 66 pounds compared with 60.6 pounds last year. The eating of lamb and mutton is expected to go up from 4.1 pounds per person to 4.4 pounds.

Consumption of chicken will jump from 28.2 pounds to 29.8 pounds, the department said.

Make Vegetable-Cream Soups

Frozen vegetables help you "home-make" old-fashioned cream soups.

Cook one package frozen chopped spinach, or frozen chopped broccoli, or frozen cut corn, or frozen mixed vegetables in a small amount of salted water.

Add, without draining, to 3 cups thin cream sauce that has been well seasoned.

Spread it generously on buttered whole wheat bread, adding crisp lettuce and mayonnaise if you like.

Tuna-Cheese Spread

¾ cup chopped ripe olives

You'll picture yourself in Austria when you prepare and serve this old world favorite—Stuffed Veal Breast. Truly a unique taste treat to serve six.

Bring Back Good Old Days With Homemade Ice Cream, Hot Coffee

Remember those long-ago summer mornings when the whole durn family took turns cranking the ice-cream freezer? The ice cream itself was so deliciously cold and rich that the children squealed with delight! Even today, homemade ice cream is a dessert that everyone anticipates with joy.

The only difference between ice cream a la 1957 and the old rack-salt variety is in the preparation. With electric mixers and refrigerators at our disposal, we can make ice cream that's really sensational in half the time—although we do miss the fun of turning the old ice cream paddle!

If you're convinced that homemade ice cream is a "must" for your next dessert, by all means, try a wonderful new recipe for Coffee-Butterscotch Ice Cream. It's just as smooth and creamy as the old-time variety and the flavor is a marvelous blend of two favorites, mellow butterscotch and zesty coffee. For an added touch of lusciousness, top your ice cream with a swoop of whipped cream and sliced bananas. Then bring on the coffee and lots of it — for fragrant coffee is the all-time companion for homemade ice cream — and the good old days are here again!

Coffee-Butterscotch Ice Cream

1 cup sugar, divided
½ Cup ground coffee
1½ cups milk
¼ teaspoon salt
2 egg yolks, slightly beaten
2 teaspoons vanilla
1½ cups whipping cream

Caramelize ½ cup sugar in a heavy skillet. Add coffee to milk, bring to scalding point and strain. Add strained milk slowly to caramelized sugar, stirring constantly. Add remaining sugar and stir until dissolved. Add a little of the hot mixture to egg yolks and return to pan. Cook, stirring constantly, about 2 minutes. Cool. Add vanilla. Whip cream and fold in. Freeze in large refrigerator tray. When firm, turn into chilled bowl, break up with spoon and beat until smooth. Return to tray and freeze until firm. Serve with whipped cream and garnish with sliced bananas. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

French Recipe For Eggplant

The gleaming purple of eggplant served as Aubergine Farci is tops in taste treats. This is the way they prepare eggplant in Provence, France. It adds color to any dinner with unique and superb flavor as well. To serve 4:

Purchase a medium-sized eggplant. Cut the eggplant in half lengthwise and make a few incisions with a sharp knife. Sprinkle well with salt, let stand for 30 minutes and squeeze out the salt and liquid by pressing with a dry cloth. Place in large covered skillet, meat side down, in 2 tablespoons of hot olive oil, cover and cook for 10 to 12 minutes on each side. Ad more oil if necessary.

Scoop out the meat, taking care not to break the skin, and chop coarsely in a wooden bowl. Melt 2 tablespoons butter in a shallow pan, add 2 medium-sized sliced onions and cook slowly until soft without browning. Add 2 skinned, chopped tomatoes (these may be canned whole tomatoes) and the egplant meat. Cover tightly and cook for 5 minutes. Correct the seasoning with salt and pepper.

Fill eggplant skins with the mixture and sprinkle with grated Parmesan cheese and a few browned bread crumbs. Cut 4 anchovy fillets in strips and place them latticewise on top. Pour over the top a little melted butter, brown well under the broiler.

Cheese, Corned Beef In Hash

Blue cheese adds a provocative taste to the old familiar American corned beef hash. This makes four servings.

Combine ½ cup crumbled American Blue cheese (about 3 ounces), one 12-ounce can corned beef, 3 cups diced cooked potatoes, ¼ cup finely chopped onion, ⅓ cup beef stock or bouillon and 2 tablespoons melted butter. Cook over low heat until lightly browned, stirring occasionally.

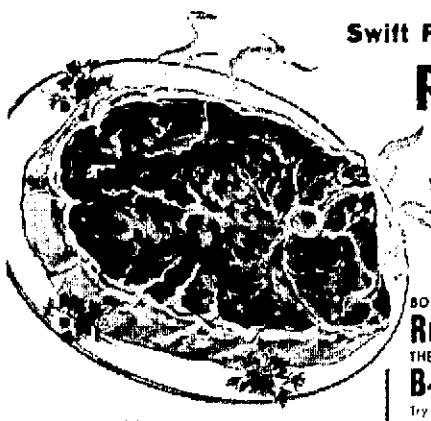

For the best lemonade, slice washed lemons paper thin. Stir in as much sugar as you ordinarily use, then crush the fruit with a potato masher. Allow to stand ½ hour, then add water and ice and serve.

Good accompaniment for soup or salad: cut off crusts from over? bread slices and spread each with a little mayonnaise; toast in a hot waffle iron until lightly browned and cut into strips.

Any cooked green peas left over? Chill and drain, then spoon them into a lettuce leaf, surround with tomato, and serve with a snappy French dressing.

In making Baked Alaska at home the trick is to be sure that both the cake and the ice cream are completely covered by the meringue before the meringue is browned in the oven. The very firm meringue is browned in the oven.

For the best lemonade, slice washed lemons paper thin. Stir in as much sugar as you ordinarily use, then crush the fruit with a potato masher. Allow to stand ½ hour, then add water and ice and serve.

Good accompaniment for soup or salad: cut off crusts from bread slices and spread each with a little mayonnaise; toast in a hot waffle iron until lightly browned and cut into strips.

Any cooked green peas left over? Chill and drain, then spoon them into a lettuce leaf; surround with thin slices of cucumber or tomato, and serve with a snappy French dressing.

In making Baked Alaska at home the trick is to be sure that both the cake and the very firm ice cream are completely covered by the meringue before the meringue is browned in the oven.

Dessert: Creme Brulee

This true "Aristocrat of Desserts" appeals to young and old alike. It has the delightful smoothness of custard with the pleasant coolness of ice cream. You can serve it on a large platter surrounded by several different brandied fruits to add color and eye appeal.

For six servings, scald 2 cups coffee cream; beat 4 egg yolks with 3 tablespoons sugar. Remove the cream from the fire and pour very slowly into the egg mixture, stirring constantly. Add 1 teaspoon vanilla, pour mixture into 1½-quart baking dish and place in pan of hot water in preheated 350 degrees oven for 30 to 35 minutes, or until a silver knife inserted in the center of the custard, comes out clean.

Sift 2 tablespoon brown sugar over the otp of the custard. Place the custard under the broiler until the sugar melts and forms a glaze.

Cool, then refrigerate. Serve very cold.

A Touch Of Spring: Cherry Bonbons

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

Neatest trick we've come upon recently is this way of baking cherry bonbons — and in good time for springtime tables.

Do you know the jars of maraschino cherries that come with stems? Well, the stemmed cherries are stuffed with small pieces of semi-sweet chocolate and then dipped into batter and baked. Pink frosting is spooned over the cookies and guests help themselves — lifting the bonbons by the cherry stems. If your company is like ours, they'll be intrigued with the idea.

This batter mixture is one of the new recipes using corn oil, and it helps to produce a soft-texture cookie dough that tastes good with the fruit. We choose to stuff the cherries with chocolate because we wanted the bonbons to resemble chocolate cherry candies, but if you prefer you might stuff the cherries with nutmeats.

CHERRY BONBONS are just what you need to brighten a springtime table. The bonbons can be prepared by stuffing small pieces of semi-sweet chocolate or nutmeats into the cherries, then dipping them into batter and baking.

CHERRY BONBONS

Ingredients: 1 jar (1 pound) maraschino cherries (with or without stems), ¾ cup semi-sweet chocolate pieces, 1¼ cups sifted flour, ¼ teaspoon baking powder, ½ teaspoon baking soda, ¼ cup corn oil, ¾ cup light brown sugar, 1 egg, ½ tablespoon distilled white vinegar or lemon juice, ½ cup undiluted evaporated milk or light cream, ½ teaspoon vanilla.

Method: Pour off cherry juice and reserve for frosting; drain cherries on absorbent paper. Stuff a semi-sweet chocolate piece into each cherry. Sift together the flour, baking powder and baking soda; with fork or pastry blender blend in corn oil until mixture looks like fine crumbs. With rotary beater (hand or electric) beat brown sugar and egg thoroughly. Stir vinegar into undiluted evaporated milk; mix with vanilla into brown sugar-egg mixture. Beat into corn oil-flour mixture about ⅓ at a time, mixing until smooth after each addition. Batter will be thick. Dip cherries into batter, turning to coat cherry completely. Lift cherries out of batter with a teaspoon and place them one at a time on an ungreased cooky sheet. Bake in a hot (400 degrees) oven 8 to 10 minutes, until mixture looks like fine crumbs. With rotary beater (hand or electric) beat brown sugar and egg thoroughly. Stir vinegar into undiluted evaporated milk; mix with vanilla into brown sugar-egg mixture. Beat into corn oil-flour mixture about ⅓ at a time, mixing until smooth after each addition. Batter will be thick. Dip cherries into batter, turning to coat cherry completely. Lift cherries out of batter with a teaspoon and place them one at a time on an ungreased cooky sheet. Bake in a hot (400 degrees) oven 8 to 10 minutes, (Expect stems on cherries to burn a little!) Cool on wire rack. Makes about 5 dozen bonbons.

To Frost Bonbons: Gradually stir ⅓ cup maraschino cherry juice into 2 cups sifted confectioners' sugar until mixture is smooth. Spoon frosting over tops of bonbons. This makes a thin covering. Use less liquid and add red food coloring for a thicker frosting. Note: ½ cup commercial sour cream may be used instead of the vinegar or lemon juice and the evaporated milk or light cream.

Cocktail Dip

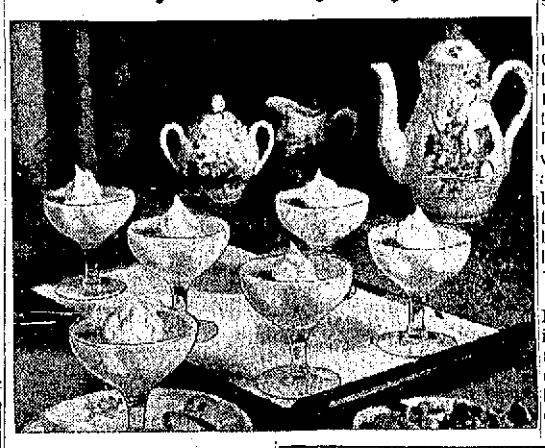

File this idea away for your next party. It's a wonderful dip for crackers or potato chips.

Combine a 4½-ounce can of deviled ham with 1 cup of sour cream. Add a few drops of onion juice, 2 teaspoons drained, chopped capers, 1½ tablespoons chopped pimiento, ⅛ tablespoon fresh-ground black pepper and a few drops of Tabasco.

Mix well, chill in serving bowl and garnish with pimiento and capers.

Use cotton swabs to apply stain or varnish to small scratches on furniture.

Cooperation Keynote Of Large Family Breakfast

By GAYNOR MADDOX

Breakfast is important in any family to maintain health, spirits and growth. So all doctors and nutritionists warn. That's why the Jenkins family of Glenview, Ill., takes it so seriously. Besides Mr. and Mrs. Jenkins, there are six active sons to feed every morning.

The Jenkins week-day breakfast is served in three shifts. Dad eats with the three and four-year-olds. Then the six, eight, and 10-year-olds eat together and lastly Mom and the baby. But on weekends the entire family eats together.

Mrs. Jenkins says she serves both hot and ready-to-eat cereals every morning. Quick-cooking oatmeal or hot wholewheat cereal are prepared early and kept warm in a double boiler or casserole. She also offers the boys a choice of several ready-to-eat cereals.

How does she manage to feed such a large family? Cooperation is the keynote, she says. Mr. Jenkins does the weekly shopping every Thursday night. Bread and meats are purchased once a month and stored in the freezer.

Fruit crisps are a popular dessert of the busy Jenkins family. Her cranberry-apple crisp is a variation of apple crisp. The topping can be prepared in the morning and combined with the fruit just before placing it in the oven.

Cranberry-Apple Cereal Crisp
(Yield: 6-8 servings)

Topping: Two cups ready-to-eat high protein cereal, whole-wheat flakes, corn flakes or bran flakes; ½ cup butter, melted; ½ cup brown sugar, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, ½ teaspoon salt.

Filling: Four cups sliced apples, 1 No. 2 can whole cranberry sauce.

Lightly mix together the cereal, butter, sugar, cinnamon and salt. Gently press ½ of the topping into the bottom of a greased pan 10x6x1¾ inches. Mix together the apples and cranberries. Pour fruit over cereal and sprinkle top with remaining topping. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) until apples are tender and topping is a deep rich golden brown, about 40 minutes. Serve hot or cold, plain or with milk, cream, whipped cream or vanilla ice cream.

TOMORROW'S DINNER: Salmon and green pepper loaf, tomato sauce, baked potatoes, snap beans, seeded rolls, butter or margarine, carrot sticks, celery, cranberry-apple cereal crisp, coffee, tea, milk.

Youngsters usually enjoy a Banana Split Salad. To prepare it arrange two banana halves on a lettuce leaf, put a mound of creamed cottage cheese on each banana half, and top with a little canned crushed pineapple and a maraschino cherry.

Here's New Idea For Waffle Topping

Waffle Topping: At this season of the year pancakes and waffles become popular breakfast fare. Here's a new idea for a topping to serve hot on waffles or pancakes: Combine one cup of crushed pineapple, undrained, with 3 tablespoons of butter, ¼ cup of brown sugar and 1 teaspoon grated orange peel. Heat until bubbly and serve hot. (Yield: 1½ cups.

Filling: Four cups sliced apples, 1 No. 2 can whole cranberry sauce.

Lightly mix together the cereal, butter, sugar, cinnamon and salt. Gently press ½ of the topping into the bottom of a greased pan 10x6x1¾ inches. Mix together the apples and cranberries. Pour fruit over cereal and sprinkle top with remaining topping. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) until apples are tender and topping is a deep rich golden brown, about 40 minutes. Serve hot or cold, plain or with milk.

Youngsters usually enjoy a Banana Split Salad. To prepare it arrange two banana halves on a lettuce leaf, put a mound of creamed cottage cheese on each banana half, and top with a little canned crushed pineapple and a maraschino cherry.

TOMORROW'S DINNER: Salmon and green pepper loaf, tomato sauce, baked potatoes, snap beans, seeded rolls, butter or margarine, carrot sticks, celery, cranberry-apple cereal crisp, coffee, tea, milk.

Here's New Idea For Waffle Topping

Waffle Topping: At this season of the year pancakes and waffles become popular breakfast fare. Here's a new idea for a topping to serve hot on wafles or pancakes: Combine one cup of crushed pineapple, undrained, with 3 tablespoons of butter, ¼ cup of brown sugar and 1 teaspoon grated orange peel. Heat until bubbly and serve hot. (Yield: 1½ cups.

Method: Sift together the flour, baking soda, salt and sugar into a mixing bowl. Add shortening, egg, milk and vanilla. Beat until smooth — about 2 minutes. Unsung Cook Can Take Bow

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

It's been going the rounds for more than a dozen years. Who knows what unsung cook first dreamed up this good idea? But eaters continue to bless him or her!

We're talking about the American way of slicing a loaf of crusty French-type bread, and then spreading a flavorful mixture over the cuts. Now the anointed loaf goes into a moderate or hot oven for 10 or 15 minutes to come out fresher than fresh, spreading a nostalgic aroma, tasting robust and savory.

We have a notion this loaf was first concocted to eat with outdoor barbecued foods. If so, it caught on so fast that now you are likely to find it wherever there's an indoor buffet supper. The first loaves of this sort we ever encountered were spread with garlic butter. But cooks go on inventing, tasters applaud. Now other spreads appear almost as often as the garlic mixture, and some of the best of these are made with blue cheese.

For this basic cheese spread, allow a quarter of a pound each of butter and blue cheese to stand at room temperature before beating together thoroughly. Store in a tightly-covered container in the refrigerator and use as fancy and need dictate.

And another innovation. Sometimes you find variations in the bread. On occasion, instead of bakery loaves, the brown-and-serve French-type ones are used. An unsliced loaf of regular white bread is also good this way, but make sure it is the "home-baked" variety. Just cut the regular loaf into block-shaped pieces, each big enough for a serving, but dont slice all the way through; spread the cuts with butter and blue-cheese mixture and heat.

Interested in still another idea? Then use fan-tan rolls with a blue-cheese-plus mixture as directed in the following recipe.

BLUE CHEESE FAN-TANS

Ingredients: ½ cup (packed down) blue cheese, ¼ cup butter, ¼ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, 1 package (6 ounces) fan-tan rolls.

Method: Have cheese and butter at room temperature; cream with Worcestershire sauce. Separate sections of rolls with fingers or small sharp knife without cutting all the way through. Spread sections with cheese mixture. Heat in moderate (350 degrees) oven until hot through 8 to 10 minutes or longer. Serve at once. Makes 6 rolls.

It's not necessary to pour off the fat when you're cooking bacon. If the bacon cooks in the drippings the slices float and when turned brown evenly.

BREAD AND SPREAD: Crusty French-type bread, anointed by a flavorful mixture, probably first was devised for outdoor barbecues but now you're likely to find it anywhere, including indoor buffet suppers.

Passenger Plea Of WM Upheld

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)— The West Virginia Supreme Court today threw out a Public Service Commission order which allowed Western Maryland Railway to drop only part of its passenger service between Elkins and Durbin, Pocahontas County.

The company had asked authorization to eliminate all passenger service on the mixed daily freight - passenger runs between the two points. The PSC ordered that passenger service be continued on the 47-mile run on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays.

Western Maryland maintained during hearings on its application last year that it lost $41,000 in 1957 on the passenger service.

When the PSC allowed only partial discontinuance, the railroad appealed to the Supreme Court.

Pork On Best Buy List At Markets

The following guide to the nation's best food buys for this weekend was prepared for United press International by the U. S. Departments of Agriculture and Interior.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Eggs, dairy foods, and a varied assortment of meats play a leading role among the best values in foods this week.

Pork is especially budget-priced and housewives will find excellent buys in roasts, chops, bacon, sausage, and hams. The more popular cuts of beef are offered at attractice prices by many markets, as are legs of lamb. Broiler-fryers and turkeys also are excellent choices.

Apples continue to lead the fruit parade, but oranges, grapefruit, bananas, and avocados also are good buys. Some markets are featuring pears, grapes, lemons, and limes as excellent values.

Vegetable counters offer a wide variety of items. Among the leaders are cabbage, potatoes, sweet potatoes, radishes, lettuce, celery, tomatoes, carrots, green peppers, and cooking greens. Canned peas are still in heavy supply, and offered at bargain prices.

At the fish market housewives will find good values, the most plentiful, nationally, being canned tuna, fish sticks, and shrimp.

For a closer look at the best food values in this particular area here are more details:

Best Buys

Weekend food shoppers will find meat counters well stocked with a wide variety of favorite items. In beef, good choices will be round, rib, and chuck roasts, and the ever popular steaks, such as porterhouse, sirloin, and chuck.

In pork, loin roasts and chops will be offered at attractive prices. In lamb, you'll get good buys on legs and chops. Broiler-fryers continue to be featured at economy prices.

In the dairy section, you'll be tempted, pricewise, to get extra amounts of eggs and all dairy products.

For best buys in vegetables, look to potatoes, endive, escarole, spinach, collards, kale, and the cooking greens. You'll also do well on cabbage, celery, lettuce, carrots, Idaho potatoes, tomatoes radishes, peppers, sweet potatoes and broccoli.

In fruit, apples remain at the head of the good buy list. Also recommended are oranges, grapefruit, limes, and bananas.

In fish, best buys are fillets, scallops, smelts, oysters, and clams.

Easter Bonnet Sandwiches In Colorful Style

EASTER IS a natural time for showing off your culinary talents. And what better way to do it than with these Easter bonnet sandwiches, which are as tasty as they are cute?

By CECILE BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

Whimsical cooks come into their own at holidays. At Easter time the custom of offering colored eggs, festive yeast breads and lamb cakes have lured many culinary artist to add other gay creations to this joyous occasion.

Fashion creeps into food: lately we've been having bonnet cakes and bonnet cookies on Easter labels. Now here come Easter bonnet sandwiches — and they're as cute as buttons.

One point on which we insist: holiday food, although it may be whimsically shaped and decorated, must not be so tortured that it doesn't taste good. These open sandwiches, bonnet style, measure up because they are a delightful flavor combination. The "brims" and "crowns" of our edible sailor-hats are made of cream-style cottage cheese seasoned with lemon juice. Cucumber slices give height to the "crowns" and the bonnet "trimbing" of water cress sprigs and colorful berries are plain perky.

These bonnet sandwiches are fun to serve during the Easter holidays, perhaps for a one o'clock luncheon or a four o'clock tea. Grownups will enjoy them as much as teen-agers and small fry.

They also are amusing to serve as an hors d'oeuvre for Easter dinner and, if you like, you can easily cut the recipe in half to make just eight of these appetizers.

Or make them part of an Easter dinner and, if you like, you can easily cut the recipe in half to make just eight of these appetizers.

Or make them part of an Easter day supper buffet that features ham because the cottage cheese and cucumber flavors are fine with that meat. What else would go on the buffet table? We might choose a hot potato puff and a salad of broccoli or green asparagus. Desert could be a spongecake roll with an orange filling and topping of whipped cream; or a meringue filled with a tangy lemon cream.

Eastern Bonnet Sandwiches

Ingredients: 1 carton (8 ounces) cream style cottage cheese (small curd), 2 teaspoons lemon juice, salt, 20 slices bread, 2 drops food color, 2 drops red food color, 16 slices unpeeled cucumber (about ⅛-inch thick and 1½ inches wide), 16 small sprigs watercress, 24 raspberries or blue berries.

Method: Beat cottage cheese to make as creamy as possible, add lemon juice and a dash of salt. Cut circles from 16 bread slices, using a 3-inch cookie cutter. Cut 4 circles from each remaining 4 bread slices, using a 1½-inch cookie cutter. Divide cottage cheese mixture into 4 equal parts and add one color to each of 3 parts, leaving fourth part white. Spread 4 large and 4 small circles of bread with each color of cottage cheese mixture. Place a cucumber slice in center of each large bread circle. Top with small bread circle spread with same color of cottage cheese, placing them with their spread sides up. Decorate "bonnets" by arranging a watercress sprig and 3 or 4 raspberries or blueberries on one side of each hat. Makes 16 servings.

Your guests will love a corned beef and cabbage salad for a supper snack after watching a TV show. Just mix finely shredded green cabbage with French dressing and spoon on individual salad plates. Top with a slice or two of corned beef and a spoonful of mayonnaise that's been blended with prepared mustard. Serve with hot buttered rolls.

Family Supper With Pea Soup

Two-Way Split Pea Soup

Two-Way Split Pea Soup

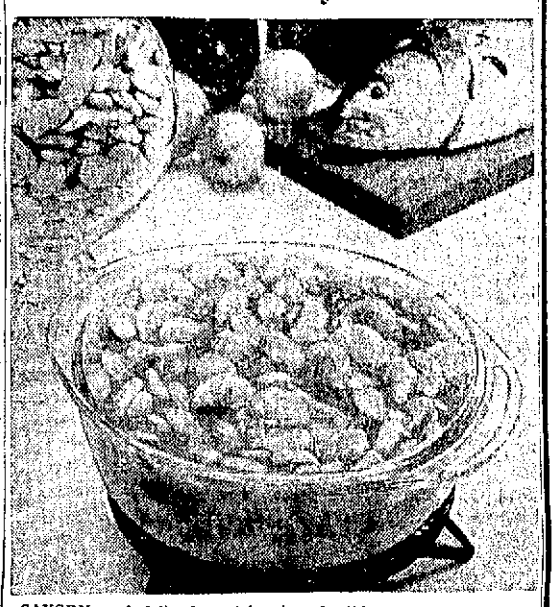

Ingredients: ¾ cup quick-cooking green split peas, 1 hambone (with a little meat left on), ½ cup sliced carrot (1 medium-size), ¾ to 1 cup thin strips onions (1 medium-size), 1 rib celery with leafy top, few sprigs parsley, 5 cups water, salt, pepper, 1 can (10½ ounces) condensed tomato soup (if desired).

Method: Wash peas in cold water; drain; turn into soup kettle with hambone, carrot, onion, celery, parsley and water. Bring to a boil rapidly; decrease heat and simmer, stirring occasionally, until peas are cooked—about 45 minutes. Remove hambone. Put soup (including vegetables) through a food mill or press through a strainer. Add salt (if needed) and pepper to taste. Makes about 5½ cups thin soup. Use soup "as is" or mix with the undiluted condensed tomato soup; heat gently, stirring often. This mixture (Puree Mongole) will make almost 7 cups.

For a delicious luncheon dish spread toast with deviled ham and top with creamed eggs. Serve with a crunchy carrot and green pepper slaw for good texture and color contrast.

Quick rice dessert: Mix cold cooked rice with diced fruit and honey; fold in sweetened whipped cream and chill.

Tomato Soup, Dried Beans Combine In Tasty Casserole

SAVORY and full of protein, too, is this casserole uniting tomato soup and dried beans. Chopped green pepper adds tang.

By GAYNOR MADDOX

Dried beans are a good source of protein, such as dried butter beans, dried limas or kidney beans, either in cans or home-cooked. That's why they make nutritious meatless main dishes for Lenten meals.

Butter Bean Bake
(Makes 4-6 servings)

Two tablespoons chopped onion, 2 tablespoons chopped green pepper, 1 tablespoon butter or margarine, 1 can (10½ ounces) condensed tomato soup, ¼ cup water, 1 tablespoon brown sugar, 1 tablespoon vinegar, 1 teaspoon prepared mustard, 2 cans (1-pound each) butter beans, drained, ½ cup grated cheese.

In saucepan, brown onion and green pepper in butter. Add remaining ingredients except beans. Heat a few minutes. Put beans in buttered 1-quart casserole; pour sauce over. Sprinkle with cheese. Bake in moderate oven (375 degrees F.) for 45 minutes.

Note: Cooked dried limas or kidney beans can be used with equally delicious results in this recipe.

Baked meatless sandwiches belong in Lenten menus, too.

Baked Tuna Sandwiches
(Makes 6 servings)

One can (10½ ounces) condensed cream of mushroom soup, 1 can (7 ounces) tuna, drained and flaked; 1 tablespoon minced green pepper, 1 tablespoon minced onion, 6 hamburger buns, split; melted butter or margarine.

Combine soup, tuna, green pepper and onion; spoon into buns. Brush top of buns with butter. Bake in a hot oven (400 degrees F.) for about 10 minutes.

TOMORROW'S MENU: Dried beans and tomato soup in casserole, baked fish (if desired), or crisp bacon, garlic bread, grapefruit sections, green pepper and lettuce salad, oil and lemon juice dressings, chocolate brownies, coffee, tea, milk.

LaSalle-Alice TH Postponed Until Monday

The intra-city basketball clash tomorrow night between Allegany and LaSalle has been postponed until Monday evening at 8 o'clock on the SS. Peter and Paul court.

Brother Thomas, LaSalle athletic director, stated this morning that coach Chet Payne of Allegany asked postponement of the contest because only two members of the Camper team were able to attend school today, the rest of the squad all being absent because of illness.

Bobby Corle, the Imler, Pa., jockey who looked so bad in his debut at Sunshine Park, Fla., that the stewards wanted to take him off the horses because they didn't think he could handle them, is now the hottest booter at Bowie Race Track.

When the former 90-pound Bedford High flyweight wrestler brought John S. Kell's Deack Duncan home in the featured Overbrook Purse yesterday at Bowie, it was the 20th time he had flashed first under the wire for the meet.

It's been a big jump and one that took plenty of hard work for the 22-year-old jockey who got his start just four short years ago at Cumberland's Fairgo track.

Corle now has finished in the money 13 times in 19 mounts this week with four winners, five place mounts and four in the third hole. Yesterday, in six mounts, he finished out of the money only twice, once in fifth place and the other time in sixth.

For 89 trips to the starting gate, Corle has booted home his 20 winners while 17 have returned place money and five were good for the third slot. He boasts a lead of nine firsts over Larry Reynolds and Raul Sterling, the latter pair bringing home 11 in front of the pack

Reynolds, the leading rider at Fairgo last year, had only two tries yesterday and didn't return any money to his backers. Sterling, for two starts, won aboard Our President in the third race and finished third with New Door in the fourth.

Corle's victory yesterday came aboard a horse that was given little consideration in the betting by the crowd of 9,541 because of his mediocre record. According to the story in the Washington Post and Times-Herald this morning, it was the expert handling and well-judged ride of Corle that proved the difference.

That bit of work paid off handsomely with a return of $14.20 to win, $7.20 to place and $3.40 to show as the gelding took the lead at the top of the home stretch and won with plenty in reserve by a length and a quarter.

Sports Spatterings

Just how much is the spectacular Bob Cousy worth to the Boston Celtics of the National Basketball Association? . . . Jack Barry, writing an article on the court wizard of the Celtics in this week's issue of the Sporting News, has it figured out . . . Barry says that the ex-Holy Cross star, now in his ninth year of pro ball, is worth at least 50 points per game . . . Broken down, Barry has it stated this way: 20 points on scoring average; 14, from his seven-assists-per-game average; two points a game by forcing strong scoring opponents to bench on fouls; three points a game by his time-killing dribbling and his combined leadership of fast break; five points for his genius on defensive press . . . Quite a guy, this seven-time, first team All-Star selection who will be seen this Sunday via the television screens against the defending-champion St. Louis Hawks in the NBA game of the week . . . Romney's Bill Maphis, who will have his shooting eye aimed at the district scoring record when the Pioneers close out their regular season against Martinsburg Saturday night, needs only 20 points to erase the 637 markers pumped home by Hyndman's Bruce May five seasons back . . . Bill, with another year of eligibility remaining, has 618 points in 20 starts . . . He has hit for a staggering 194 counters in the last five games for a sizzling 38.8 average and included in the performance chart is a 41-point showing against the Bulldogs . . . The state scoring record, established in 1956, is held by the fabulous Jerry West of West Virginia University . . . Jumpin' Jerry had 926 counters in 27 games as he led East Bank High to the State Class A championship that season . . . At the rate the six-three Maphis is going, he may topple that total as he closes out his brilliant career

Moorefield, Franklin In Section 14 Semi-Final

The big scramble for a coveted berth in the state championship basketball tourney at Cabell County Memorial Field House in Huntington, March 20-21, gets started tonight at Moorefield and Shepherdstown.

These two towns will be sites for the Section 14-A and Section 16-A schoolboy tourneys.

Franklin High, riding the crest of the best season in the school's history with a 19-2 mark, will be favored to carry off the honors in Section 14-A. The Panthers, who were runnerup in the PVC behind champion Keyser, will meet Moorefield in the first semi-final at 7:30.

Mathias opposes Circleville in the second contest at 8:30. Wardensville High (14-6) drew a bye in the opening round and tangles with the winner of the Mathias-Circleville game tomorrow night.

Franklin Record Tops

Franklin has a 7-1 record against its opposition in the rounds. The Panthers, coached by "Gus" Smith, swept Moorefield by 59-53 and 61-49, took Mathias across both times, 73-70 in overtime and by 103-51, set down the Indians from Circleville 47-40 and 75-49 and split with the Warriors.

Wardensville cost the Panthers their bid for the PVC title, bagging the return game, 61-49, after being beaten in the lidlifter, 61-48. The only other defeat dished out to the Panthers was by Green Bank, 83-64. That one ended Franklin's undefeated string at 15 games.

Moorefield, playing up-and-down ball most of the season, has the second best mark in the five-team affair. The Jackets, who posted a sub-par 8-12 record overall, lost only to Franklin.

Moorefield took Mathias into camp both times, 68-55 and 64-47, while dumping Circleville, 54-43 and 69-50, and sweeping Wardensville, 52-29 and 44-40.

The Warriors split in six outings, sweeping Mathias, 73-35 and 80-56, while dividing the series against the Jackets and Panthers. Wardensville and Circleville didn't play during the campaign.

Mathias and Circleville, splitting their pair of contests, wound up with 1-7 and 1-5 tags. Mathias won the first till against the Braves, 86-83, and then took a 53-46 setback.

Both quints had a rocky road to travel this winter. The Indians scored only three wins in 20 tries while Mathias lost 18 times in 21 outings. Wardensville sported a 14-6 mark.

Franklin, with the new setup in classifications this season, drops from the old "A" tourney in which it participated last season. The Panthers were beaten in the semi-finals at Petersburg by champion Martinsburg, 70-38.

Mathias Defending King

Moorefield, Mathias and Circleville all played in the tourney in 1958 as the only three representatives with Mathias bagging the honors in whipping Circleville, 72-61, in the title game. The Eagles dropped out in the semi-finals of the Regional when being a 73-42 victim of Piedmont.

Five quints will be entered in the Section 16-A event with Harpers Ferry, Musselman, Paige-Jackson of Charles Town, Ramer of Martinsburg and Shepherdstown competing.

Two other area sectionals start tomorrow evening as Paw Paw is the host school in Section 15-A and Potomac State College will be the site for the Section 13-A squabble.

Berkeley Springs opposes Capon Bridge and Paw Paw tangles with West Virginia School for the Deaf of Romney in the Section 15 semi-finals. Fort Ashby goes up against Piedmont, and Elk Garden plays Ridgeley in the Section 13 semis.

Championship games in both these tourneys will also be staged Saturday night.

The winning teams at Keyser, Paw Paw, Shepherdstown and Moorefield will qualify for the Regional tourney set for Friday and Saturday, March 6 and 7, at Potomac State College where Melvin Heiskell will be the director.

Area Tests Next

The survivor of the regional advances to a two-team area test and the eight area winners will compete for the West Virginia State Class A championship at Marshall College in Huntington. The state Class AAA and Class AA titles also will be decided there.

The Class AA schools of nearby West Virginia will not swing into action until a week from today at Petersburg where Romney, Keyser, Petersburg and Charles Town will battle it out in a two-day sectional event.

In the opening round games Friday, March 6, Charles Town plays Keyser at 7 p. m., and Petersburg tangles with Romney at 8:15. Referees for this tourney will be Clifton Van Rohy and "Pete" Elliott.

Martinsburg has graduated into Class AAA this year and is slated to battle Morgantown at Martinsburg High School next weekend.

Three Dozen Now Tabbed As Holdouts

By FRED DOWN
United Press International

Some three dozen major leaguers—more than in any recent year—become holdouts today when spring training officially opens for most of the big league teams.

Heading the list, of course, are sluggers Mickey Mantle of the New York Yankees, Bob Cerv of the Kansas City Athletics, Jackie Jensen of the Boston Red Sox and Roy Sievers of the Washington Senators. Their demands range from Cerv's estimated $30,000 all the way to Mantle's $85,000.

The National League champion Milwaukee Braves have no star comparable to Mantle or Jensen unsigned but no fewer than six players have yet to agree to terms: Pitchers Don McMahon and Gene Conley, catcher Del Rice, first-baseman Joe Adcock and infielders Felix Mantilla and Casey Wise.

Holdouts' Status Hazy

The status of the American League's "big four" is hazy, as might be expected. Roy Harney, in charge of dealing with Mantle again, talked with the slugger Wednesday and said only "it's only a question of money." Cerv rejected the Athletics' last offer of about $23,000 and is at least $5,000 away from a settlement. Seivers is insisting on $40,000 and Jensen, the league's Most Valuable Player, meets with Red Sox General Manager Bucky Harris for a fourth time today.

Others who'll be considered holdouts if they don't agree to terms by nightfall include Hector Lopez, Preston Ward and Ned Garver of the Athletics, Rene Valdes of the Los Angeles Dodgers, Frank Barnes and Joe Cunningham of the St. Louis Cardinals. Gus Zernial and Charley Maxwell of the Detroit Tigers, Andy Carey of the Yankees, Billy Loes, Gene Woodling, Billy Klaus and Bobby Avila of the Baltimore Orioles and Ramon Monzant and Al Worthington of the San Francisco Giants.

Reds Sign Ennis

Del Ennis, long-ball hitting outfielder, just got in under the wire Wednesday when he signed with the Cincinnati Redlegs. It took 15 telephone calls between Ennis and General Manager Gabe Paul before an agreement was reached—believed to be the first record of the new baseball season.

Other late signers included first baseman Norm Zauchin of the Senators and infielder Billy Gardner of the Orioles. Each is believed to have accepted a slight reduction.

Rec Title Series Begins Tonight

Finals in the Men's Rec and High School basketball leagues, both best-of-three series, get underway tonight in a pair of games on the Carver court.

Police Boys Club tangles with Diamond Bowling Alley at 7 o'clock in the High School loop. PBC eliminated Malin's Chiros, 65-30, and Diamond kayoed Lovers Leap Esso, 58-37, the same evening.

Police Boys had tied with Lovers Leap for first in the final standings by bagging 10 of 12 games. Diamond was knotted with Malin's for third place, both quints taking nine wins and losing three times.

It will be Hafer House Furniture against Robinson's Plumbers at 8 o'clock to begin the Men's Rec finals. Hafer's ushered out Carolan's Tavern, 51-42, and Ballard's Cleaners lost to Robinson's, 59-42, in the semi-finals Monday evening.

Hafer House was the regular-season champion with a 15-1 mark while Robinson's finished second with a 14-2 reading.

Fight Last Night

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO — Spider Webb, 158, Chicago, stopped Bobby Boyd, 160, Chicago, 1, flying.

Hubs End Unbeaten, Edge Alco By 59-53

Allegany High's hoopsters nearly wrecked the unbeaten dreams of North Hagerstown last night as the locals fought the Hubs down to the final whistle before dropping a 59-53 decision in a Cumberland Valley Athletic League clash at North High.

The CVAL champs, who wound up with a 20-0 record overall and 10-0 state in the circuit, were given their roughest battles by Alco in their two games. The Campers started the season against the Hubs and lost out in the final seconds, 60-56.

Alco Streak Ends

Alco, having a five-game win streak broken, has two more games this weekend, both involving championships. The Campers, now 10-9 for the campaign, tangle with LaSalle tomorrow night on the SS. Peter and Paul court and then have their County Class A playoff with Fort Hill Saturday night at Beall in Frostburg.

Three quick field goals by Ronnie Hawkins with less than 1:30 to play in the game iced the verdict for North High after Allegany had rallied to pull within two points, 49-47.

The Campers grabbed a 14-13 lead in a see-saw first quarter which the score was tied several times. Dick Spencer scored four goals for Hagerstown to keep the Hubs in contention in the initial stanza.

The Hubs finally pulled ahead 27-26 at intermission and quickly built their margin to 30-26 as the third quarter opened.

Campers Pull Close

Allegany trailed throughout the remainder of the second half before Gerald Horton's twin-pointer pulled the Campers within two points with 1:47 to play. At this point Hawkins' three goals put the contest out of reach for the Paynemen who suffered their ninth loss of the campaign.

High point men for Hagerstown were Hawkins and Spencer with 15 tallies each while Gary Frisby had 15 for Allegany.

North High lost Jim Washington and Hawkins on personal fouls while Frisby and Bob Gaffney exited via the same route for Allegany.

Grace Baptist won its 13th game last night by edging Central Methodist, 46-43, while First Baptist walloped Old Furnace Church, 44-19, and Living Stone Brethren nipped Salvation Army Citadel in overtime, 26-24.

Shook paced Grace Baptist with 18 points while Often dropped in 16 for Central as the winners rallied in the second half for the victory.

Van Meter and Border had 11 points each for Living Stone which scored only two points in the overtime while Arrowood caged 17 for Salvation Army. Bell buckeled 14 tallies for First Baptist and Whitacre had 11 for Old Furnace.

Qualifiers Ready For Open Start

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — About 115 golfers were ready to tee off today in the rain-delayed qualifying round for the $15,000 Baton Rouge Open Golf Tournament.

The qualifying originally was scheduled for Tuesday with competitive play set for today. But two days of rain wrecked those plans and washed out a pro-amateur tournament scheduled ahead of the PGA event.

Opening round action in the 72-hole medal play tournament will begin Friday. Tourney Co-chairman Jim Winfree revised the plans and set a 36-hole session Sunday so the eighth annual tourney will wind up on schedule.

About 65 spots for pro will be decided in the qualifying. Defending Champion Ken Venturi and 84 other top pros on the PGA winter circuit were exempt from qualifying.

Webb, Basilio May Fight For Middle Crown

CHICAGO (UPI)—Middleweight Spider Webb's future hinged today on champion Sugar Ray Robinson more than on his convincing first round knockout victory over Bobby Boyd.

"If Robinson decides to fight Archie Moore for the light heavyweight title, then I can't think of any better fight than Webb and Carmen Basilio for the middleweight title—and we'd like to have it for Chicago," said Truman Gibson, head of the newly formed successor to International Boxing Club, National Boxing Enterprises, said.

"If Robinson decides to fight Basilio," he added, "then I'd just advise Webb to fight any middleweights he can until he can get a title fight. But we'll put him in for a championship fight anytime we get the chance."

Webb, third ranked among the world 160 pounders, was impressive in his televised battle with Boyd ranked seventh. The bout lasted only 1:55 before referee Frank Sikora waved Webb aside with his 32nd win in 36 pro fights.

Boyd, suffering his seventh knockout and his 11th loss in 66 pro bouts, was still groggy when he was on his feet at the count of 10 and Sikora, examing his eyes, waved Webb off quickly.

'C' Playoff Tilt On Tap Tonight

The first of two playoffs to determine county representatives in the District 1 tourney at North Hagerstown next weekend will be staged tonight on the Fort Hill court.

Flintstone High and Oldtown clash at 8 o'clock for the Class C crown. The quints split their season series as Oldtown scored its only victory in 19 starts by posting a 46-44 decision over the Aggies. Flintstone, victor in five of 12 starts, had taken the opener, 65-49.

The victor tonight meets Hancock in the championship game Saturday, March 7, at 7:30 p. m. at the new Hagerstown gym.

Tickets will be sold at the door.

Allegany and Fort Hill, also tied in their race for Class A honors, have their deciding game slated Saturday night, 8 o'clock, on the Beall High court in Frostburg. All seats for that one are reserved and are now on sale at both schools.

Baylor Nears Rookie Score Mark In NBA

By United Press International

Elgin Baylor is less than 100 points away from setting a rookie record for scoring in the National Basketball Association.

Baylor, Minneapolis' flashy fledgling, scored the season's high of 55 points and raised his personal total to 1,399 Wednesday night as the Lakers larruped the Cincinnati Royals, 116-96, in the opener of a double-header at Detroit.

Needs Only 98 Points

The former Seattle All - American now needs only 98 points to surpass the first-year high of 1,496 set by Alex Groza with Indianapolis during the 1949-50 season. Bob Pettit of St. Louis scored 1,466 as a rookie with Minneapolis in the 1954-55 campaign.

The Hawks beat the Pistons, 104-100, in the nightcap of the Detroit twinbill and the Philadelphia Warriors walloped the New York Knickerbockers, 134-123.

Baylor's total on 12 field goals and 11 free throws, was the third highest single game effort by a player in NBA history. Joe Fulks scored a record 63 points with Philadelphia on Feb. 10, 1944. George Mikan had 61. The previous top this season was 52 by Pettit.

Minneapolis gained the lead late in the first period on a Baylor basket and stayed ahead for the rest of the game. A 48-41 halftime margin was built up to 23 points at one stage of the game.

Jack Twyman's 34 points for Cincinnati were completely overshadowed by Baylor's performance.

Pistons Lose Ground

St. Louis dropped Detroit 4½ games behind Minneapolis in the battle for second place in the Western Division. The Hawks gained a 47-40 half-time lead and managed to contain the Pistons after intermission. Pettit led the St. Louis attack with 24 points. Phil Jordan had 20 for Detroit.

Paul Arizin, right behind Pettit in the face for the scoring championship, poured in 21 of his 32 points in the first half to pace Philadelphia to a 68-52 intermission lead. The victory pulled the Warriors to within three games of Syracuse in the race for the third play-off spot in the Eastern Division. Willie Naulls was high for New York with 26.

Where Is He Now?

Fusari Operates Cooler Business

Charlie Fusari, a speedy welterweight from New Jersey, rolled up a string of 45 straight victories in three years before he lost his first fight at Madison Square Garden to tough Tony Pellone in 1947. The next year, Fusari started another winning streak only to be flattened by Rocky Graziano late in 1949. In 1950, he built himself into a title fight with Sugar Ray Robinson and went the distance but lost the fight. He retired in 1952 after only six more bouts.

Whatever happened to Charlie Fusari? Now 35, he lives in Irvington, N. J., operates a water cooler business and is associated with a used car lot in Newark.

Petty Victor In Stock Race

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (UPI) —Lee Petty of Randelman, N. C. reigned today as winner of the 500-mile NASCAR stock car race sweepstakes, but he had to wait three days to make it official.

Johnny Beauchamp of Harlan, Iowa, was at first declared winner of Sunday's classic. However, protests from men in the pit area forced NASCAR President Bill France to withhold a final decision until films of the close finish could be studied.

An absence of photo-finish facilities complicated matters and officials had to pour over films and still shots of the race to determine Petty's victory. They finally declared Petty the winner Wednesday.

The pictures showed Petty's 1959 Oldsmobile in front of Beauchamp's 1959 Ford Thunderbird as the car cars zoomed past the finish line. Petty's average winning time was 135.521 mph, a new 500 - mile record for stock cars.

Petty, who didn't file an official protest, said "I slept good because I knew I had won it."

His dreams were money - makers as there is a difference of about $11,000 in prize money between first and second place.

Dozen More Join NCAA Tourney

NEW YORK (UPI)—The NCAA announced today 12 more schools have entered its college division basketball tournament, bringing to 22 the teams already in the field of 32.

Five of the latest entrants qualified automatically as conference champions. LaSalle-Alco Tilt Postponed Until Monday

The intra-city basketball clash tomorrow night between Allegany and LaSalle has been postponed until Monday evening at 8 o'clock on the SS. Peter and Paul court.

Brother Thomas, LaSalle athletic director, stated this morning that coach Chet Payne of Allegany asked postponement of the contest because only two members of the Camper team were able to attend school today, the rest of the squad all being absent because of illness.

Bobby Corle, the Imler, Pa., jockey who looked so bad in his debut at Sunshine Park, Fla., that the stewards wanted to take him off the horses because they didn't think he could handle them, is now the hottest booter at Bowie Race Track.

When the former 90-pound Bedford High flyweight wrestler brought John S. Kell's Deack Duncan home in the featured Overbrook Purse yesterday at Bowie, it was the 20th time he had flashed first under the wire for the meet.

It's been a big jump and one that took plenty of hard work for the 22-year-old jockey who got his start just four short years ago at Cumberland's Fairgo track.

Corle now has finished in the money 13 times in 19 mounts this week with four winners, five place mounts and four in the third hole. Yesterday, in six mounts, he finished out of the money only twice, once in fifth place and the other time in sixth.

For 89 trips to the starting gate, Corle has booted home his 20 winners while 17 have returned place money and five were good for the third slot. He boasts a lead of nine firsts over Larry Reynolds and Raul Sterling, the latter pair bringing home 11 in front of the pack

Reynolds, the leading rider at Fairgo last year, had only two tries yesterday and didn't return any money to his backers. Sterling, for two starts, won aboard Our President in the third race and finished third with New Door in the fourth.

Corle's victory yesterday came aboard a horse that was given little consideration in the betting by the crowd of 9,541 because of his mediocre record. According to the story in the Washington Post and Times-Herald this morning, it was the expert handling and well-judged ride of Corle that proved the difference.

That bit of work paid off handsomely with a return of $14.20 to win, $7.20 to place and $3.40 to show as the gelding took the lead at the top of the home stretch and won with plenty in reserve by a length and a quarter.

Sports Spatterings

Just how much is the spectacular Bob Cousy worth to the Boston Celtics of the National Basketball Association? . . . Jack Barry, writing an article on the court wizard of the Celtics in this week's issue of the Sporting News, has it figured out . . . Barry says that the ex-Holy Cross star, now in his ninth year of pro ball, is worth at least 50 points per game . . . Broken down, Barry has it stated this way: 20 points on scoring average; 14, from his seven-assists-per-game average; two points a game by forcing strong scoring opponents to bench on fouls; three points a game by his time-killing dribbling and his combined leadership of fast break; five points for his genius on defensive press . . . Quite a guy, this seven-time, first team All-Star selection who will be seen this Sunday via the television screens against the defending-champion St. Louis Hawks in the NBA game of the week . . . Romney's Bill Maphis, who will have his shooting eye aimed at the district scoring record when the Pioneers close out their regular season against Martinsburg Saturday night, needs only 20 points to erase the 637 markers pumped home by Hyndman's Bruce May five seasons back . . . Bill, with another year of eligibility remaining, has 618 points in 20 starts . . . He has hit for a staggering 194 counters in the last five games for a sizzling 38.8 average and included in the performance chart is a 41-point showing against the Bulldogs . . . The state scoring record, established in 1956, is held by the fabulous Jerry West of West Virginia University . . . Jumpin' Jerry had 926 counters in 27 games as he led East Bank High to the State Class A championship that season . . . At the rate the six-three Maphis is going, he may topple that total as he closes out his brilliant career

Moorefield, Franklin In Section 14 Semi-Final

The big scramble for a coveted berth in the state championship basketball tourney at Cabell County Memorial Field House in Huntington, March 20-21, gets started tonight at Moorefield and Shepherdstown.

Those two towns will be sites for the Section 14-A and Section 16-A schoolboy tourneys.

Franklin High, riding the crest of the best season in the school's history with a 19-2 mark, will be favored to carry off the honors in Section 14-A. The Panthers, who were runnerup in the PVC behind champion Keyser, will meet Moorefield in the first semi-final at 7:30.

Mathias opposes Circleville in the second contest at 8:30. Wardensville High (14-6) drew a bye in the opening round and tangles with the winner of the Mathias-Circleville game tomorrow night.

Franklin Record Tops

Franklin has a 7-1 record against its opposition in the rounds. The Panthers, coached by "Gus" Smith, swept Moorefield by 59-53 and 61-49, took Mathias across both times, 73-70 in overtime and by 105-51, set down the Indians from Circleville 47-40 and 75-49 and split with the Warriors.

Wardensville cost the Panthers their bid for the PVC title, bagging the return game, 61-49, after being beaten in the lidlifter, 61-48. The only other defeat dished out to the Panthers was by Green Bank, 83-64. That one ended Franklin's undefeated string at 15 games.

Moorefield, playing up-and-down ball most of the season, has the second best mark in the five-team affair. The Jackets, who posted a sub-par 8-12 record overall, lost only to Franklin.

Moorefield took Mathias into camp both times, 68-55 and 64-47, while dumping Circleville, 54-43 and 69-50, and sweeping Wardensville, 52-29 and 44-40.

The Warriors split in six outings, sweeping Mathias, 73-35 and 88-56, while dividing the series against the Jackets and Panthers. Wardensville and Circleville didn't play during the campaign.

Mathias and Circleville, splitting their pair of contests, wound up with 1-7 and 1-5 logs. Mathias won the first tilt against the Braves, 86-83, and then took a 53-46 setback.

Both quints had a rocky road to travel this winter. The Indians scored only three wins in 20 tries while Mathias lost 18 times in 21 outings. Wardensville sported a 14-6 mark.

Franklin, with the new setup in classifications this season, drops from the old "A" tourney in which it participated last season. The Panthers were beaten in the semi-finals at Petersburg by champion Martinsburg, 70-38.

Mathias Defending King

Moorefield, Mathias and Circleville all played in the tourney in 1958 as the only three representatives with Mathias bagging the honors in whipping Circleville, 72-61, in the title game. The Eagles dropped out in the semi-finals of the Regional when being a 73-42 victim of Piedmont.

Five quints will be entered in the Section 16-A event with Harpers Ferry, Musselman, Paige-Jackson of Charles Town, Ramer of Martinsburg and Shepherdstown competing.

Two other area sectionals start tomorrow evening as Paw Paw is the host school in Section 15-A and Potomac State College will be the site for the Section 13-A squabble.

Berkeley Springs opposes Capon Bridge and Paw Paw tangles with West Virginia School for the Deaf of Romney in the Section 15 semi-finals. Fort Ashby goes up against Piedmont and Elk Garden plays Ridgeley in the Section 13 semis.

Championship games in both these tourneys will also be staged Saturday night.

The winning teams at Keyser, Paw Paw, Shepherdstown and Moorefield will qualify for the Regional tourney set for Friday and Saturday, March 6 and 7, at Potomac State College where Melvin Heiskell will be the director.

Area Tests Next

The survivor of the regional advances to a two-team area test and the eight area winners will compete for the West Virginia State Class A championship at Marshall College in Huntington. The state Class AAA and Class AA titles also will be decided there.

The Class AA schools of nearby West Virginia will not swing into action until a week from today at Petersburg where Romney, Keyser, Petersburg and Charles Town will battle it out in a two-day sectional event.

In the opening round games Friday, March 6, Charles Town plays Keyser at 7 p. m., and Petersburg tangles with Romney at 8:15. Referees for this tourney will be Clifton Van Roby and "Pete" Elliott.

Martinsburg has graduated into Class AAA this year and is slated to battle Morgantown at Martinsburg High School next weekend.

Three Dozen Now Tabbed As Holdouts

By FRED DOWN
United Press International

Some three dozen major leaguers—more than in any recent year—become holdouts today when spring training officially opens for most of the big league teams.

Heading the list, of course, are sluggers Mickey Mantle of the New York Yankees, Bob Cerv of the Kansas City Athletics, Jackie Jensen of the Boston Red Sox and Roy Sievers of the Washington Senators. Their demands range from Cerv's estimated $30,000 all the way to Mantle's $85,000.

The National League champion Milwaukee Braves have no star comparable to Mantle or Jensen unsigned but no fewer than six players have yet to agree to terms: Pitchers Don McMahon and Gene Conley, catcher Del Rice, first-baseman Joe Adcock and infielders Felix Mantilla and Casey Wise.

Holdouts' Status Hazy

The status of the American League's "big four" is hazy, as might be expected. Roy Hamey, in charge of dealing with Mantle again, talked with the slugger Wednesday and said only "it's only a question of money." Cerv rejected the Athletics' last offer of about $23,000 and is at least $5,000 away from a settlement. Seivers is insisting on $40,000 and Jensen, the league's Most Valuable Player, meets with Red Sox General Manager Bucky Harris for a fourth time today.

Others who'll be considered holdouts if they don't agree to terms by nightfall include Hector Lopez, Preston Ward and Ned Garver of the Athletics, Rene Valdes of the Los Angeles Dodgers, Frank Barnes and Joe Cunningham of the St. Louis Cardinals, Gus Zernial and Charley Maxwell of the Detroit Tigers, Andy Carey of the Yankees, Billy Loes, Gene Woodling, Billy Klaus and Bobby Avila of the Baltimore Orioles and Ramon Monzant and Al Worthington of the San Francisco Giants.

Reds Sign Ennis

Del Ennis, long-ball hitting outfielder, just got in under the wire Wednesday when he signed with the Cincinnati Redlegs. It took 15 telephone calls between Ennis and General Manager Gabe Paul before an agreement was reached—believed to be the first record of the new baseball season.

Other late signers included first baseman Norm Zauchin of the Senators and infielder Billy Gardner of the Orioles. Each is believed to have accepted a slight reduction.

Rec Title Series Begins Tonight

Finals in the Men's Rec and High School basketball leagues, both best-of-three series, get underway tonight in a pair of games on the Carver court.

Police Boys Club tangles with Diamond Bowling Alley at 7 o'clock in the High School loop. PBC eliminated Malin's Chiros, 65-30, and Diamond kayoed Lovers Leap Esso, 58-37, the same evening.

Police Boys had tied with Lovers Leap for first in the final standings by bagging 10 of 12 games. Diamond was knotted with Malin's for third place, both quints taking nine wins and losing three times.

It will be Hafer House Furniture against Robinson's Plumbers at 8 o'clock to begin the Men's Rec finals. Hafer's ushered out Carolan's Tavern, 51-42, and Ballard's Cleaners lost to Robinson's, 59-42, in the semi-finals Monday evening.

Hafer House was the regular-season champion with a 15-1 mark while Robinson's finished second with a 14-2 reading.

Fight Last Night

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO — Spider Webb, 158, Chicago, stopped Bobby Boyd, 160, Chicago, 1.

Hubs End Unbeaten, Edge Alco By 59-53

Allegany High's hoopsters nearly wrecked the unbeaten dreams of North Hagerstown last night as the locals fought the Hubs down to the final whistle before dropping a 59-53 decision in a Cumberland Valley Athletic League clash at North High.

The CVAL champs, who wound up with a 20-0 record overall and 10-0 slate in the circuit, were given their roughest battles by Alco in their two games. The Campers started the season against the Hubs and lost out in the final seconds, 60-56.

Alco Streak Ends

Alco, having a five-game win streak broken, has two more games this weekend, both involving championships. The Campers, now 10-9 for the campaign, tangle with LaSalle tomorrow night on the SS. Peter and Paul court and then have their County Class A playoff with Fort Hill Saturday night at Beall in Frostburg.

Three quick field goals by Ronnie Hawkins with less than 1:30 to play in the game iced the verdict for North High after Allegany had rallied to pull within two points, 49-47.

The Campers grabbed a 14-13 lead in a see-saw first quarter which the score was tied several times. Dick Spencer scored four goals for Hagerstown to keep the Hubs in contention in the initial stanza.

The Hubs finally pulled ahead 27-26 at intermission and quickly built their margin to 30-26 as the third quarter opened.

Campers Pull Close

Allegany trailed throughout the remainder of the second half before Gerald Horton's twin-pointer pulled the Campers within two points with 1:47 to play. At this point Hawkins' three goals put the contest out of reach for the Paynemen who suffered their ninth loss of the campaign.

High point men for Hagerstown were Hawkins and Spencer with 15 tallies each while Gary Frisby had 15 for Allegany.

Hot Stovers To Elect

The Hot Stove League will meet today, 8 p. m., at the City Hall to hold election of officers for the coming year. All managers and members of the executive board are urged to attend.

Webb, Basilio May Fight For Middle Crown

CHICAGO (UPI)—Middleweight Spider Webb's future hinged today on champion Sugar Ray Robinson more than on his convincing first round knockout victory over Bobby Boyd.

"If Robinson decides to fight Archie Moore for the light heavyweight title, then I can't think of any better fight than Webb and Carmen Basilio for the middleweight title—and we'd like to have it for Chicago," said Truman Gibson, head of the newly formed successor to International Boxing Club, National Boxing Enterprises, said.

"If Robinson decides to fight Basilio," he added, "then I'd just advise Webb to fight any middleweights he can until he can get a title fight. But we'll put him in for a championship fight anytime we get the chance."

Webb, third ranked among the world 160 pounders, was impressive in his televised battle with Boyd ranked seventh. The bout lasted only 1:55 before referee Frank Sikora waved Webb aside with his 32nd win in 36 pro fights.

Boyd, suffering his seventh knockout and his 11th loss in 66 pro bouts, was still groggy when he was on his feet at the count of 10 and Sikora, examing his eyes, waved Webb off quickly.

'C' Playoff Tilt On Tap Tonight

The first of two playoffs to determine county representatives in the District 1 tourney at North Hagerstown next weekend will be staged tonight on the Fort Hill court.

Flintstone High and Oldtown clash at 8 o'clock for the Class C crown. The quints split their season series as Oldtown scored its only victory in 19 starts by posting a 46-44 decision over the Aggies. Flintstone, victor in five of 12 starts, had taken the opener, 65-49.

The victor tonight meets Hancock in the championship game Saturday, March 7, at 7:30 p. m. at the new Hagerstown gym.

Tickets will be sold at the door.

Allegany and Fort Hill, also tied in their race for Class A honors, have their deciding game slated Saturday night, 8 o'clock, on the Beall High court in Frostburg. All seats for that one are reserved and are now on sale at both schools.

Qualifiers Ready For Open Start

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — About 115 golfers were ready to tee off today in the rain-delayed qualifying round for the $15,000 Baton Rouge Open Golf Tournament.

The qualifying originally was scheduled for Tuesday with competitive play set for today. But two days of rain wrecked those plans and washed out a pro-amateur tournament scheduled ahead of the PGA event.

Opening round action in the 72-hole medal play tournament will begin Friday. Tourney Co-chairman Jim Winfree revised the plans and set a 36-hole session Sunday so the eighth annual tourney will wind up on schedule.

About 65 spots for pros will be decided in the qualifying. Defending Champion Ken Venturi and 84 other top pros on the PGA winter circuit were exempt from qualifying.

Baylor Nears Rookie Score Mark In NBA

By United Press International

Elgin Baylor is less than 100 points away from setting a rookie record for scoring in the National Basketball Association.

Baylor, Minneapolis' flashy fledgling, scored the season's high of 55 points and raised his personal total to 1,399 Wednesday night as the Lakers larruped the Cincinnati Royals, 116-96, in the opener of a doubleheader at Detroit.

Needs Only 98 Points

The former Seattle All - American now needs only 98 points to surpass the first-year high of 1,496 set by Alex Groza with Indianapolis during the 1949-50 season. Bob Pettit of St. Louis scored 1,466 as a rookie with Minneapolis in the 1954-55 campaign.

The Hawks beat the Pistons, 104-100, in the nightcap of the Detroit twinbill and the Philadelphia Warriors walloped the New York Knickerbockers, 134-123.

Baylor's total on 12 field goals and 11 free throws, was the third highest single game effort by a player in NBA history. Joe Fulks scored a record 63 points with Philadelphia on Feb. 10, 1944. George Mikan had 61. The previous top this season was 52 by Pettit.

Minneapolis gained the lead late in the first period on a Baylor basket and stayed ahead for the rest of the game. A 48-41 half-time margin was built up to 23 points at one stage of the game.

Jack Twyman's 34 points for Cincinnati were completely overshadowed by Baylor's performance.

Pistons Lose Ground

St. Louis dropped Detroit 4½ games behind Minneapolis in the battle for second place in the Western Division. The Hawks gained a 47-40 half-time lead and managed to contain the Pistons after intermission. Pettit led the St. Louis attack with 24 points. Phil Jordan had 20 for Detroit.

Paul Arizin, right behind Pettit in the face for the scoring championship, poured in 21 of his 32 points in the first half to pace Philadelphia to a 68-52 intermission lead. The victory pulled the Warriors to within three games of Syracuse in the race for the third play-off spot in the Eastern Division. Willie Naulls was high for New York with 26.

Where Is He Now?

Fusari Operates Cooler Business

Charlie Fusari, a speedy welterweight from New Jersey, rolled up a string of 45 straight victories in three years before he lost his first fight at Madison Square Garden to tough Tony Pellone in 1947. The next year, Fusari started another winning streak only to be flattened by Rocky Graziano late in 1949. In 1950, he built himself into a title fight with Sugar Ray Robinson and went the distance but lost the fight. He retired in 1952 after only six more bouts.

Whatever happened to Charlie Fusari? Now 35, he lives in Irvington, N. J., operates a water cooler business and is associated with a used car lot in Newark.

Petty Victor In Stock Race

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (UPI) —Lee Petty of Randelman, N. C. reigned today as winner of the 500-mile NASCAR stock car race sweepstakes, but he had to wait three days to make it official.

Johnny Beauchamp of Harlan, Iowa, was at first declared winner of Sunday's classic. However, protests from men in the pit area forced NASCAR President Bill France to withhold a final decision until films of the close finish could be studied.

An absence of photo-finish facilities complicated matters and officials had to pour over films and still shots of the race to determine Petty's victory. They finally declared Petty the winner Wednesday.

The pictures showed Petty's 1959 Oldsmobile in front of Beauchamp's 1959 Ford Thunderbird as the car cars zoomed past the finish line. Petty's average winning time was 135.521 mph, a new 500 - mile record for stock cars.

Petty, who didn't file an official protest, said "I slept good because I knew I had won it."

His dreams were money - makers as there is a difference of about $11,000 in prize money between first and second place.

Cloud Hanging Over Tar Heels' Tourney Chances

Virginians Deal Second Loss In Row To Carolina

By JOHN GRIFFIN
United Press International

A second-straight upset loss, this time at the hands of Virginia, threw a cloud today over North Carolina's post-season basketball chances and could serve as a warning to high-ranked West Virginia, which hits the tourney trail today.

North Carolina, the nation's No. 1 team until upset by Maryland last week, took it on the chin again Wednesday night, 69-68, at Charlottesville, Va., when Paul Adkins of Virginia tallied two free throws with 1:30 to play.

The loss dropped North Carolina out of first place in the Atlantic Coast Conference. Although it could be meaningless in the long run, since the ACC berth in the NCAA tourney goes to the team winning the league's own post-season tourney, the loss raised doubts about North Carolina's chances.

Tar Heels Blow Lead

North Carolina seemed to have this one wrapped up early with a 12-point lead during the first half, but then Adkins entered the game and sparked Virginia in a comeback to take a 36-34 halftime lead.

North Carolina led, 69-67, when Adkins hit his pair of free throws that decided the game. Carolina had a couple of shots after that, but they went astray as Cavalier defenses kept the Tar Heels at long range. Herb Busch had 20 points and Adkins 19 for Virginia while Harvey Salz had 19 for North Carolina. It was the Tar Heels' third loss in 20 games.

West Virginia, ranked 13th nationally, is a top-heavy favorite in the Southern Conference's post-season tournament opening today in Richmond, Va., with an NCAA berth at stake for the winner.

Coach Fred Schaus' Mountaineers have won the league title four straight times and have won 47 straight league games. They were expected to crush Davidson in an afternoon program that also pitted William and Mary against Richmond. In night games, Virginia Tech faced George Washington and The Citadel faced Furman.

To Decline NCAA Berth

In another tournament development, it was learned in Starkville, Miss., that Mississippi State probably will decline a berth in the NCAA tournament. The Maroons have clinched the right to represent the Southeastern Conference in the NCAA carnival, but the state of Mississippi has an unwritten policy against racially-integrated athletic events.

University President Ben Hilbun said the school's decision won't be announced until after the Maroons' final game of the season Saturday night against Mississippi. But it was learned that the announcement almost certainly would be a rejection. That would clear the way for Kentucky, last year's NCAA champion, to return to the tournament on a "rain check."

In other leading games Wednesday night:

Maryland followed up its victory over North Carolina by beating Georgetown (D.C.), 67-56, as Charlie McNeil scored 27 points; Louisville celebrated its acceptance of a member-at-large berth in the NCAA tourney by trouncing De Paul, 83-66; Fordham, bound for the National Invitation Tournament, edged Rutgers, 79-72; Temple beat Pennsylvania, 75-69, and Syracuse shaded Canisius, 79-73.

FRAME-UP—Frank Thomas, when viewed from between Cincinnati teammate Frank Robinson's legs, seems small. But Thomas, obtained from Pittsburgh in a trade, is a big hitter who figures to give Reds plenty of power to go with Robinson's bat.

North Carolina Cagers May Be Doing 'Fadeout'

By The Associated Press

Are North Carolina's basketball Tar Heels fading in the stretch? Did that short-lived No. 1 national ranking making them overconfident? Have they picked up a fatal case of the late season jitters?

The questions were prompted by North Carolina's second straight Atlantic Coast Conference loss last night.

Lose Conference Lead

Virginia's 69-68 victory at Charlottesville knocked the Tar Heels out of first place in conference standings.

North Carolina, clobbered by Maryland last week, will have to whip Duke in its final ACC game Saturday to gain a tie for first with North Carolina State. The Wolfpack ended the season with a 12-2 record.

Should the Tar Heels win, a flip of the coin will determine which gets top seeding in the ACC tourney in Raleigh next month.

Last night's defeat came at the hands of a team which previously had managed only four wins in 12 conference games.

Adkins Hero

Paul Adkins, who had attended his grandfather's funeral in Florida, entered the game with nearly six minutes gone, and put new life in the Cavaliers.

He scored 19 points and his driving layup in the final minute won the game. Teammate Herb Busch got 20 points.

Harvey Salz was top man for North Carolina with 17.

North Carolina now is 17-3 overall. Virginia has a 6-15 showing with a final game Saturday against South Carolina.

Maryland went out of the conference last night and dumped Georgetown 67-56. The Terps, led by Charlie McNeil's 27 points, came from behind in the first half.

Conference teams are idle tonight.

Twilight League Meets March 4

An important meeting of the Twilight Baseball League will be held at 7:30 p. m. on March 4 at the Mt. Savage K of C Hall. This meeting will be the deadline for obtaining franchises in the circuit for the coming season.

All team representatives are urged to attend the session as the league hopes to open about May 4.

Seven teams presently are entered in the circuit. They are Zihlman, Klondyke, Westernport, Franklin, Mt. Savage, Barton and Lonaconing. Barton is defending champion.

St. Michael's Seeks Crown

If SS. Peter and Paul's cagers want to keep their chances alive in the Catholic Youth Basketball League they'll have to whip unbeaten St. Michael's of Frostburg tonight when they clash on the SS. Peter and Paul court at 8 o'clock.

The Mountain City hoopsters, with the first-half title tucked away and a 15-game win streak going, can take the second-half honors by winning tonight in the final games of the season.

St. Michael's won the opening crown by beating the Flying Dutchmen in a playoff, 37-35, after the teams had wound up with 9-1 records. They had split in their two previous meetings.

Frostburg is undefeated in nine tilts for the second-half race while the locals' only setback in as many outings was to the pacesetters, 31-20, at Frostburg.

In the first game of the twin bill, St. Ambrose will play St. Peter's of Westernport at 6:45.

St. Mary's Gaels will be host to St. Mary's in the other league game scheduled for tonight on the Oldtown Road court at 7:30.

Woodling Signs Baltimore Pact

BALTIMORE (AP) — Veteran Gene Woodling, who last year said he was considering retiring from baseball, has signed for another season with the Baltimore Orioles.

The 36-year-old outfielder's timely hitting helped spark the Birds last year. He batted .276.

Terms under which he signed were not disclosed but they were believed to be roughly those of last year when Woodling was the highest paid Oriole at about $32,000.

Woodling's signing, along with that of infielder Billy Gardner yesterday, left only three Orioles out of the fold.

Dave Jenkins Seeks Third Straight Title

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (UPI)—David Jenkins of Colorado Springs and 13 other representatives of eight nations took the ice today in quest of the men's world figure skating championship which Jenkins has won since 1957.

Carol Heiss, holding a commanding lead in compulsory figures, leads a field of 15 into tonight's free skating which will decide the women's crown. Miss Heiss, 19-year-old New York University student from Ozone Park, N.Y., has held the title for three years.

Enters Mile Run

Craft Thinks A's Capable Of .500 Ball

This is the last in a series by major league managers giving pre-season appraisals of their teams.

By HARRY CRAFT
Manager, Kansas City Athletics
Written for UPI

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI)—I'm not setting a goal for the 1959 Athletics like I did last year when we were aiming for 70 victories and beat that by three games.

I won't even say that we will be a first division contender. But we will be shooting for a .500 percentage and, if we hit that, we won't be far out.

I believe we can hit the .500 mark this season with a little natural improvement and the bench strength we have added.

Additions like Wayne Terwilliger, John Bella and Dick Williams have given us that bench strength we have sorely needed.

They and some other young fellows will give us more maneuverability this season and the competition for jobs this spring will be greater than it ever was.

And a little competition never hurt anyone.

Battle For First

First base, in particular, will be an interesting position this spring. Fellows like Preston Ward, Harry Simpson, Whitey Herzog, Kent Hadley, Jim McManus, Hal Smith and even Bella and Williams will be out to win it.

If I had to name my first baseman today, I couldn't do it. It wouldn't be fair to those fellows.

But pitching is the most important thing to the ball club.

Unless someone changes my my mind, we'll start out with the same rotation that we got going toward the end of last year, Bob Grim, Ned Garver, Ralph Terry and Ray Herbert. My mind is still open on the fifth starter.

Of the young pitchers, I'd say Howard Reed, the big Texan, has an excellent chance of making the ball club. He's got the stuff and good control for having only one year of experience.

Grim could be the No. 1 man on our staff from what he showed in the last two months last season.

Bob Cerv and Roger Maris will give us defense and punch in the outfield.

Praises Lopez, De Maestri

Bill Tuttle in centerfield is better and more valuable than the record indicates. He hit only .214 last year, but he got the key base hits and key bases on balls.

I can't say that the rest of the infield is set, but Hector Lopez swings a good bat and showed good improvement when we shoved him in at second base last year; there's no question about the defensive ability of Joe DeMaestri at short, and you couldn't ask for a man to step in and do a better job than Hal Smith did at third last year.

Here's where that bench strength and maneuverability come in. Terwilliger, Milt Graff and Mike Baxes will be in the running for these positions in addition to the fact that Lopez can move to third and Smith could take over at first or behind the plate.

Of course, our catching staff is pretty well manned with Harry Chiti and Frank House.

Pfeiffer Beermen Set Dux Record

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UPI — The Pfeiffer Beer Club of Detroit smashed a 21-year-old American Bowling Congress tournament record Wednesday night by posting a 3,243-team total.

Pfeiffer's pace-setting performance set the stage for a showdown tonight with the defending ABC champions, the Falstaffs of St. Louis, which must beat another record if they hope to retain their crown.

In Wednesday's other action, Bill Pace, 27, of St. Louis, who is handicapped by being crippled, jumped into first place in the singles with a tremendous 743. Pace had games of 239, 225 and 279. His total was the 15th best singles score in tourney history.

Brewers Rout Chaney's For 143-64 Win

Unbeaten Old Germans, who went on a scoring rampage last night in the City Basketball League by walloping Chaney's Transportation, 143-64, at Carver gym, gun for their 18th straight triumph tonight when facing Forty & Eight Club at 7 o'clock at Allegany.

The Brewers, seeking a sweep of the split-season race, have won seven games this half. Old Exports will tangle with Chaney's in tonight's other contest at 8:30.

Score 70 Goals

Cutting the cards for a staggering 70 goals, Old Germans racked up one of the highest totals on record in the league. The Brewers other three tallies came from the foul line.

Using only five players, all five of the Brewers reached double figures with Ed Orndorff and Glen Smith both rattling the rims for 41 points. Don Moran finished with 31 while Phil Smith contributed 20 and Alex Ambrose 10.

Colin Detrick led the losers with 25 markers.

In the second game of the doubleheader the Loyal Order of Moose five edged the Old Exports, 66-62.

Trailing 40-38 at intermission the Moose rallied in the third quarter when Ronnie Cage's goal put them ahead, 42-41, a lead the victors held the remainder of the game.

Finish With Four

Bill Kirk fouled out with 7:25 remaining in the fourth period leaving the Old Exports with only four players the rest of the contest. The losers rallied to pull within two points at 64-62 when the Moose froze the ball during the final three minutes. A layup by Don Lilya with 40 seconds left iced the contest for the Moose.

High scorer for the winners was Lilya with 28 tallies while Bob Pence with 22 and Jim Thomas with 20 paced the Old Exports.

VPI Poses Top Challenge To WVU In Tournament

RICHMOND, Va. (UPI)—The Southern Conference basketball tournament opens today with four games on tap and seven teams taking aim at West Virginia's string of four straight championships and 47 league wins.

Talk was persistent that a better league balance and the power of Virginia Tech posed the biggest challenge the powerful Mountaineers have faced in years, but West Virginia remained a solid favorite.

WVU Meets Davidson

William and Mary tips off the tournament against Richmond at 2 p.m. e.s.t. The two squads have traded victories this season.

The opening night schedule pits second place Virginia Tech against George Washington at 7:30 p. m. e.s.t. and closes with The Citadel against Furman in another rubber battle after an even split in two previous matches.

West Virginia Coach Fred Schaus, his usual cautious self, opened the quote parade with a sunny, "It should be a real fine tournament" and closed his predictions with "In this day and age in basketball, you can't take any team lightly."

All In Good Shape

However, Schaus readily admitted "everybody is in good shape," including All - America candidate Jerry West, voted the Most Valuable Player in the 1958 tourney.

The two afternoon winners will square off in the first semi-final Friday night and the opening night victors will clash in the other, with the finals scheduled Saturday night.

The champion will represent the conference in the NCAA tournament, in which the Mountaineers have been ignominious first-round losers the past three seasons.

Besides the impetus of 47 straight conference wins, the Mountaineers received a double-advantage in the first-round pairings. Davidson is rated a weak sister while chief challengers Virginia Tech and George Washington are paired against each other.

Wesleyan Seeks Crown Tonight

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Morris Harvey will be out tonight to stop West Virginia Wesleyan from taking its second straight District 28 NAIA basketball berth.

Morris Harvey dropped the first game of a best-of-three series 90-77 Tuesday night at Buckhannon and must win tonight to keep alive its title hopes.

If a third game is necessary it will be at Glenville Monday.

The Eagles have won 12 straight games on their home floor since losing to Wesleyan over a year ago. They also are the only team to beat Wesleyan this season, winning here 93 - 91 Feb. 5.

The revenge - minded Bobcats worked out on the Morris Harvey floor Wednesday night. Wesleyan enters the game with a 31-1 record, while the Eagles have a 16-8 mark.

Athletic Training Group

FT. JACKSON, S. C. (UPI)—Pvt. Tommy Kearns, former North Carolina basketball star, Pvt. Jackie Simpson, ex-Mississippi football ace, and pro golfer John L. Berry Jr. of Tallahassee, Fla., also a private, are currently taking basic training in Co. A, 18th Battalion, First Training Regiment at Fort Jackson.

Cloud Hanging Over Tar Heels' Tourney Chances

Virginians Deal Second Loss In Row To Carolina

By JOHN GRIFFIN
United Press International

A second-straight upset loss, this time at the hands of Virginia, threw a cloud today over North Carolina's post-season basketball chances and could serve as a warning to high-ranked West Virginia, which hits the tourney trail today.

North Carolina, the nation's No. 1 team until upset by Maryland last week, took it on the chin again Wednesday night, 69-68, at Charlottesville, Va., when Paul Adkins of Virginia tallied two free throws with 1:30 to play.

The loss dropped North Carolina out of first place in the Atlantic Coast Conference. Although it could be meaningless in the long run, since the ACC berth in the NCAA tourney goes to the team winning the league's own post-season tourney, the loss raised doubts about North Carolina's chances.

Tar Heels Blow Lead

North Carolina seemed to have this one wrapped up early with a 12-point lead during the first half, but then Adkins entered the game and sparked Virginia in a comeback to take a 36-34 halftime lead.

North Carolina led, 63-67, when Adkins hit his pair of free throws that decided the game. Carolina had a couple of shots after that, but they went astray as Cavalier defenses kept the Tar Heels at long range. Herb Busch had 20 points and Adkins 19 for Virginia while Harvey Salz had 19 for North Carolina. It was the Tar Heels' third loss in 20 games.

West Virginia, ranked 13th nationally, is a top-heavy favorite in the Southern Conference's post-season tournament opening today in Richmond, Va., with an NCAA berth at stake for the winner.

Coach Fred Schaus' Mountaineers have won the league title four straight times and have won 47 straight league games. They were expected to crush Davidson in an afternoon program that also pitted William and Mary against Richmond. In night games, Virginia Tech faced George Washington and The Citadel faced Furman.

To Decline NCAA Berth

In another tournament development, it was learned in Starkville, Miss., that Mississippi State probably will decline a berth in the NCAA tournament. The Maroons have clinched the right to represent the Southeastern Conference in the NCAA carnival, but the state of Mississippi has an unwritten policy against racially-integrated athletic events.

University President Ben Hilbun said the school's decision won't be announced until after the Maroons' final game of the season Saturday night against Mississippi. But it was learned that the announcement almost certainly would be a rejection. That would clear the way for Kentucky, last year's NCAA champion, to return to the tournament on a "rain check."

In other leading games Wednesday night:

Maryland followed up its victory over North Carolina by beating Georgetown (D.C.), 67-56, as Charlie McNeil scored 27 points; Louisville celebrated its acceptance of a member-at-large berth in the NCAA tourney by trouncing De Paul, 83-66; Fordham, bound for the National Invitation Tournament, edged Rutgers, 79-72; Temple beat Pennsylvania, 75-69, and Syracuse shaded Canisius, 79-73.

FRAME-UP—Frank Thomas, when viewed from between Cincinnati teammate Frank Robinson's legs, seems small. But Thomas, obtained from Pittsburgh in a trade, is a big hitter who figures to give Reds plenty of power to go with Robinson's bat.

North Carolina Cagers May Be Doing 'Fadeout'

By The Associated Press

Are North Carolina's basketball Tar Heels fading in the stretch? Did that short-lived No. 1 national ranking making them overconfident? Have they picked up a fatal case of the late season jitters?

The questions were prompted by North Carolina's second straight Atlantic Coast Conference loss last night.

Lose Conference Lead

Virginia's 69-68 victory at Charlottesville knocked the Tar Heels out of first place in conference standings.

North Carolina, clobbered by Maryland last week, will have to whip Duke in its final ACC game Saturday to gain a tie for first with North Carolina State. The Wolfpack ended the season with a 12-2 record.

Should the Tar Heels win, a flip of the coin will determine which gets top seeding in the ACC tourney in Raleigh next month.

Last night's defeat came at the hands of a team which previously had managed only four wins in 12 conference games.

Adkins Hero

Paul Adkins, who had attended his grandfather's funeral in Florida, entered the game with nearly six minutes gone, and put new life in the Cavaliers.

He scored 19 points and his driving layup in the final minute won the game. Teammate Herb Busch got 20 points.

Harvey Salz was top man for North Carolina with 17.

North Carolina now is 17-3 overall. Virginia has a 6-15 showing with a final game Saturday against South Carolina.

Maryland went out of the conference last night and dumped Georgetown 67-56. The Terps, led by Charlie McNeil's 27 points, came from behind in the first half.

Conference teams are idle tonight.

Bill Kelly shot a 204 game and 508 set to pace the Allegany attack. Ed Dawson had high set of 386 and Bob Grant top game of 154 for the Sentinels. Emil Krampf had 173-494 for LaSalle and Bill Blake had a 184 game. Darly Meese led Ridgeley with 181-469.

Dave Jenkins Seeks Third Straight Title

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (UPI)—David Jenkins of Colorado Springs and 13 other representatives of eight nations took the ice today in quest of the men's world figure skating championship which Jenkins has won since 1957.

Carol Hiess, holding a commanding lead in compulsory figures, leads a field of 15 into tonight's free skating which will decide the women's crown. Miss Heiss, 19-year-old New York University student from Ozone Park, N.Y., has held the title for three years.

Enters Mile Run

St. Michael's Seeks Crown

If SS. Peter and Paul's cagers want to keep their chances alive in the Catholic Youth Basketball League they'll have to whip unbeaten St. Michael's of Frostburg tonight when they clash on the SS. Peter and Paul court at 8 o'clock.

The Mountain City hoopsters, with the first-half title tucked away and a 15-game win streak going, can take the second-half honors by winning tonight in the final games of the season.

St. Michael's won the opening crown by beating the Flying Dutchmen in a playoff, 37-35, after the teams had wound up with 9-1 records. They had split in their two previous meetings.

Frostburg is undefeated in nine tilts for the second-half race while the locals' only setback in as many outings was to the pacesetters, 31-20, at Frostburg.

In the first game of the twin bill, St. Ambrose will play St. Peter's of Westernport at 6:45.

St. Mary's Gaels will be host to St. Mary's in the other league game scheduled for tonight on the Oldtown Road court at 7:30.

Woodling Signs Baltimore Pact

BALTIMORE (AP) — Veteran Gene Woodling, who last year said he was considering retiring from baseball, has signed for another season with the Baltimore Orioles.

The 36-year-old outfielder's timely hitting helped spark the Birds last year. He batted .276.

Terms under which he signed were not disclosed but they were believed to be roughly those of last year when Woodling was the highest paid Oriole at about $32,000.

Woodling's signing, along with that of infielder Billy Gardner yesterday, left only three Orioles out of the fold.

Throws Out Suit

Craft Thinks A's Capable Of .500 Ball

This is the last in a series by major league managers giving pre-season appraisals of their teams.

By HARRY CRAFT
Manager, Kansas City Athletics
Written for UPI

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI)—I'm not setting a goal for the 1959 Athletics like I did last year when we were aiming for 70 victories and beat that by three games.

I won't even say that we will be a first division contender. But we will be shooting for a .500 percentage and, if we hit that, we won't be far out.

I believe we can hit the .500 mark this season with a little natural improvement and the bench strength we have added.

Additions like Wayne Terwilliger, John Bella and Dick Williams have given us that bench strength we have sorely needed.

They and some other young fellows will give us more maneuverability this season and the competition for jobs this spring will be greater than it ever was.

And a little competition never hurt anyone.

Battle For First

First base, in particular, will be an interesting position this spring. Fellows like Preston Ward, Harry Simpson, Whitey Herzog, Kent Hadley, Jim McManus, Hal Smith and even Bella and Williams will be out to win it.

If I had to name my first baseman today, I couldn't do it. It wouldn't be fair to those fellows.

But pitching is the most important thing to the ball club.

Unless someone changes my my mind, we'll start out with the same rotation that we got going toward the end of last year. Bob Grim, Ned Garver, Ralph Terry and Ray Herbert. My mind is still open on the fifth starter.

Of the young pitchers, I'd say Howard Reed, the big Texan, has an excellent chance of making the ball club. He's got the stuff and good control for having only one year of experience.

Grim could be the No. 1 man on our staff from what he showed in the last two months last season.

Bob Cerv and Roger Maris will give us defense and punch in the outfield.

Praises Lopez, De Maestri

Bill Tuttle in centerfield is better and more vaulable than the record indicates. He hit only .214 last year, but he got the key base hits and key bases on balls.

I can't say that the rest of the infield is set, but Hector Lopez swings a good bat and showed good improvement when we shoved him in at second base last year; there's no question about the defensive ability of Joe DeMaestri at short, and you couldn't ask for a man to step in and do a better job than Hal Smith did at third last year.

Here's where that bench strength and maneuverability come in. Terwilliger, Milt Graff and Mike Baxes will be in the running for these positions in addition to the fact that Lopez can move to third and Smith could take over at first or behind the plate.

Of course, our catching staff is pretty well manned with Harry Chiti and Frank House.

Pfeiffer Beermen Set Dux Record

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UPI — The Pfeiffer Beer Club of Detroit smashed a 21-year-old American Bowling Congress tournament record Wednesday night by posting a 3,243-team total.

Pfeiffer's pace-setting performance set the stage for a showdown tonight with the defending ABC champions, the Falstaffs of St. Louis, which must set another record if they hope to retain their crown.

In Wednesday's other action, Bill Pace, 27, of St. Louis, who is handicapped by being crippled, jumped into first place in the singles with a tremendous 743. Pace had games of 239, 225 and 279. His total was the 15th highest singles score in tourney history.

Brewers Rout Chaney's For 143-64 Win

Unbeaten Old Germans, who went on a scoring rampage last night in the City Basketball League by walloping Chaney's Transportation, 143-64, at Carver gym, gun for their 18th straight triumph tonight when facing Forty & Eight Club at 7 o'clock at Allegany.

The Brewers, seeking a sweep of the split-season race, have won seven games this half. Old Exports will tangle with Chaney's in tonight's other contest at 8:30.

Score 70 Goals

Cutting the cords for a staggering 70 goals, Old Germans racked up one of the highest totals on record in the league. The Brewers other three tallies came from the foul line.

Using only five players, all five of the Brewers reached double figures with Ed Orndorff and Glen Smith both rattling the rims for 41 points. Don Moran finished with 31 while Phil Smith contributed 20 and Alex Ambrose 10.

Colin Detrick led the losers with 25 markers.

In the second game of the doubleheader the Loyal Order of Moose five edged the Old Exports, 66-62.

Trailing 40-38 at intermission the Moose rallied in the third quarter when Ronnie Cage's goal put them ahead, 42-41, a lead the victors held the remainder of the game.

Finish With Four

Bill Kirk fouled out with 7:25 remaining in the fourth period leaving the Old Exports with only four players the rest of the contest. The losers rallied to pull within two points at 64-62 when the Moose froze the ball during the final three minutes. A layup by Don Lilya with 40 seconds left iced the contest for the Moose.

High scorer for the winners was Lilya with 28 tallies while Bob Pence with 22 and Jim Thomas with 20 paced the Old Exports.

VPI Poses Top Challenge To WVU In Tournament

RICHMOND, Va. (UPI)—The Southern Conference basketball tournament opens today with four games on tap and seven teams taking aim at West Virginia's string of four straight championships and 47 league wins.

Talk was persistent that a better league balance and the power of Virginia Tech posed the biggest challenge the powerful Mountaineers have faced in years, but West Virginia remained a solid favorite.

WVU Meets Davidson

The Mountaineers take on Davidson at 4 p. m., e.s.t., in what is picked as the only lopsided contest in the opening round.

William and Mary tips off the tournament against Richmond at 2 p.m. e.s.t. The two squads have traded victories this season.

The opening night schedule pits second place Virginia Tech against George Washington at 7:30 p. m. e.s.t. and closes with The Citadel against Furman in another rubber battle after an even split in two previous matches.

West Virginia Coach Fred Schaus, his usual cautious self, opened the quote parade with a sunny, "It should be a real fine tournament" and closed his predictions with "In this day and age in basketball, you can't take any team lightly."

All In Good Shape

However, Schaus readily admitted "everybody is in good shape," including All - America candidate Jerry West, voted the Most Valuable Player in the 1958 tourney.

The two afternoon winners will square off in the first semi-final Friday night and the opening night victors will clash in the other, with the finals scheduled Saturday night.

The champion will represent the conference in the NCAA tournament, in which the Mountaineers have been ignominious first-round losers the past three seasons.

Besides the impetus of 47 straight conference wins, the Mountaineers received a double-advantage in the first-round pairings. Davidson is rated a weak sister while chief challengers Virginia Tech and George Washington are paired against each other.

Wesleyan Seeks Crown Tonight

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Morris Harvey will be out tonight to stop West Virginia Wesleyan from taking its second straight District 28 NAIA basketball berth.

Morris Harvey dropped the first game of a best-of-three series 90-77 Tuesday night at Buckhannon and must win tonight to keep alive its title hopes.

If a third game is necessary it will be at Glenville Monday.

The Eagles have won 12 straight games on their home floor since losing to Wesleyan over a year ago. They also are the only team to beat Wesleyan this season, winning here 93 - 91 Feb. 5.

The revenge - minded Bobcats worked out on the Morris Harvey floor Wednesday night. Wesleyan enters the game with a 31-1 record, while the Eagles have a 16-8 mark.

FT. JACKSON, S. C. (UPI)—Pvt. Tommy Kearns, former North Carolina basketball star, Pvt. Jackie Simpson, ex-Mississippi football ace, and pro golfer John L. Frank's Tavern and Capital Alleys maintained their torrid battle for the lead in the Ladies City Bowling League by scoring shutout victories which keeps them tied for first. Frank's defeated Diamond and Capital won over Pyrofax Gas on the Diamond lanes. In the other match Old Export topped Old Germans, 2-1.

Keyser High's cagers, never in trouble, closed the season with ten straight victories by romping to an 80-54 triumph over Bruce of Westernport last night at Keyser.

The Golden Tornado, finished with a 17-3 record, jumped off to a 17-5 lead at the end of the first quarter, increased the edge to 38-24 at intermission and moved into the final heat on top by 58-40.

Don Sanders paced the winners with 18 points while Bill Wiltison hooped 22 for the losers.

Legislature Adopts Bill For Oldtown

County Will Pay $838 Support For Fire Company Unit

After concurrence on amendments to a bill directing the Allegany County Commissioners to pay $838.40 toward the support of the Oldtown Volunteer Fire Company the measure was adopted at the General Assembly.

The measure, Senate Bill 223, was sponsored by State Senator Charles M. See.

The bill was amended by the Allegany County Delegation to delete a $150 contribution to the Chapel Hill Hose Company, a social group.

Senator See said Del. Fred B. Driscoll, delegation chairman, reported the amendment was made in response to a suggestion that the Chapel Hill contribution be cut out, as it is no longer in existence.

The organization went out, Senator See said, when Nelson W. Russler died.

The legislators made no change in the $150 contribution to the Cumberland Hose Company, whose former quarters are used by the Cumberland Auxiliary Police unit.

Deletion of the Chapel Hill contribution brings the total the county is directed to pay the several volunteer fire companies to $22,813.40.

Two other fire company bills may be acted on during the current session of the Assembly.

The first is a bill to create a special taxing area for fire protection in election districts served by the LaVale Volunteer Fire Company and to allow a tax of not more than 10 cents on each $100 assessed valuation of property to finance the company.

The proposal would be put up to the voters in the districts in a referendum 90 days after June 1, when the bill would become effective.

The Allegany County Delegation, which is sponsoring the bill, has received endorsements.

Francis Fatkin, president of the Allegany-Garrett Volunteer Firemen's Association, wrote he had contacted 10 companies and all approved.

It was endorsed by the LaVale Civic Association in a letter from Lloyd Buchanan, president, according to Del. Fred B. Driscoll, chairman of the Delegation.

The other bill is one sent down by the City of Cumberland to the Allegany County Delegation, requesting that the county contribute toward the support of the Cumberland Fire Department a sum equal to aid to volunteer fire companies.

The plan was placed in the hands of the Allegany County Delegation Monday after city and county officials disagreed, and City Attorney William R. Carscaden said the "delegation must take a stand."

So far as is known, the bill has not been introduced.

State Senator Charles M. See said last night he "will not legislatively referee differences between the City of Cumberland and the County Commissioners."

Program For Health Work Discussed Here

Edward V. Graef, executive director of the Health Research and Services Foundation of Allegheny County, Pa., who was the speaker at the County United Fund dinner last night, met with local doctors and community leaders earlier to advise them on the operation of a single, local health foundation to cover all diseases.

Graef told the CUF workers attending the dinner at Cumberland Country Club last night that "communities are no longer interested in wooing health agencies into United Funds." He said the Health Purpose Foundation which has been created by the CUF to serve the total needs of the area in the health field "is the right step in the right direction."

Graef, who helped to organize the first local health foundation in the United States while serving as United Fund executive director in Durham, N. C., was introduced by Ort.

"United Funds are now moving in a new direction," he declared. "As far as health agencies are concerned, United Funds are interested in developing a better product—one that will do a much better job in the field of medical research; a far superior job in the field of health education; a much finer job of providing medical services to people who need those services."

The speaker traced the history of United Funds from their origin in Detroit in 1948, where business men and labor leaders became annoyed at the number of fund campaigns conducted in their plants, and where the Ford Motor Company discovered it was costing $40,000 in lost time and production each time a fund campaign took place in Ford installations.

"Business, labor and other community leaders then asked themselves, 'Why can't this situation be corrected?'," Mr. Graef said, "just as they are now asking themselves, 'Why do we need a separate health agency for every disease?' "

He declared that "in the beginning, the national health agencies gave hope to the business and labor leaders who organized United Funds. The American Heart Association joined in some four or five hundred campaigns. The American Cancer Society joined in some three or four hundred campaigns. Tuberculosis joined. Crippled Children joined.

"Then," he continued, "confusion developed. National policies restrained local health groups from accepting money from United Funds in some places, while in others they were permitted to participate. And finally, although United Funds included 'cause' money for health agencies in their successful campaigns year after year, the time arrived when nearly all of the health agencies refused to accept the money."

Graef then traced the studies made by various communities of the operations of health agencies, "most of which," he declared, "can render very little service because of their top-heavy organizational setups.

"So long as you have one separate health agency for every disease," he stated, "then you are going to have an organizational setup that simply eats up the money and uses it for purposes other than for what the people thought it had been contributed."

Graef said that there are now more than 100 national health agencies, "each with its own executive and office and staff, and each hoping that it will become as big and strong as heart, cancer and polio, with separate chapters in each and every community, each with its own office, its own executive and its own staff."

The CUF volunteer workers then heard Mr. Graef declare: "This, to your community leaders, is the last straw!"

He referred to a Rockefeller Foundation report of 1945, and to a similar report made by the Ohio State Medical Association two years ago, both of which recommended a single health agency for all diseases, and agreed that:

"Multiplicity of agencies means inefficiency, unnecessary expense, duplication of staff, competition for public support, less effective leadership and direction for all, dissipation of energy and confusion to the public."

The single, local health foundation is the "new product being developed by community leaders in many cities, including Cumberland, and they are getting it ready for market.

"They are not waiting for the product to be absolutely perfect before they proceed. They know there are many problems to solve and they are taking them on one at a time.

"They are already facing immediate problems arising out of relationships with some national agencies that have informed them they want to cooperate in the new movement. There will be problems arising out of relationships with other national health agencies whose past history indicates very little cooperation can be expected.

"But," he concluded, "most important of all, your community leaders are taking a long, hard look at what their relationship will be with more than 100 health agencies already in existence at the national level—agencies that are not yet established in your local community, but all of which want to move in, and will move in—unless your community leaders cling to their plans for a single, local health foundation to cover all diseases."

William C. Walsh, former circuit court and court of appeals judge and attorney general of Maryland, was elected president of the CUF organization.

A complete slate of officers, board members and executive committee members was elected at the meeting, which was presided over by Lewis J. Ort, first-year campaign chairman and second-year president of CUF.

The invocation was delivered by Salvation Army Captain Daniel B. Biggs, 1959 CUF campaign chairman, who later reported on the recent drive that netted $316,807 for the support of 32 affiliated CUF agencies in Allegany and Mineral counties.

A. Trago Brust Jr., secretary, read the minutes of the last CUF meeting; Earl K. Hess, treasurer, gave a financial report for the year, and Robert G. Garner, chairman, gave the 1959 nominating committee report.

In addition to President Walsh, other officers elected for the coming year include:

Dr. W. Royce Hodges, vice president; William R. Carscaden, secretary; and Earl K. Hess, treasurer.

The executive committee will consist of A. Trago Brust Jr., Mr. Carscaden, Wilbur Johnson, Duard H. Lillie, John B. White and Mr. Walsh.

Members of the board of directors are:

Able Young Actor Placed In Poor Role In TV Play

By WILLIAM EWALD

NEW YORK (UPI) — CBS-TV's U.S. Steel Hour is an infuriating example of TV blueprinting.

Aside from CBS-TV's Playhouse 90, there are no dramas of quality on television and it would seem much to the Steel Hour's advantage to jump into the gap and coat itself with some honor.

But for the past couple of seasons, the Steel Hour has taken refuge inside a dreary sanctuary of mediocrity. It hires players of skill, but then anchors those players to timid dramas, uninspired, yawny, unelectric.

There is a mechanical drabness about its product. There is no flash or fire about the show. It simply shuffles through the paces.

Wednesday night, the Steel Hour did wrong by one of the most exciting young actors in our theater, George Scott. Scott is a whiplash of a performer, vigorous, stinging, crackly. He is a player of leather and given a decent chance, he can lace strength through the flesh of any play.

Unhappily, Scott was thrown into a wafer-thin wrapper called "Trap For A Stranger" that simply buckled under him. It was an implausible piece about a small town sheriff who unjustly accuses a stranger of manslaughter in order to win an election, skinny in its motivations, hogwashy in its conclusion.

Dick Van Dyke and Teresa Wright also were thrown into this cellophane package and labored manfully and womanfully, respectively. It occurs to me what the Steel Hour could use is a little steel in its own scripts.

Short Shots: Jocelyn Brando, Marlon's sister, was trapped inside a remarkably tedious version of the Lizzie Borden story on ABC-TV's Accused Wednesday night. Jan Sterling turned in a bonny performance Wednesday night on an inert NBC-TV Wagon Train episode. CBS-TV's Track-down didn't even bother with a plot Wednesday night — Just ground out a single and wearisome chain of gun-booming from start to end. It's a shame to waste Robert Culp, one of the more competent cowboy actors, in debris like this.

The Channel Swim: CBS-TV's "Hamlet" pulled a respectable 15.4 Trendex Tuesday night. Hubbell Robinson, vice-president in charge of network programs at CBS-TV, estimates the Shakespeare play reached 22 million viewers.

General Motors will sponsor eight Art Carney specials next fall, four of them dramatic shows, the others revues or variety shows — no network has been picked yet. Burgess Meredith will narrate CBS-TV's March 28 special, "The Human Comedy," with Jo Van Fleet a likely choice for one of the leads.

Barbara Bain has checked out of the cast of CBS-TV's Richard Diamond after making five episodes. CBS-TV's The Last Word, scheduled to be axed after March 15, has gotten a reprieve through the summer. Negotiations between Milton Berle and Kraft, which called for Berle to do six NBC-TV specials next fall, fell through Wednesday because of money.

Jackie Cooper has joined Genevieve in the cast of the premiere of the NBC-TV Florence Henderson-Bill Hayes Music Theater show March 26. Johnny Desmond takes off for Hollywood after this Friday's CBS-TV Your Hit Parade to film a CBS-TV Desilu Playhouse, "A Diamond For Carla," which also will star Anna Marie Alberghetti. ABC-TV is plotting a spectacular that would star the Three Stooges.

Legislature Adopts Bill For Oldtown

County Will Pay $838 Support For Fire Company Unit

After concurrence on amendments to a bill directing the Allegany County Commissioners to pay $838.40 toward the support of the Oldtown Volunteer Fire Company the measure was adopted at the General Assembly.

The measure, Senate Bill 223, was sponsored by State Senator Charles M. See.

The bill was amended by the Allegany County Delegation to delete a $150 contribution to the Chapel Hill Hose Company, a social group.

Senator See said Del. Fred B. Driscoll, delegation chairman, reported the amendment was made in response to a suggestion that the Chapel Hill contribution be cut out, as it is no longer in existence.

The organization went out, Senator See said, when Nelson W. Russler died.

The legislators made no change in the $150 contribution to the Cumberland Hose Company, whose former quarters are used by the Cumberland Auxiliary Police unit.

Deletion of the Chapel Hill contribution brings the total the county is directed to pay the several volunteer fire companies to $22,813.40.

Two other fire company bills may be acted on during the current session of the Assembly.

The first is a bill to create a special taxing area for fire protection in election districts served by the LaVale Volunteer Fire Company and to allow a tax of not more than 10 cents on each $100 assessed valuation of property to finance the company.

The proposal would be put up to the voters in the districts in a referendum 90 days after June 1, when the bill would become effective.

The Allegany County Delegation, which is sponsoring the bill, has received endorsements.

Francis Fatkin, president of the Allegany-Garrett Volunteer Firemen's Association, wrote he had contacted 10 companies and all approved.

It was endorsed by the LaVale Civic Association in a letter from Lloyd Buchanan, president, according to Del. Fred B. Driscoll, chairman of the Delegation.

The other bill is one sent down by the City of Cumberland to the Allegany County Delegation, requesting that the county contribute toward the support of the Cumberland Fire Department a sum equal to aid to volunteer fire companies.

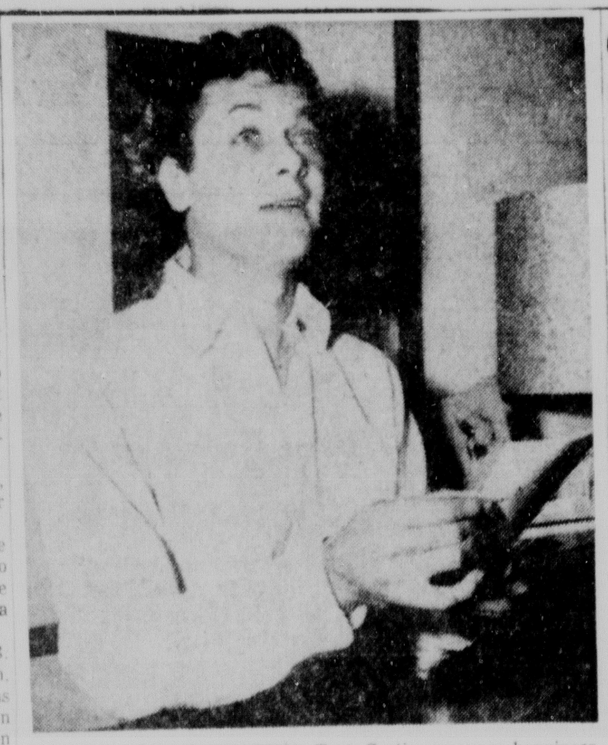

The plan was placed in the hands of the Allegany County Delegation Monday after city and county officials disagreed, and City Attorney William R. Carscaden said the "delegation must take a stand."

So far as is known, the bill has not been introduced.

State Senator Charles M. See said last night he "will not legislatively referee differences between the City of Cumberland and the County Commissioners."

Program For Health Work Discussed Here

Edward V. Graef, executive director of the Health Research and Services Foundation of Allegheny County, Pa., who was the speaker at the County United Fund dinner last night, met with local doctors and community leaders earlier to advise them on the operation of a single, local health foundation to cover all diseases.

Graef told the CUF workers attending the dinner at Cumberland Country Club last night that "communities are no longer interested in wooing health agencies into United Funds." He said the Health Purpose Foundation which has been created by the CUF to serve the total needs of the area in the health field "is the right step in the right direction."

Graef, who helped to organize the first local health foundation in the United States while serving as United Fund executive director in Durham, N. C., was introduced by Ort.

"United Funds are now moving in a new direction," he declared. "As far as health agencies are concerned, United Funds are interested in developing a better product—one that will do a much better job in the field of medical research; a far superior job in the field of health education; a much finer job of providing medical services to people who need those services."

The speaker traced the history of United Funds from their origin in Detroit in 1948, where business men and labor leaders became annoyed at the number of fund campaigns conducted in their plants, and where the Ford Motor Company discovered it was costing $40,000 in lost time and production each time a fund campaign took place in Ford installations.

"Business, labor and other community leaders then asked themselves, 'Why can't this situation be corrected?'," Mr. Graef said, "just as they are now asking themselves, 'Why do we need a separate health agency for every disease?' "

He declared that "in the beginning, the national health agencies gave hope to the business and labor leaders who organized United Funds. The American Heart Association joined in some four or five hundred campaigns. The American Cancer Society joined in some three or four hundred campaigns. Tuberculosis joined. Crippled Children joined.

"Then," he continued, "confusion developed. National policies restrained local health groups from accepting money from United Funds in some places, while in others they were permitted to participate. And finally, although United Funds included 'cause' money for health agencies in their successful campaigns year after year, the time arrived when nearly all of the health agencies refused to accept the money."

Graef then traced the studies made by various communities of the operations of health agencies, "most of which," he declared, "can render very little service because of their top-heavy organizational setups.

"So long as you have one separate health agency for every disease," he stated, "then you are going to have an organizational setup that simply eats up the money and uses it for purposes other than for what the people thought it had been contributed."

Graef said that there are now more than 100 national health agencies, "each with its own executive and office and staff, and each hoping that it will become as big and strong as heart, cancer and polio, with separate chapters in each and every community, each with its own office, its own executive and its own staff."

The CUF volunteer workers then heard Mr. Graef declare: "This, to your community leaders, is the last straw!"

"But," he concluded, "most important of all, your community leaders are taking a long, hard look at what their relationship will be with more than 100 health agencies already in existence at the national level—agencies that are not yet established in your local community, but all of which want to move in, and will move in—unless your community leaders cling to their plans for a single, local health foundation to cover all diseases."

William C. Walsh, former circuit court and court of appeals judge and attorney general of Maryland, was elected president of the CUF organization.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of my dear Mother, Annie O'Donnell, who passed away Feb. 28, 1944.
You left a beautiful memory,
A sorrow too great to be told;
But to one who has loved and lost you
Your memory will never grow old.
Daughter,
RUTH DURKIN.

In beloved memory of our Mother and wife Mary M. Metz, who passed away three years ago today, February 26, 1956.
We often sit and think of her,
When we are all alone,
For memory is the only friend
That grief can call its own.
Like Ivy on the withered oak,
When all other things decay.
Our love for her will still keep green
And never fade away.
Sadly missed by
HUSBAND AND CHILDREN.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of my dear Mother, Annie O'Donnell, who passed away Feb. 26, 1944.
You left a beautiful memory,
A sorrow too great to be told;
But to one who has loved and lost you
Your memory will never grow old.
Daughter,
RUTH DURKIN.

In beloved memory of our Mother and wife Mary M. Metz, who passed away three years ago today, February 26, 1956.
We often sit and think of her,
When we are all alone,
For memory is the only friend
That grief can call its own.
Like ivy on the withered oak,
When all other things decay,
Our love for her will still keep green
And never fade away.
Sadly missed by
HUSBAND AND CHILDREN.

Dear Abby - - -

—By Abigail Van Buren—

DEAR ABBY: When the lights go out I like to give my wife a bedtime kiss. Did you ever kiss a woman with her teeth out? Well, that's my problem. I can tell you it isn't very much fun. She used to wear her teeth to bed but lately she takes them out because she says they hurt her. I tell her to go get them fixed but she says they don't bother her that much. Be a pal, Abby, and help me out.

NOT SATISFIED.

DEAR NOT: Cajole, threaten or bribe but get the little woman to the dentist who made her dentures. A tiny bit of adjusting can make a whale of a difference in your domestic relations.

DEAR ABBY: I am too ashamed to sign my name to this letter but I hope you will print it in the paper because I need an answer and I don't know where to turn. My eleven-year-old son is getting to be a very clever thief. I give him a generous allowance and if he'd ask for anything extra he would get it, but he seems to enjoy stealing. He steals from his friends, the grocer, the druggist and he will even go into my purse and steal money. I see things in his drawer I know he didn't buy. I've threatened to take him to the police station to frighten him but nothing helps. Oh, Abby, am I raising a criminal? Please help a broken-hearted mother.

BROKEN-HEARTED.

DEAR BROKEN-HEARTED: A child who steals merely for the thrill of stealing should get professional help. He can be straightened out if he is taken in hand early. Threatening him with punishment by law is unwise. A policeman should be identified as a friend whose duty it is to protect us and our property—not as an enemy who takes pleasure in punishing our wrongdoing. Ask your family doctor whom to see.

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a wife who comes home with an expensive item like a dress or handbag and announces, "This is my Christmas present from you." Sometimes it's "my anniversary present" or "my birthday present" or some other special-day present. In the sixteen years that we have been married I haven't been able to buy her one gift because she beats me to it by three months. As an excuse she says she wants to make sure she gets something she likes. I resent it. What can I do about it? HENPECKED.

DEAR HENPECKED: If you've been "henpecked" in this manner for sixteen years, I'd say you were a pretty dumb cluck. Tell the little shopper that the next "gift" she buys herself she will have to pay for or return.

DEAR ABBY: My husband is always the "life of the party" but he will be the death of me. He will do anything to get a laugh, including putting a lampshade on his head and doing the "hootchie-kootchie" dance. I am the quiet type and hate to see him make a fool of himself. How can I get him to be more dignified? He is almost 50 and ought to know better.

EMBARRASSED.

DEAR EMBARRASSED: If your husband enjoys himself and reason to feel that he is "making a fool" of himself. Let him have a good time.

For a personal reply, write to ABBY in care of this paper. Enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION
ANNE DELLINGER SMITH and ROBERT SMITH III, her husband, Cromwell Street, Luke, Maryland, CHARLES E. DELLINGER, S.JR., and DOROTHY S. DELLINGER, his wife, 3725 Connecticut Avenue, Washington, D.C., RICHARD B. DELLINGER and NAOMI HARRIETT DELLINGER, his wife, Bloomington, Maryland, COMPLAINANTS, VS. MARTHA B. DELLINGER, unmarried, 1629 Columbia Road, N.W., Apartment No. 317, Washington, D.C., RESPONDENT.
No. 25482 Equity in the Circuit Court for Allegany County, State of Maryland.
The object of this suit is to procure a Decree for the Sale of certain Real Estate located in the Town of Westernport, in Allegany County, Maryland, which is owned by the heirs at law of Anna Bruce Dellinger, late of Allegany County, Maryland, who died intestate.
The Bill states that Anna Bruce Dellinger, late of Allegany County, Maryland, died intestate on the first day of August, 1957, seized and possessed of Lots Numbers Three (3) and Four (4), and a strip of land of even width lying in the rear thereof, as laid out on the Plat of Gannon's Addition to the Town of Westernport, Maryland, in Allegany County, as improved by a large Brick Dwelling thereon, and which property was devised unto her by the Last Will and Testament of her husband, Charles E. Dellinger, dated February 24, 1926, and probated on June 14, 1940, in the office of the Register of Wills of Allegany County, Maryland, in Will Book "S", Page 583. That Ten (10) feet of the West side of Lot No. 3, described in said Bill adjoining the property of Norris Bruce et ux., has been conveyed by the parties of interest therein unto Norris Bruce and Marie Bruce, his wife, by deed dated December 7th, 1957. That Anna Bruce Dellinger died intestate on August 1, 1957, and left surviving her as her only heirs at law four children, namely, Anne C. Dellinger, who married Robert Smith, III, Charles E. Dellinger who married Dorothy S. Dellinger, Richard B. Dellinger, who married Naomi Harriett Dellinger, and Martha B. Dellinger, who is divorced, all of whom are adults and the Respondent, Martha B. Dellinger is a non-resident of the State of Maryland.
The Bill further states that the real estate described therein is valued at approximately Ten Thousand Dollars and that the partition of said land and dwelling is not susceptible to partition in kind, and the property should be sold and the proceeds distributed among the parties in interest according to their respective interests of an undivided one-fourth interest to each heir.
IT IS THEREUPON this 17th day of February, 1959, ordered by the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland, in Equity, that the Complainants by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper published in Allegany County, Maryland, once in each of four successive weeks before the 18th day of March, 1959, give notice to the said absent Respondent of the object and substance of this Bill, warning her to appear in this Court in person or by Solicitor, on or before the 3rd day of April, 1959, next, to show cause, if any she has, why a Decree ought not to be passed as prayed.

Dear Abby - - -

—By Abigail Van Buren—

DEAR ABBY: When the lights go out I like to give my wife a bedtime kiss. Did you ever kiss a woman with her teeth out? Well, that's my problem. I can tell you it isn't very much fun. She used to wear her teeth to bed but lately she takes them out because she says they hurt her. I tell her to go get them fixed but she says they don't bother her that much. Be a pal, Abby, and help me out.

NOT SATISFIED.

DEAR NOT: Cajole, threaten or bribe but get the little woman to the dentist who made her dentures. A tiny bit of adjusting can make a whale of a difference in your domestic relations.

DEAR ABBY: I am too ashamed to sign my name to this letter but I hope you will print it in the paper because I need an answer and I don't know where to turn. My eleven-year-old son is getting to be a very clever thief. I give him a generous allowance and if he'd ask for anything extra he would get it, but he seems to enjoy stealing. He steals from his friends, the grocer, the druggist and he will even go into my purse and steal money. I see things in his drawer I know he didn't buy. I've threatened to take him to the police station to frighten him but nothing helps. Oh, Abby, am I raising a criminal? Please help a broken-hearted mother.

BROKEN-HEARTED.

DEAR BROKEN-HEARTED: A child who steals merely for the thrill of stealing should get professional help. He can be straightened out if he is taken in hand early. Threatening him with punishment by law is unwise. A policeman should be identified as a friend whose duty it is to protect us and our property—not as an enemy who takes pleasure in punishing our wrongdoing. Ask your family doctor whom to see.

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a wife who comes home with an expensive item like a dress or handbag and announces, "This is my Christmas present from you." Sometimes it's "my anniversary present" or "my birthday present" or some other special-day present. In the sixteen years that we have been married I haven't been able to buy her one gift because she beats me to it by three months. As an excuse she says she wants to make sure she gets something she likes. I resent it. What can I do about it? HENPECKED.

DEAR HENPECKED: If you've been "henpecked" in this manner for sixteen years, I'd say you were a pretty dumb cluck. Tell the little shopper that the next "gift" she buys herself she will have to pay for or return.

DEAR ABBY: My husband is always the "life of the party" but he will be the death of me. He will do anything to get a laugh, including putting a lampshade on his head and doing the "hootchie-kootchie" dance. I am the quiet type and hate to see him make a fool of himself. How can I get him to be more dignified? He is almost 50 and ought to know better.

EMBARRASSED.

DEAR EMBARRASSED: If your husband enjoys himself and reason to feel that he is "making reason to fee lthat he "making a fool" of himself. Let him have a good time.

For a personal reply, write to ABBY in care of this paper. Enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

ANNE DELLINGER SMITH and ROBERT SMITH III, her husband, Cromwell Street, Luke, Maryland, CHARLES E. DELLINGER JR., and DOROTHY S. DELLINGER, his wife, 2725 Connecticut Avenue, Washington, D.C., RICHARD B. DELLINGER and NAOMI HARRIETT DELLINGER, his wife, Bloomington, Maryland, COMPLAINANTS, VS. MARTHA B. DELLINGER, unmarried, 1629 Columbia Road, N.W., Apartment No. 317, Washington, D.C., RESPONDENT.

No. 25482 Equity in the Circuit Court for Allegany County, State of Maryland.

The object of this suit is to procure a Decree for the Sale of certain Real Estate located in the Town of Westernport, in Allegany County, Maryland, which is owned by the heirs at law of Anna Bruce Dellinger, late of Allegany County, Maryland, who died intestate.

The Bill states that Anna Bruce Dellinger, late of Allegany County, Maryland, died intestate on the first day of August, 1957, seized and possessed of Lots Numbers Three (3) and Four (4), and a strip of land of even width lying in the rear thereof, as laid out on the Plat of Gannon's Addition to the Town of Westernport, Maryland, in Allegany County, as improved by a large Brick Dwelling thereon, and which property was devised unto her by the Last Will and Testament of her husband, Charles E. Dellinger, dated February 24, 1926, and probated on June 14, 1940, in the office of the Register of Wills of Allegany County, Maryland, in Will Book "S", Page 583. That Ten (10) feet of the West side of Lot No. 3, described in said Bill adjoining the property of Norris Bruce et ux., has been conveyed by the parties of interest therein unto Norris Bruce and Marie Bruce, his wife, by deed dated December 7th, 1957. That Anna Bruce Dellinger died intestate on August 1, 1957, and left surviving her as her only heirs at law four children, namely, Anne C. Dellinger, who married Robert Smith, III, Charles E. Dellinger who married Dorothy S. Dellinger, Richard B. Dellinger, who married Naomi Harriett Dellinger, and Martha B. Dellinger, who is divorced, all of whom are adults and the Respondent, Martha B. Dellinger is a non-resident of the State of Maryland.

The Bill further states that the real estate described therein is valued at approximately Ten Thousand Dollars and that the partition of said land and dwelling is not susceptible to partition in kind, and the property should be sold and the proceeds distributed among the parties in interest according to their respective interests of an undivided one-fourth interest to each heir.

IT IS THEREUPON this 17th day of February, 1959, ordered by the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland, in Equity, that the Complainants by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper published in Allegany County, Maryland, once in each of four successive weeks before the 18th day of March, 1959, give notice to the said absent Respondent of the object and substance of this Bill, warning her to appear in this Court in person or by Solicitor, on or before the 3rd day of April, 1959, next, to show cause, if any she has, why a Decree ought not to be passed as prayed.

MAY 22 to JUNE 21 (Gemini)—Prospects indicated by Mercury this day are excellent. Strive hard, don't lose sight of objectives, and good results should be forthcoming. Be your loving, persuasible self.

JUNE 22 to JULY 23 (Cancer)—Planetary influences encourage all worthwhile matters. You can do well in your occupation and other interests, too. Go after things cheerfully and with a will to win.

JULY 24 to AUGUST 23 (Leo)—You may have to pay for previous neglectfulness, work harder to get over the "rough spots." Be calm, don't rush, keep a steady gait and you will eliminate mistakes and increase gains.

AUGUST 24 to SEPTEMBER 23 (Virgo)—Strong influences for fine progress. If you follow your better impulses. Small perplexities should not be difficult to handle if you are true to your better self. Artistic pursuits favored.

NOVEMBER 23 to DECEMBER 21 (Sagittarius)—You are heading for a "mixed" day tomorrow, so make all the progress possible now. Plan well to counteract any unsatisfactory influences that may arise.

DECEMBER 22 to JANUARY 20 (Capricorn)—Get as much done as possible in the A. M. Afternoon influences are more restrictive; will cause delays.

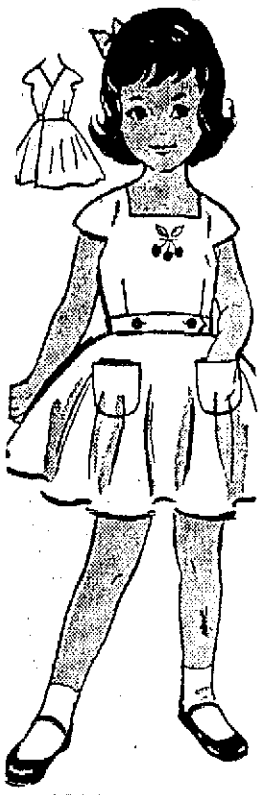

JANUARY 21 to FEBRUARY 19 (Aquarius)—Do only as much as reason allows. If you set too strenuous a pace you will exhaust energies. Stop to think, review procedures. Can you cut some of the red tape?

FEBRUARY 20 to MARCH 20 (Pisces)—Day is receptive to smart plans and a quick but sensible course of action in your work and in any worthwhile undertaking in which you must take part. Be ambitious but reasonable, however.

YOU BORN TODAY are a willing giver, both wisely and unwisely. You do not mind ingratitude; are only sorry you cannot do more for people. Honest in intent, you do not anticipate dishonesty. There's high intelligence here; branch out occasionally; don't hesitate to wish for better methods. Control inattentiveness.

Lucille F. Warner, Executrix of the Estate of Anna B. Wagner, deceased, vs. Vera Lamp, 33 El Medio Street, Ventura, California, Lucille F. Warner, RFD 2, York, Pennsylvania, et al. In the Orphans' Court for Allegany County, Maryland.

The object of this proceeding is to procure the appointment of a Trustee to make sale of a parcel of real estate hereinafter to be determined by the Court, for the purpose satisfying the debts and settling the estate of the said Anna B. Wagner, deceased.

The petition states that Lucille F. Warner heretofore qualified as Executrix of said estate; that there are in sufficient personal assets to satisfy the debts of said estate; that the said Anna B. Wagner died seized and possessed of several parcels of real property located in Cumberland, Allegany County, Maryland; that it is necessary to order to settle this estate and pay the debts thereof, it will be necessary to sell a parcel of said real property.

It is thereupon, by the Orphans' Court for Allegany County, Maryland, ordered this 3rd day of February, 1959, that Lucille F. Warner, Testatrix of the estate of Anna B. Wagner, by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in some daily newspaper published in the City of Cumberland, Maryland, once a week for four successive weeks prior to the 10th day of March, 1959, give notice to the non-resident devisees of the late Anna B. Wagner, of the object and substance of this Petition, warning them to be and appear in this Court, in person or by Solicitor, on or before the 17th day of March, to show cause, if any they may have, why a decree should not be passed as prayed.

No Diamond Bid Needed

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

South has a perfectly normal opening no-trump and almost any two players will land at three no-trump with the North - South hands.

The right way to get there is the simple way. North should raise directly to the no-trump game. He does have a good five-card diamond suit but there is no reason for him to bid it. Why fool around with an 11-trick contract when you have a hand that will do just as well at a nine-trick level?

Pass	Pass

Opening lead—♠ 5

The slam-bang player will make four no-trump quickly and easily. He will win East's ten of clubs with his queen and run off five diamond tricks, one spade, two hearts and two clubs for a total of ten.

In duplicate the expert will do the same except maybe he will work out some sort of endplay or pseudo-squeeze and make five-odd. In rubber bridge the expert will only make three-odd.

Here's how the expert will lose a trick. He will win the first club and play a diamond to the ace. Then the expert will lead a low diamond from dummy. He has seen such things as a 4-1 suit break and since four diamond tricks will give him his game he will use this safely play in order to ensure his contract.

What do you do?

A—Bid four no-trump. This must be Blackwood and if your partner shows as many as two aces you will bid six spades. There should be a good play for it because he has shown a maximum two no-trump and good spades. If he shows three aces you will still bid six spades only.
